Sewage.

As will be observed by readers of the report of the last Town Council meeting, the vote of taxpayers on the sewerage question is postponed for a week and will be taken on Thursday, 8th of August next. A change has been made as regards the amount of expenditure to be authorized by the vote, which is favorable; it is $10,000, only, as authorized by Act of Assembly.

Paris Arbitration.

In the House of Commons, on the 23rd ult., in reply to a question, Mr. C. H. Thompson said that neither Sir John Thompson nor himself had received any payment for their services in connection with the Baring Sea Arbitration. They were the only members who received no pay. The British Arbitrator received £1000 each. Sir John Thompson lost nearly the whole of his seasonal indemnity and he, Sir Charles, lost the whole of his.

Excelsior!

Our citizens often talk of the establishment of factories here and it is generally recognized as a fact that there is room and facilities offered in the town for the establishment of such industries. An article which is in very common use and for which the demand is constantly growing is that known as excelsior, the raw material for the manufacture of which is wood of kinds which grow plentifully in this section. The capital required to equip with proper machinery an establishment for the making of this article cannot be very great and it appears to us that there is an enterprise, involving the investment by some of our people who have made money, that would pay a good profit in return.

The Late Session.

The session of parliament closed last week, while it was lengthy, was not over productive of many important measures.
This conclusion is justified by the speech of the Governor General in proroguing parliament. There was, of course, the usual large amount of money voted for the public service and on the items for subsidies, but little else was done.

As leader of the house, it is but fair to say that Hon. Mr. Foster discharged the duties which, under unusual circumstances, were onerous and required an exercise of vigilance and courage, with ability and tact.

The government have been sustained throughout by a large majority, but they and the conservative party generally are not view with feelings of satisfaction the portion of the crisis through which they have passed, or temporarily or otherwise, and which must be met again when the parliament re-assembles in January next.

With regard to the opposition, the Toronto Globe says:

The Liberals ought to be well satisfied with the result of the session. While among their opponents, there has been nothing but contention, distrust and one humiliating surrender after another, the Liberals have maintained unbroken and successful ranks. While in one party we have seen the rank and file girding at the leader, and even his Cabinet colleagues combining to bring his leadership into contempt, we have seen among the Liberals the most unquestioning loyalty to and admiration of the leader, the almost faith in his wisdom, integrity, usefulness, breadth of view and patriotism.

The press of Canada is speculating as to the probability of another session of this parliament being held. It is argued that the "signal" indicates that a general election is among the probabilities of the coming autumn, and the constituencies are being invoked to prepare themselves for such an event. Of course, much depends upon the success of the government in securing such a compromise with the government of Manitoba, on the school question, so will satisfy the refractory members of the Dominion Cabinet and meet the views of its supporters. As it is the government is pledged to a January session, the school question, so will satisfy the refractory members of the Dominion Cabinet and meet the views of its supporters. As it is the government is pledged to a January session, the school question, so will satisfy the refractory members of the Dominion Cabinet and meet the views of its supporters.

A report from Ottawa, referring to the last meeting of the Cabinet says:

It is understood that an order-in-council has been passed in answer to the reply of the Manitoba government with respect to the remedial order, which will shortly be transmitted to His Honor, Sir John Schultze, for the information of the Manitoba government. The order-in-council is based on a report of the Minister of Justice and while its contents have not been made public, it is regarded as probable that it will require of Manitoba a more direct statement of its position in regard to the compromise suggestion in the provincial reply. There will be no suggestion of a commission to enquire into the past and present state of education in the province, the condition of schools prior to 1880 not being the point at issue, but rather what amendments to the act of 1880 the Manitoba government is disposed to suggest in order to comply with the spirit of the judgment of the Privy Council.

No Policy.

The following remarks of the New York Evening Post upon the situation in England, have a point pertinent to the complaints of the Conservatives in Canada, that the leader of the Opposition would defend his policy:

An extraordinary feature of the successful Conservative campaign in England is the fact that Lord Salisbury went into the fight absolutely without a declared programme or policy. When his Ministry was first formed, and he was pressed to announce his policy, his answer was: "Our policy is discretion. We mean to get the sense of the electors as speedily as possible." But their sense on what issues? He has not since told us. The burden of the Conservative electoral address has simply been this: "The Rosebery Government was a miserable failure. Elect us and we will show you how to make England strong and happy."

