Mr. Eastman stated that he knew of the case of Mr. Merritt, and considered it a most remarkable one Mr. Palmer Merritt had come to him one day and asked him if he could give him anything that would help his brother, Ezra Merritt, who was suffering untold agony with The May number of Harper's Magazine con-tains the first two articles on 'The Evolution of Mr. Merritt stated that his brother had tried New York,' by Thomas A Janvier. The insight and humor which have charmed so many readers of Mr. Janvier's stories have not deserted him here. He has treated his subject with a light touch, and the result is most entertaining reading. To the May instalment Howard Pyle contributes four drawings; six maps from old sources complete the illustrations. The June instalment will be as attractive as the May.

Mr. Merritt stated that his brother had tried everything, and could find nothing to help him and that the doctors could give him no ease. One doctor from the United States had told him positively that there was no help for him, and that death only could set him free from his agony. Mr. Merritt further told Mr. Eastman advised him if he thought it would be any use. Mr. Eastman advised him to try be any use. Mr. Eastman advised him to try

The Country Printer, which embodies recollections of his youth. The American short story is exhibited at its best by such masters of the art as Bret Harte, Henry James, George W. Cable and H. C. Bunner.

Suithville, advised that they be given a trial. My brother got me a box and I took them but felt no good results. I took atill another box and still no perceptible benefit, and I felt so weak and discouraged that I decided not to take any more. At this time a lady from Hamilton came to visit at our place and she strongly advised me to continue using the Piak Pills. She had known Mr. Marshall at that city and knew that his case was bone fits. I thought it useless to continue, but at the urgent solicitations.

less to continue, but at the urgent solicitations of my friends did so, and by the time I was Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere. through with the third box I began to feel
