Poetry. To-Morrow.

High hopes that burned like stars sublime, Go down the heavens of freedom, And true hearts perish in the time We bitterliest need them. Bat never sit we down and say, There's nothing left but sorrow;

Our birds of song are silent now, There are no flowers blooming— But life beats in the frozen bough, And freedom's Spring is coming; And freedom's tide comes up alway, Though we may stand in sorrow. and our good barque, aground to day, Shall float again to-morrow.

We walk the wilderness to-day,

The promised land to-morrow.

Our hearts o'er the past, our eyes With smiling features glisten; Lo! now its dawn bursts up the sky-Lean out your souls and listen. The earth rolls freedom's radiant way, And ripens with our serrow; and 'en the martyrdem to day Brings victory to-morrow

Tis weary watching wave by wave,

And yet the tide heaves onward, We climb, like carols, grave by grave, We're beaten back in many a fray Yet newer strength we borrow, And where our vanguard rests to-day
Our rear shall rest to-morrow.

The earth was wet with blood and tears,
Ere their meek sufferings ended.
The few shall not forever sway
The many toil in sorrow;
The bars of hell are strong to day,
But Christ shall reign to-morrow.
