Gamekeeper and Poacher

A Desperate Encounter and a Timely Rescue.

The Yorkshire (England) Factory Times, of March 10th, contains an account of a gamekeeper and a poacher, in which the first case is a very interesting one, and the second a very timely rescue.

The poacher was not a man, but an infinitely more subtle and dangerous animal, and he was the first to be killed.

He was a very cunning animal, and he was the first to be killed.

He was a very cunning animal, and he was the first to be killed.

May 2, 1894. It seems very presumptuous in your opinion to attempt to give you the news in plain prose, after the poetical efforts of an apparently new correspondent. Well, we can't all be poets, and it is a pity that our humble minds must be content to express ourselves in simple Anglo-Saxon words.

We were pleased to see the editor of your village recently. We wish our village could be so frequently visited by him, and we hope that he will not feel in duty bound to leave us altogether and take up his residence in town. Mr. Irvine's friends think the government made a very improper political move in summarily dismissing a faithful officer. Perhaps Mr. Barry J. Connell is the more to blame for not remaining with the government until after April, and having his friend Irvine re-appointed for another year. Of course Mr. Dibble is the sole representative, and held the patronage of the County he acted wisely in pressing for his friend Balloch's appointment.

Your townsmen, Rev. Thomas Marshall, accompanied by G. W. O. Temple, Esq., were in our village one day last week and delivered an interesting temperance address in the Methodist Church, Rev. Jos. Parkins presiding, the choir favoring the audience with some good music. We hope to have the privilege of listening to another eloquent address from the reverend gentleman. We hope he and other temperance speakers may often visit us on such a mission, for although our country is a land of hope, it is not a land of total abstinence, and we do not often see temperance addresses or sermons from men who should not with the impression to be formed in minds of people outside of our village that the majority agree with the correspondent of the Sun, that the Scotch Act is a failure. Neither are we willing to acknowledge that the County has incurred a heavy debt through enforcing the Scotch Act. We challenge the Sun's correspondent to prove that there has been a deficit since the time of Mr. McIntosh's appointment to the present. And supporting for a moment there is a deficiency since the inauguration of the Scotch Act, what does that prove? Are there not some Counties heavily indebted through enforcing other criminal laws? Shall we jump to the conclusion, therefore, that these criminal laws are failures and should be eliminated from our statute books? Or should we rather conclude that the Scotch Act is a failure, and should be eliminated from our statute books?

Howard B. White has moved his goods from the old store into the new, and Biran Clark, with assistance, is tearing down the old shop and will move it down near his residence.

In a short time Geo. Master Hipwell expects to visit Centerville to organize a lodge of the Orange Society. The Orange Society of this County have been invited to spend the 12th of July in Houston and, probably, will accept the invitation.

The Court's Court is a building, a new court is being built on the floor of the hall which will greatly improve the interior appearance thereof.

The Rev. J. E. Flewelling is delivering a series of addresses on the ten commandments Sunday evening, 6th inst. he will explain the 4th commandment, showing that Christians are scripturally right in observing the first day, the Lord's day, instead of the seventh day, the Jewish Sabbath.

The friends of St. Schools are looking forward with interest to the visit of Mr. Lucas at Centerville, on the 12th inst. The Rev. Geo. F. Currie is succeeding admirably in winning the good opinions of his flock. He and Rev. Jos. Parkins exchange duties on Sunday next, 6th inst. A. Farnes.

Miss Nellie Sailer has returned well pleased from the festivities of the capital. Miss Sarah Everett is reported sick and unable to sit up.

We regret to hear of the sickness of Mr. Enoch Leveley. The visit of a paralytic clock-mender made some striking changes, but in one case the stroke is "off."

Mr. Ross Day of Riley Brook came and said one night with his sick brother-in-law, Mr. George Traflet.
