DEATH OF THE SECRETARY J. T. FLETCHER.

When on Friday of 9th inst., intelligence reached Waterville that John T. Fletcher was dead, a feeling of eadness came over the whole community. It was felt that no ordin ary man had been taken away. Mr. Fletcher had been for some time engaged in building a very fine dwelling house for Mrs. Getchell of Limestone, Maine. It seems that after Blaine and S-nator Sherman have, this week, dianer, Friday 9th, he went to the barn and led his own horse to water, and on returning, in passing by some other horses, one of them kicked him, and thus caused his death.
