Hugh John Macdonald, addressing a meeting of Government supporters, at Winnipeg, last week, denied that he had resigned his seat through personal dislike to the Premier, through opposition to the fiscal policy of the Government, or because he was in accord with Dalton McCarthy.

Colin H. Campbell was nominated as the Conservative candidate in the coming by-election.

Hon. Joseph Martin will be the Liberal candidate.

Elector of Carleton County.

We have substituted a few words near the conclusion of our correspondent's letter, the reason for which he will, doubtless, appreciate.

Searchers for the truth, some consideration of this correspondence is proper, especially as Elector was surprised at our publishing the material for his strictures. The text is Mr. Dalton McCarthy and certain utterances by him. Mr. McCarthy is independent, and in the sense that he is not in accord either with the government and conservative party or with the liberals. Why he broke with the former whether, as our correspondent implies, from personal pique, or because the government would not, in agreement with his views, make certain concessions we do not know. We do know that he has changed his opinions on certain matters; this he had a right to do and the reasons given for this change should be criticised on their merits. We know that he was a protectionist and assisted to give form to and inaugurate the N. P. Have we any good reasons to doubt his statement that the protective policy was adopted if not as an experiment, not as one for permanent application, but as a desirable yet temporary expedient, or shall we reject entirely Mr. McCarthy's statement, in effect, that had Mr. McKenzie adopted a high tariff policy, Sir John would have, in the crisis of party, declared for free trade?

However, as to what he was, our correspondent gives Mr. McCarthy a very distinct and rather complimentary character. He quotes the high authority of Sir John A. Macdonald as having said of Mr. McCarthy in 1883 "he was the brains of the conservative party." We presume he was then recognized by his party as being honest. Were not the conservatives of 1883 as brainy and as honest as now. Had Mr. McC deteriorated in brain power or in general worthyness at the time he broke with his party or when he left it did he carry away all the brains?

Let us look at the figures quoted by our correspondent, who objects to Mr. McCarthy's statement that we are paying $30,000,000 in the way of taxes and that the taxation per head is $7.

Now, it is but justice to say here that the report from which we quoted, of Mr. McCarthy's speech, was not apparently verbatim but only gave the general features without the details by which probably the speaker proved his conclusions. We have not observed—though they may have done so—that any of the Conservative papers in Ontario challenged the correctness of his statements. However, we are not concerned as regards a vindication of Mr. McCarthy; we do want to know the truth. We find by reference to authorities, the year book for instance, which is compiled in the Department of Agriculture, that the revenue of Canada, 91-92, are thus given:—

By taxation,	$28,446,157
Other sources,	8,475,715
	$36,921,872

Also that the expenditure, Con. fund, was $36,765,894 and that the expenditure per head is given at $7.50.

Now it is fair to assume the possibility, at least, that Mr. McCarthy, when he said $7 per head, referred to the general figures we have quoted and which might justify his statement. We note also that Sir Richard Cartwright, in an address to his constituents, recently quoted the expenditure at a matter of $36,000,000.

But our correspondent says the customs duties in 91 92 were $20,501,059 and the Inland Revenue receipts $7,945,097, a total of $28,446,156 We note here our correspondent's contention that the customs duties are the only tax proper and that the Inland Revenue receipts are a voluntary contribution—to this point we will refer further along.

The government, in their departmental reports, claim that the people are taxed directly by the custome and Inland Revenue. From the Trade and Navigation returns, 91-92, we find:—

Total customs duties,	$20,550,681
do other revenues (customs)	370,972
	$20,921,653
Less by Auditor General's report, drawbacks and refunds,	195,943
Net from customs;	$20,725,610
The Inland Revenue (see Aud. Gen. report)	7,922,344
	$28,647,954

Now these figures represent the amount of, say, direct taxation. But directly connected with the custom duties there are incidental taxes which must be considered if we would rightly conclude how much, in the way of tax, the people of Canada paid in 1892 or were liable to pay. There is the cost of collecting the Customs revenue, $902,820, which might be counted in, but let that item pass. There is a very important item to be considered. The wholesale merchants of the Dominion are the chief importers, they pay the duty and upon that duty with freight and other charges upon the goods they place a certain percentage of advance for profit; then the retailers who have purchased the goods place their percentage, and these several additional charges the consumers, the people at large, have to pay, and the two items, basing our estimate upon the best information we can obtain, we put at 50 per cent average. Thus we have:—

Customs,	$20,725,610
Inland revenue,	7,922,344
50 per cent of Customs duties, as profits,	10 362 805
Total,	$39,010,759

So that we conclude Mr. McCarthy's statement that the taxes are $30,000,000, is quite within the truth and that they are on the estimated population of 1892; 4,899,098, a good deal more than $7 per head.

