Growing.

It is noticeable the constant increase in the number of Cabinet ministers both paid and unpaid; the present does not seem a favorable time for increasing the demands upon the public treasury, when a failing volume of trade, and an impending deficit of unusual magnitude calls for economy. Still we find the present policy to be an increase of such demands. The Montreal Witness prints the following table showing the number of paid and unpaid ministers in the several governments, pointing out how that Sir John Abbott reduced his cabinet to Mr. McKenzie's model :-

New Advertisements. I AM DYEING. I am dyeing, Etith, dyeing, Tinte of common, bright and fast; Saades, to, dark as Piuto's regions, And they cannot help but last, Let me tell you how I do it, Let me whisper in your ear,

You can do the same, my deer. Though my clothes get worn and dingy And with stains are spotted o'er, Though they look as fi: for nothing I can make them good once more. Though I have not many dollars To expend on garments new, I can dress as well as any,

And I know that you can, too.

Diamond Dies is all my secret;

Let not fashion's servile miniors Scorp the garments thus made o'er 'Twas no dyer's band that made them. I have done he same before. I, who took my les year's dresses Washed and dyed and pressed and Made them o'er for this year's wearing-

Investigation, designed mainly to cover up, rather than to disclose the truth of the sale of public I appeal to you to condemn them because they have been take to their professions and have not only not kept the expenditures within the income, only not kept the expenditures within the income, but because they and their followers have yoted down a resolution proposed by the opposition setting forth that principle.

Because they in the face of falling revenues have established unnecessary offices and conferred them upon their partisans as rewards for party services and have voted down resolutions for the aboliton of these offices.

Because they have in defiance of the report of their own commissioners sold out the crewn lands of the Province at a practically fixed rate for a quarter of a century. Recause their administration has been so wasteful and extravagant that they have been con pelled by their own misdoings to roll heavy burdens formerly borne by the Province upon the municipalities and loaded you with direct taxation.

Because without the shadow of excuse but for political advantage and petty spite toward Henry Contell they dismissed David Irvine from the office of High Sheriff of this County. Because their course has been marked by un wise legislation, incapacity of administration, by gross extravagance, by contemptible, spiteful partisanship, by corruption in the bestowal of patronage, by the violation of many pledges, by a too
