Dec. 22, 1890.

Accidents will happen, and the more sudden and fatal the greater the shock and grief. To-day, Clarence Wright, aged fifteen, son of Frank Wright of this place, was killed in the following manner: Mr. Wright is lumbering about eight miles back of here, for J. S. Leighton, on what is known as the Fraser land. Clarence has been in the woods assisting his father about the camp. About nine o'clock this morning as he was watching one of the men fall a tree, a long rotten poplar stub broke off, and in falling struck him on the back of the head, crushing and tearing the skull in a horrible manner and pinning him fast in the snow. He was immediately released and raised by two men standing near him, who by only a few feet escaped the same fate, but life was even then extinct. It is supposed the jar of the tree falling caused the rotten stub also to fall. Mr. Wright and his wife, who is step-mother to the boy killed, have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

On the closing day of our school for the Christmas vacation the usual public examination was held. Of the visitors present all evinced an apparent interest in the exercises of the day. In general the pupils have made undoubted thorough and rapid progress during the past term. The teacher, Miss Edith Hume, of Lakeville, proved herself to be a thorough and efficient teacher in every respect, and the opinion of her scholars may be gleaned from the fact that she was presented by them with a handsome toilet set of many dollars value. Much to the regret of many of the parents and all of the pupils here, Miss Hume has resigned her school here, having accepted a more lucrative position in the town of Woodstock.

A few days ago Mr. James Miller learned of the death of his brother, Capt. Alexander Miller, in California, by falling off the deck of his vessel and dislocating his neck.

Col. W. T. Baird is convalescing from his late serious illness.

Dec. 23, 1890.

Weather cold, bright, pleasant.

Quite a number from this neighborhood visited Woodstock on Friday for the purpose of hearing Rev. Sam Small lecture.

Mr. W. J. Donnett, late of Lewiston Me., passed through here the other day en route for Edmundston, where he has obtained a situation with one of the business men of that place.

Mr. L. E. McFarland is purchasing potatoes for the U. S. market. Remunerative prices are being paid.

The McKinley bill does not seem to have hurt the poultry trade here any; better prices are being paid than ever before and turkeys are being shipped in large quantities both dead and alive.

Rev. G. W. McDonald of Woodstock, has been engaged by the Reformed Baptist Church as pastor. He will preach morning and evening once a fortnight in Mattheson's Hall. This body intend erecting a place of worship in the near future.

Rev. Abner McNinch has left to take charge of the F. C. B. Church, Sussex.

There will be a concert given by the Centreville Band, and another by the Reformed Baptist School in G. R. Burr's new hall. Dates for the first not yet fixed, but probably on New Year's eve; the latter is to be on New Year's night.

As there will only be one issue of your paper before the 1st January we take this opportunity of wishing you Messrs. Editors, and all your subscribers a very happy New Year.

Centreville Schools.

The terminal examination of Miss Johnston's department was held the forenoon of the 18th inst. The various grades were tested on the chief subjects of the "course," by the teacher and Hon. G. W. White. Bright and accurate answers to questions, which in some schools would pass to those about to graduate, must be most satisfactory and praiseworthy to teacher, pupils and parents.

In the afternoon Mr. Benn's department was examined in Grammar, Algebra, Arithmetic, History of the World, and Elocution. Rev. J. E. Fiewelling's letter, expressing regret at not being able to be present, was read, and his set of prize questions were written on the board. Eugene Clark captured the teacher's cash reward, for the quickest and most correct work in the seventh and eighth grades, arithmetic and floor drill. The winners of Government prizes were as follows: 1st, Wm. Estabrooke, a fine padded morocco book; 2nd, Fred. Gibson, a fine book; 3rd, Miss Lena Sherwood, elegant plush dressing case. Six private prizes furnished by L. B. Clark, Esq., Secretary, and Hon. Mr. White, were awarded to the following: Ruthie Reid, Elsie Brandson, Ruel McClintock, Eugene Clark, Linnie Scholey and Roy Lee. All were presented by Hon. Mr. White in his usual happy style. Speeches were made by Dr. Gregory, H. T. Scholey, Esq., and others. Next Mr. White in a most elaborate speech presented the teacher with a beautiful and costly plush shaving set, from the pupils. The recipient was so moved that he could scarce reply, but concluded by saying that he hoped the work done the past year would live and exert a force for the elevation of humanity when he was forgotten, when these happy days were forgotten, when all were forgotten.