We grant the force of our correspondent's contention as to the non-necessity for using whiskey and tobacco, but look at the claim that the revenues, Inland, from these is a voluntary contribution and not a tax, which he admits the customs duties is. We think our friend goes too far or not far enough. Take the customs duties and among the items we find, Ale, Porter, Wine, Liquors, etc; they contributed $2 589,713 to the customs revenue; still further examine the list and note how few of the items, comparatively, are articles of prime necessity and we may conclude, following out our correspondents idea, that nearly our entire revenues are voluntary contributions and not a tax.

As to the methods of our local manufacturers in securing purchasers, we think our correspondent is misinformed. Of one thing we are pretty certain and it is that our manufacturers feel most seriously the competition from Quebec and Ontario, not so much on account of prices as their system of indiscriminate and very long credit.

Our correspondent asks will Mr. McCarthy take off, what he calls the tax, on liquor and tobacco? Mr. McC. was asked for his views on prohibition, at a meeting in Ontario, and he is reported to have said, and this may be an answer to Elector's question;—

There is another thing we must realize. We receive now $7,000,000 in duties upon alcoholic drinks. If that source of supplies is taken away temperance people will have to make that $7,000,000 up. Don't make any mistake about that. Seven millions of our thirty millions of taxable revenue, or one quarter, comes from alcoholic drinks. If that source of supply disappears those who do not drink now will have to pay to make it up. I don't know very well how it can be got. As a public man, if I was asked to bring in a finance bill I don't know where I could get that seven million.

A voice—Reform the civil service.

Mr. McCarthy—We cannot very materially reduce the expense of the civil service, but if we can we should do it, whether prohibition passes or not. It is very important to know that you will understand, of course, that in what I have said I am not speaking for anybody but myself, without any consideration upon the subject, and without binding myself to take any definite stand until I have given full consideration to it.

Re the sugar question, we are not posted. We know that, in 91-92, $77,828 was collected in sugar duties, while, in 90 91, $3,142,291 was the amount paid. We notice that Sir Richard Cartwright in a speech to his constituents recently claimed that the government "took away the revenue without abolishing the duty on sugar," and by allowing sugar in a raw state to come in free have subjected the people to a tax of nearly a cent a pound for the benefit of some half dozen sugar refiners. That they had left a duty of one cent a pound on the class of sugar it is possible for the people to use, while making free that which they cannot consume. This is, right or wrong, Sir Richard's argument

"Johnny Comes Marching Home," was played by the Band

Mr. John V. Ellis should be a happy man. The demonstration by which he was received and welcomed to St. John on his return there, from the Fredericton jail, was truly a magnificent expression of public opinion and respect. It was a perfect ovation, spontaneous as general. All parties participated in it At the depot the station grounds and neighboring streets were crowded, and two bands of music were on hand to add to the exhilaration.

A procession accompanied Mr. Ellis and his particular friends from the station to his residence, where he addressed the crowd, as did also C. W. Weldon, Esq

Later in the evening the Ship Laborers' Union and deputations from the Ship Wrights, Caulkers and Mill Men Unions met at Mr. Ellis' residence, whence a torch light procession numbering, according to the Sun, 700 or 800, with bands, and accompanied by thousands of people, escorted him to the Institute where an overflowing audience enthusiastically awaited him.

Here Mr. John McMillan, who presided, presented Mr. Ellis with an address, to which that gentleman replied at length in moderate yet manly and feeling terms. Speeches were also made by the chairman, C. W. Weldon, G. G. King, I Allan Jack and John T Hawke of the Moncton Transcript.

The address had near 600 signatures; names representing all classes and several outlying districts, although lists circulated for signatures through the country had not all been returned.

Thus ended another chapter of this, taking it altogether, extraordinary matter.

Inspection.

On Tuesday, General Supt. H. P. Timmerman, C.P.R., took in his private car a party of gentlemen over the Tobique Valley Railroad. The party included, with Mr. Timmerman, P. A. Peterson, Chief Engineer of the C.P.R. system; E. Tiffin, General Freight Agent; A. A. Brewer, Engineer Atlantic Division; James Stratton and R. Keltie Jones, Directors of the T. V. Railway; Supt. Stewart, Hon. H. A. Connell, S. Watts, Mr. Lawlor, Engineer in charge of the Tobique Valley road, and Mr. John Dunn, Secretary Treasurer of one of the gypsum mining corporations.

The immediate object of this trip, which proved a most agreeable and instructive one, was to enable Mr. Peterson to inspect the railroad, particularly its bridges, which duty was performed very closely and thoroughly. Upon the report from this inspection depends, we presume, the decision of the C P R. Co. as to when the new road will be taken over and worked by them. In such decision the T. V. Railway Co. and the Gypsum Mining companies are directly interested. To these important works we will refer particularly next week.

Circuit Court.

The Circuit Court, Judge Tuck presiding, opened here Thursday afternoon. James Watts was chosen foreman of the Grand Jury. The judge, in his address to the Grand Jury, spoke in flattering terms of the character of Carleton, declaring it to be the finest section for agricultural purposes of any country he had seen in his recent trip to the Pacific Coast.

