Scribner's Magazine for June continues the series on "The Poor in Great Cities" (which is attracting the widest attention), with an article on "Life in New York Tenement Houses, as Seen by a City Missionary," by the Rev. William T Esign, who for nine years has worked in the tenement-house district in close association with

T Esign, who for nine years has worked in the tenement-house district in close association with all phases of that life. Closely connected with this series is a wonderfully sympathetic account of "The Drury Lane Boys' Club," London, by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, who has not contributed to any magazine for several years. The Rev David Swing, D D. contributes to the "Historic Moments" series "A Memory of the Chicago Fire," which is a most graphic wordington.

The Agricultural building, an imposing and beautiful structure, situated across the main lagoon, southward from the Great Manufacturers building, is rapidly approaching completion, and will be finished even to all details of or pamentation, before Outober let. It measures 500 by 800 feet, and has an Appex 300 by 550 feet, and a connected with picture of what he saw and felt on the night of October 8, 1871, when nearly the whole city was swept away. Of particular importance to all great cities is Mr. Thomas Curtis Clarke's suggestive article on the solution of the problem of great cities is Mr. Thomas Curtis Clarke's suggestive article on the solution of the problem of "Rapid Transit in Great Cities. The fiction of the number includes the last instalment but one of "The Wrecker," which is approaching a conclusion of wonderful and even terrible atrength. Robert Grant's novelette, "The Reflection of a Married Man," is concluded most happily with the account of a ball. There are poems by A Lampman, Graham R. Tomsan, and John W. Chadwick.

Description of the main floor of the building will be occupied by the agricultural and other food exhibits of foreign nations, which, it is already assured, will be extensive. Great Britain, Germany, France, Mexico, Austria, Denmark, Sweden, Japan, Paraguay, Canada, and a number of other countries have already been assigned space, ranging from 1,000 to 15,000 square feet

Roswell Smith, the late President of The Century Co, is the subject of a number of contributions to the June Century There is a frontispiece portrait, a poem by Elmund Gosse, a biggraphical sketch by the Rev. Dr. Gladden, an editorial in "Topics of the Time," with brief statements of Mr. Smith's connection with the Tract Society, the Congregational Club, and Berez College, Kentucky. The leading illustrated article of this number is by Mr. Albert Shaw, whose timely and interesting papers in other numbers on modern municipal governments will numbers on modern municipal governments will be remembered. A paper also of timely interest in view of the approaching precidential campaign is Joseph B. Bishop's article on "Early Political Caricature in America," which is il-

On Christopher Columbus describes the great explorer "In Search of a Patron." A striking feature of this number is the beginning of a new serial cellal "The Chate'aine of La Trinite," by Henry B, Fuller, author of the book so much praised by James Russell Lowell and Prof Norton, "The Chevalier of Pensieri-Vani." Mr. Fuller's first book dealt with Italian subjects in a novel and charming manner. The scene of the present one is laid in Switzerland. Among the poems may be specially mentioned a ballad by James Jeffrey Roche, editor of "The Boston Pilot" on "The Fight of the Armstrong Privateer."
