The Apple Question. To the Editors of the Carleton Sentinel: "X" having furnished me with his rea "X" having furnished me with his real name, I am at liberty to reply to his objections to my statements relating to the apple trade. As his letter covers more ground than that outlined in my article, and as I wish to be as brief as possible, I will, at this time, discuss the apple question only, with, perhaps, a passing reference to other fruite.

"X" thinks I made a great mistake and attributes it to my quoting market prices of their charge, as they taught the sacred truths of the lessons. We believe this school will be productive of great good; the seed sown will spring forth and grow and bear fruit, thirty, sixty and a hundred fold.

Paradise Lodge still lives and flourishes; it has a large attendance each night and interesting meetings. It is composed of members who attributes it to my quoting market prices of the St. John Sun. He says, further, that "the Sun is a very poor source from which to get reliable information;" "$3.50 for apples in St. John, 80 cents in Woodstock," eays "X" scornfully. What an absurdity How ridiculous, how reckless to parade such as a large attendance each night and interesting meetings. It is composed of members who believe in advancement and who are determined to make it a power for good. Its opponents predicted that ere this it would have come to naught, but hitherto they are proven false prophets; it lives and will live (we trust,) till the millenimum (Prohibition,) is ushered in; when rum-selling, drunkenness and intemperance are an extravagant statement before the eyes of men so well posted in market prices as "X," things of the past.

ley bill. Nor can I discern in what respect unrestricted reciprocity would be beneficial to our county and country in fostering and expanding so important an industry as the apple and small fruit trade, when I learn from the Tables of Trade and Navigation of the Dominion for the fiscal year ended June 1890 that 123,593 bbls. apples, 10,755 bush. plums and 1,043,752 lbs. berries were imported from the United States into Canada for home consumption. I might say here.

"X" is annoyed at my use of the term "sluggishness." Well, I think "X" is quite on official business. "X" is annoyed at my use of the term a "aluggishness." Well, I think "X" is quite right in refusing to appropriate the term in its estire significance to himself. I know "X" to be one of our wide awake, energetic men. But he has this fault. He lounges too much in the shade of Uncle Sam's ekybigh tariff fence bewailing the hard fale which shuts him out from markets some of which are real and others fanoifol. This, in part, is what I meant by "eleggishness." If he would fase about, leave Uncle Sam to enjoy his self-imposed, commercial isolation and exercise the energy with which he is so liberally endowed in making the best use of our home privileges and in seeking to develop trade with countries which may be deficient in commodities of which we have a surplus, he would I trink, he movid in a direction that would bring pleasure and profit to him self and be haneficial to the country at large. In regard to Mr. Stickney's remarks, I wish to say that when I criticised his former letter I expected a reply. But I supposed he was possessed of sufficient information and honor to attack the commercial, prolitical, or literary features of my article. I did not cimigatine he would descend to the gutter of miserpiresentation and personal abuse to defend his position. He satempt to classe me with an eye to success and good work. The people around here are doing their plow distinguishing title he applies to my name is as about as the assertion is untruthful. I never was nor am not a member of the efficient of the first men and the very honorable profession.

Benton Items.

Since my last, some weeks ago, our village has lost two of its citizens. Geo. Murray, er, one of the oldest residents of Benton, passed away full of years and honor. The largest gathering ever seen in Benton attended the funeral. Rev. K. McKay of Houlton, preached an impressive sermon, full of sound doctrine and good advice. Mr. Murray was always identified with every good work, capacially the temperance.

This may be good Liberalism, but it is very poor liberality.

The names of several persons have been mentioned who, it is said, will enter the field as candidates, but as yet we have not heard for a certainty who will be the leading and contesting parties. But who ever they are or may be, we hope they will be men of honor and of honest principles, men that would disain to stoop to use any detestable or corrupt means to help themselves into office; men that will stand up in the dignity of true manhood and announce to the municipality that they will not use or cause to be used rum or money and will promise no offices, and will forbid all persons or parties using any unfair means in their

Benton had a novel experience a few days ago in the shape of a little baby tornado. It scooped down on us like a gigantic hawk, filled the air with flying debris, roared and shricked, tore down board piles, upset the shingle shed, whisked off about forty feet of the roof of the saw mill, tore up the tar and gravel roof of the tannery, breaking about fifty lights of glass with the flying gravel, sending hundreds of sheets of bark skyward, and shaking the buildings until it seemed they must all come down in a heap, when with a parting yell, like an enraged demon, it left us for other fields—and may it never come back.