There was but one criminal and one civil case; in the former, the Queen vs Alfred Nason for malicious damage to the property of Patrick Gillen, the Grand Jury found a "True Bill." The case was called on Wednesday morning, but when the crown side had been closed, the Judge determined that the evidence produced was not sufficient to implicate the prisoner, so he dismissed the case and discharged the prisoner. S. B. Appleby, for the crown; F. B. Carvell for the prisoner.

George Craig vs Matthew Caldwell, John E. Kelley and Wm. McIntosh, was an action on a replevin bond. The case was called Wednesday afternoon, but after the jury had been impanelled, was settled by the parties J. H. Barry for Piff; Hartley & Carvell for defts.

Court then adjourned sine die.

Make Home Comfortable.

There is no place in the world, perhaps, where our people are more comfortably housed than in Carleton County. Those who wish to be more comfortable this winter than ever before should get Storm Windows for their houses. They are a great thing for any house no matter how new or well built, but on houses that have been built some years they are practically a necessity, and are being used more every year. The Woodstock Woodworking Factory of R K. Jones is the place to buy them.

It [illegible] easure that we are able to announ[illegible]zarina—ugh the columns of the SENTINEL [illegible]liug [illegible] week, that a work which we have long felt should be carried on in this town is soon to be undertaken by the Royal Templars of Temperance of this place.

We refer to the gospel temperance meetings which are to be held during the winter season, commencing Dec 3rd, in the W. C. T. U. hall, each Sabbath evening, at the close of the services in the various churches.

Meetings of similar nature have been and are being held by the order in Fredericton and other cities and, as a result, much good is being accomplished, and we feel confident that such will be the result of the gospel temperance meetings to be held here.

Evidently, "Emerald Council of R T. of T.," has come among us to stay and not only do they intend remaining, but if we are to judge the future by their past and present record, we may expect not only theoretical, but practical and aggressive work, as well.

As the work of Royal Templarism is confined not to temperance alone, but is also carried along on the line of the elevation of the standard of social purity, every citizen should not only bid them God speed, but show their sympathy in a practical way, by joining with them and assisting to carry forward the good work.—Com.

All Temperance and christian organizations are cordially invited and ernestly requested to give their assistance in making these meetings a power for good. Everybody welcome to these meetings.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindsay over the death of their only child, from diptheritic croup, on Monday morning. The little boy had been sick for about ten days, and as a last resort Tracheotomy, was resorted to, Drs. Sprague, Colter and Hand performing the delicate operation. The operation appeared to be successful, and the patient seemed doing well, but after lingering from Saturday night till Monday morning the fatal disease triumphed, and the once bright, active and intelligent little boy lay still in death.

A largely attended and very social gathering took place at the Manse, Florenceville, on the evening of Thursday, the 26th ult. A bountiful supply of good things was brought by many of those present, and in great variety. The table when spread presented a very appetizing repast, which was partaken of with zest. Willing and skilful workers took hold of the carving behind the screen and in waiting upon the tables. Very much credit was due to the ladies to whose skill willingness, energy and cooperation the decided success of the gathering was so largely due, and with cordial appreciation should be mentioned the part played by those who by efficiently presiding at the organ added so much to the enjoyability of the evening The proceeds, amounting to $40.90, were in a very happy manner, by Mr. Hugh McCain, presented to Rev. Richmond Items.

Nov. 19, 1893.

As the gossips are about run ashore for something to talk about, I thought I would send in a few more of my silly items, as they all termed them, for I have lots of sympathy for the poor innocent creatures, and think it a pity not to give their wise tongues something to keep them out of idleness; I wish some of them would favor us with some of their smart items so that I might be able to write sensible ones And, please, Messrs Editors, don't feel disappointed if you do not receive any items from me for two or three weeks, for I always like to give them lots of time to criticise each item separately.

Allow me to inform the public that we have been having some beautiful weather the past two or three weeks, but probably some of you are aware of that.

Mrs W H Purriaton, of North Vassalboro, is visiting her parents of this place, Mr and Mrs Daniel Parks; we are glad to see her much improved in health Mr and Mrs William Stokes had a very pleasant trip to Boston on the late excursion, and also Mr Charles Parks, who paid a visit to his sister, Mrs C B Stevens.

Miss Daisy Esty has returned home, after having spent a very pleasant week with her friends in Woodstock.

Mr John McLean has added a new horse stable to his fine set of buildings.

Mr Samuel Stewart has purchased of Mr Albert Ray an interest in his "Moody Tarsaher" and it will now be run under the auspices of Ray & Stewart.

Mr D L Parks, of Parks' Hill, has added much to the convenience of his household by putting water works in his house and also at his barn.

There were six candidates baptised at Green's Lake on Sabbath last, by the Rev Mr Currie, pastor of the First Baptist Church at McKenzie Corner, where he has been holding successful revival meetings the past few weeks.

Hark, I think I hear wedding bells! But, no, it is only November, and Christmas I presume does not come until the 25th of December.