It is with sadness we report the empty chair of one of the Board of Trustees, because of a new filled grave last week, which closed school for a time. All who knew the late Mr. West will affirm that he was one who was ever ready at the call of duty since the first settlement of this place to do what he could; and to-day he occupies an unsullied, undying place in the bright pages of admiration, love and respect.—Pax.

Dr. Julian J. Chisholm, of Baltimore, by inspecting the Babylonish cylinders in the British museum, has discovered that the street costume of the society women who lived 2,300 years before Christ was very similar to the costume worn by the ladies of to-day down to the tight-fitting waist and sleeves and the accordion clinging skirt.

HON. MR. LAURIER, in his speech at St. John, said:—

I would not be surprised if next session or before the next election you would see the whole government burning with anxiety to grasp our policy and going back to unrestricted reciprocity, which is now our programme. I have only to say, said Mr. Laurier, that the very moment Sir John Macdonald will take up our policy he will have the whole support of my party. We have the prosperity of our country at heart, and such a policy is for the prosperity of our country. I do not believe reciprocity free and unrestricted would be disadvantageous to the manufacturers of this country. It would not of course be advantageous to the monopolists, but it would be of immense advantage to the farmers on one hand and not injurious to the manufacturers on the other hand, and if I have to choose between the two I say it here that my choice is already made and I stand by the farmers of the country. Why? Because there is no prosperity when the agricultural industry of a country is depressed, and if you want successful manufacturers then you must have a prosperous farming population and therefore my choice.

The Victoria County Election.

Before His Honor, Mr. Justice Tuck, at Chambers, Wednesday morning, 17th, the matter of the Victoria election, Straton petitioner and Porter respondent, came up. The parties were represented by Solicitor General Pagsley and George F. Gregory, Esq. Mr. Gregory secured a summons calling upon the petitioners against Mr. Porter to show cause on the 24th instant, why more definite particulars should not be given of the alleged corrupt acts; and also why the petitioner should not be restricted on trial to the proof of only such matters as he had definitely referred to. Mr. J. H. Barry, the attorney for the petitioner, was served with this summons Thursday.—Fredericton Globe.

Railway Receipts.

The traffic earnings of the C. P. R. from December 1 to December 7, 1890, were $355,000, as compared with $330,000 for the corresponding period of 1889, being an increase of $25,000. The earnings of the New Brunswick railway are included in both years.

The return of traffic on the Grand Trunk railway for the week ending December 6, 1890, was as follows: Total passenger and freight earnings, $371,082, as compared with $381,236 for the corresponding period of last year, or a decrease of $10,154 for this year.

it will become a law, because there are a number of Republican Senators who will, it is generally believed, vote for a substitute, which the Democrats will certainly offer for the caucus bill, providing for free and unlimited silver coinage. Another tangle in the financial skein is the well-known opposition of Speaker Reed to free coinage. If there is a compromise, whereby everything short of free coinage is accepted by the silver men, as many, in fact most people believe there will be, it will be caused by the knowledge that no bill, under the present rules, can get through the House with the determined opposition of the Speaker, and not by any fear of a Presidential veto, although Mr. Harrison has almost openly threatened one in case a free coinage bill should be passed.

Representative Pierce, of Tennessee, who is an enthusiastic member of the Farmers' Alliance, and who wears by the St. Louis and Omaha platforms, believes that the treasury bill should be openly disposed of by the House, and not quietly pigeonholed by the committee on Ways and Means; therefore he has offered a resolution in the House directing that committee to report the bill to the House by Monday, Jan. 5, the following Monday to be fixed for its consideration. Mr. Pierce has little hope that his resolution will be adopted, but thinks it will have a good effect as a feeler of pulses.

The big fight which had been for months predicted to take place in the House over the apportionment bill, did not occur. There was no occasion for it, as the bill, which was unanimously reported from the committee on the Census, which contains such rock-bound Democrats as Representative Holman, was as fair and free from partisanship as any similar bill ever passed by Congress. The Democrats however made the short debate quite a lively one, by attacking the accuracy of the Census, and Superintendent Porter's methods, and the Republicans stoutly defended both. Representative Spinola, of New York, was the only speaker who descended to vituperation. He said that Secretary Noble's letter to Gov. Hill was a blackguard, impudent letter, unworthy to emanate from any one calling himself a gentleman. No opposition is expected to the bill in the Senate.

No regrets are expressed by Senators or Representatives from the Northwest at the news of the killing of Sitting Bull.

