TWO ARE COMPANY. There's a little nock I know In a garden quaint and old, Where the young folk often go, And tales of love are told;

And I softly steal away
When I see them lingering there,
For it's just as true to day As when I was young and fair-True as aught beneath the sun; "Two are company, three are none !"

And in that little nook Sometimes I love to stay. And down the years I look To a time long passed away, When a lover proud and true Lingered ever by my side,

That the world held aught beside

Just ourselves beneath the sun.

And neither of us knew

Selegt Tale.

When two were company, three were none.
