Miscellaneous.

The woman stood in aisle of the passenger coach, gazing at the man who occupied twice as much space in the seat as he had a right to when every other seat was full, but she did not say anything.
Neither did the man at first, but as the woman stood there looking at him he began to grow nervous and to squirm, but he did not stir. The woman leaned up against the arm of the seat, and then he shifted a package or two down on the floor. "Sit down," he said, gruffly. "I'm no hog."

"Thanks," she said, moving over to a seat somebody vacated on the other side of the aisle; "I have you an affidavit to that effect," and eighteen women and four men gave a loud snicker back.

The husband wasn't a temperance man exactly, and when he was less so, to state the case emphatically, he was disposed to be cranky in his ideas. His wife's mother was inclined to be harsh in her judgment, as that relative of man or woman sometimes is. One day after he had been discussing a point and had gone out, the old lady made a few remarks.
"You shouldn't talk so," apologized his wife. "Harry is full of contradictions."

The wife's mother gave a snuff at the atmosphere.

"Yes," she said, significantly. "I presume whiskey and water can be considered contradictions."—Detroit Free Press.

Beam—Which do you think best, Miss Barlow, summer or winter?

Miss Barlow—Oh I dislike the winter; it is so distressing to see the trees, with their long awning limbs all bare.

Mother Barlow (who entered at with)— Why, Mildred Barlow, you shameless girl, go to your room this instant!

Don't

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh, or into pneumonia, or consumption.

Catch it in its infancy. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of the chest, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Bocher's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist.

A Binger citizen having occasion to correct his little daughter the other day, concluded his lecture by telling her that he did wish she had a little better disposition. She thought a moment and then asked: "Do you know what the Bible says, papa?" "Well, what does it say?"
"The sins of the fathers shall be visited upon the children," was the slow and solemn reply.

"Mrs. De Trop seems very happily married."

"She is. And do you know the reason?"

"No."

"When young De Trop was courting her and they were going out she always kept him waiting just as long as she could. Since they are married she makes it a point always to be ready at the minute."

"Gift Enterprises"

seem to be all the rage in the Soap Business, owing to the idea of some manufacturers of giving something out of nothing, if possible. Druggists get 6 boxes for 1 of some kind, and are suffered all sorts of "Bink Nicks" with others, as an inducement to recommend such soaps to their trade.

It is a well known fact, however, that a genuine article in this day of competition pays no money. WILSON'S SOAP represents the clean of goods, and demonstrates the value of quality in manufacture, which is the only guarantee of a pure and legitimate washing quality.

"Give me your candid judgment on these lines," said the young man of literary aspirations. "Do they convey the idea of poetry?"

"Yes sir," replied the editor looking them over. "They do. There is something in every line that conveys the idea.
Every line," continued the kindhearted man, letting him down as gently as he could, "begins with a capital letter."
