SAMUEL & JAMES WATTS,

We call him strong who stands unmoved-('a'm as some tempest beaten rock-When some great trouble burle its shock We say of him, his strength is proved; But when the spent storm folds its wings, How beare be then life's little things? About his brow we twine our wreath

Who seeke the battle's thickest smoke, Braves flashing gun and sabre stroke And scoffs at danger, scoffe at death; We praise bim till the whole land ringe. But is he brave in little things? We call him great who does some deed

That echo bears from shore to shore-Doze that, and then does nothing more Yet would his work earn richer mead. When brought before the King of Kinge, Were he but great in little things?
