Clear the Way. Men of thought, be up and stirring Night and day; Sow the seed; withdraw the curtain; Clear the way; Men of action, aid and cheer them As ye may.

There's a fount about to stream;

There's a light about to beam; There's a warmth about to glow; There's a flower about to blow; There's a midnight blackness changing
Into gray.

Men of thought and men of action.

Once the welcome light has broken, Who shall say, What the unimagined glories

What the evil that shall perish It its ray! Aid the dawning, tongue and pen; Aid it hopes of honest men; Aid it pen and aid it type; Aid it, for the hour is ripe; And our earnest must not slacken

Insects Destroying Timber.

Morgantown, W. Va., July 23.—The West Virginia Agricultural Experiment station at this place has just issued a bulletin report on the black spruce forests of the State, which cover 800 square miles of territory.

It deals especially with the terrible destruction inflicted by insects, by which many thousands of acres of what was once valuable and handsome timber, particularly along the sides of Cheat Mountains, is now a dry, dreary and withered waste. The insects have been found to be the destructive Scolylard, published in thirty-five countries and in fifteen languages. The Army has made particular progress in India.