The Citizens' National Alliance, a secret organization composed of the residents of the cities who sympathize with the aims of Farmers' Alliance, is to establish headquarters and a newspaper organ in this city. Prominent Knights of Labor are pushing the new organization.

Next week a joint committee will try to find out something about the purchase of American industries by English syndicates. Among those summoned to testify are Mr. Pillsbury of the Minneapolis Flour Mills, and Frank Jones and J. V. Hawson, of the Portsmouth, N. H., Breweries.

It now looks as if the election bill would become a law, as a Republican caucus has decided that the rules shall be changed as soon as the new silver bill which is to be taken up next week, is disposed of.

Strange, if True.

The following, if true, illustrates strangely the want of thought or of intelligence of a practical kind at an important crisis:—

At an informal reception held after Mr. Henry M. Stanley's lecture in Soranton the other evening, a gentleman remarked to the explorer: "One of the things in your book, 'In Darkest Africa,' that interested me most was your vivid account of the sufferings of your party in 'Starvation Camp,' but one thing I never could understand. When your men were dying for want of food, why didn't they fish, since they were so near the river?" Mr. Stanley's face was a study. He looked at his questioner as if dazed by a blow. "Why," he exclaimed, and then hesitated in evident surprise and consternation for several moments; "why, I don't believe any one ever thought of it!" His questioner thereupon suggested that the next time he formed an exploring party he should take a Yankee with him.

Sitting Bull Killed.

The killing of Sitting Bull may or may not lead to a general uprising among the rest of the Indian tribes in the United States, but latest reports are not favorable to a peaceful solution of affairs. The American idea that a "good Indian is a dead Indian" seems to be still the highest policy of the greatest officials in the country, and everything is done to exasperate the savage so that the shooting can begin and good Indians are made wholesale by the American soldiers' bullet. This is cruel and ungenerous treatment, of the original possessors of the soil, and a disgrace to the enlightenment of a great nation and civilized government. But it looks as if the "shooting" was not going to be all on one side. If the despatches are true, in the first real brush, the American regulars have fared worse than did our Canadian volunteers in the Riel rebellion, and their loss in killed alone is more than the Canadian forces suffered in all of their engagements, and they had just as good shots and as brave men to fight. If this war is to be one of extermination, then the American Government can count upon a pretty big butcher's bill and the expenditure of millions of hard cash. Had the treaty with the Indians been faithfully carried out there would have been no need to kill Sitting Bull or his braves.—Star.

A Strange Request.

The Viceroy of India, Lord Lansdowne, has recently had a strange and embarrassing request made to him. Several years ago the temple of the Jaini sect of Gwalior was broken into by Brahmins, and the image of the god whom the sect worshipped destroyed. The Jains believe that since then they have been without a god, and unable therefore to carry on any religious ceremonies, including marriage. They have a new image, but they hold that it will not become a god unless taken in a procession through the streets. For four years they have been applying to the Gwalior Government for leave to hold this procession, but the request has invariably been refused. Now they ask the viceroy to instruct his agent in Central India to bring pressure to bear on the local government to allow the ceremony to take place, and they offer to pay for the extra police force needed to maintain the public peace on that occasion. Lord Lansdowne's reply has not yet been made public.

45 Days Without Food.

New York, Dec. 21.—Sig. Suoci, the Italian, has accomplished a most wonderful feat. He has succeeded in doing what no human being ever did before—living for 45 days without having partaken of food or nourishment. This beats by five days the great starvation record of the noted Dr. Tanner, who, when he performed his feat, was pronounced to be the most wonderful of men. And Suoci has done this in spite of the fact that he has a constitution weakened by a repetition of such events, having during his lifetime fasted about two and a half years. This, in the eyes of the medical fraternity, is all the more wonderful on account of the above apparently tremendous handicap.

Suoci has occupied the chief attention of the people and papers of New York during the last 45 days and has been the subject of columns and columns of articles abundantly illustrated. So great has become the craze about him in New York that on last Sunday 8,000 people paid 50 cents each for the privilege of seeing him. The seats had to be removed from the hall and many were turned away.

No Need for Alarm.

The Kennebec Journal says:—

The beauty of selling considerably more than we buy abroad is being illustrated pretty sharply in the financial world just now. England owes us $30,000,000 gold, and it happens that the time has come when we need it in our business, and are going to get it unless the Bank of England suspends specie payments—a step it is not at all likely to take.