Dr. Marcus Chappell Atkinson Dead.

Dr. M. C. Atkinson, M.P.P., is dead. The intelligence, wherever it reached, was not a surprise, but was cause of profound regret. When the Doctor returned from his trip to California, with the progress of his illness, he was in a very feeble state of health, and he himself, became satisfied that recovery was not to be hoped for. His death removes one who stood high in his profession; a gentleman who in social life was a genial and friendly friend; and one who in his ordinary pursuits and especially in the discharge of public functions was notable for breadth of intelligence, industry and independence.

Dr. Atkinson was of English descent; he was born at Bury, N. B., on the 7th of January, 1854, so that he was a young man. For several years he taught school and then attended the Hall's Medical School and Dalhousie College, graduating M.D. in 1881. For one year he was house surgeon of Victoria Hospital, Halifax, having won the competitive examination in 1880.

In June, 1882, Dr. Atkinson settled at Bristol, in this country, for the practice of medicine, and shortly after married Miss Stewart of Antigonish, N. S., who survives him; as she was ten years older.

In 1884 and 1885 he was a member, and a most useful member, of the County Council. In 1886 he was elected to the House of Assembly, and in 1890 he was again returned; in the general election of 1892 he failed to secure a seat, but at the election of 1893, Mr. H. A. Cunnell resigned, he was returned without opposition.

Not only the resolute vigor with which Dr. Atkinson prosecuted the cause in the several elections, in which he engaged, as well as the toil and exposure incident to the practice of his profession, in which he was entirely successful when his professional services were required, tended to undermine his health and foster the disease of which he died. We will not refer to the incidents of Dr. Atkinson's political career which brought him most prominently into public attention. In this career he was doubtless as honest as a politician, and the writer remembers with a certain fondness his conversation with him on the eve of his leaving for the South, in which his bitter sense of feeling regarding those who had been his political opponents was expressed, but in which he dwelt upon his kinder associations and impressions with and regarding them, as well as his hope to the future of the province.

Base Ball Notes.

The Woodstock nine had their batting practice, Saturday afternoon, and were defeated by the Hallowell nine by the score of 4 to 12; this was two one-sided games of little interest.

The Roses are corresponding with the Tatters, the champions of Fredericton, for a game in Woodstock, on a week or two. One from the general city returned from St. John about a week ago, where they won two and dropped a few games. If these two also win, they will be the champions of the province.

Woodstock's club is in a first-class one in particular; special mention should be made of the battery, McKinley and Barnes. The writer is entitled to a word of praise; he is equal to his Hercules, and is a playing ball from the word go on it, the last of all the nine; the pitcher knows the curve and has lost of speed. The citizens of Fredericton are entitled to a word of praise; they are equal to his Hercules, and is a playing ball from the word go on it, the last of all the nine; the pitcher knows the curve and has lost of speed.

What's the matter with a place also placed as follows:—Harry McKinley, catcher; Percy Barnes, pitcher; Fred Barnes, first base; George Barnes, second base; H. Thorburn, third base; and an outfield made up from Frank Gilman, Frank Brown, Aubrey Connell, Fred Hayden and Gordon Townsend.

The Interior.

Every one who travels over the main lines of communication must be impressed, as was Colonel Blair, with the favorable agricultural condition of the country and its vast resources.

But viewed from the lines of travel mentioned the impression is unimpaired. All along those lines every few miles are diverging roads apparently penetrating into the forests, but which would open up to the traveler immense sections and stretches of highly cultivated, fertile and richly producing farms.

The forests of this country are permeated by these settlements, beautiful evidence of the good character of the soil and, too, of the results of that hardy industry and healthy well-known sense of duty which has been the prime factor in these forests.

Following through these woods, these roads that at first seemed to lead nowhere, a road is suddenly opening up of great width on a grand scale; of wide expanse of growing crops; of grazing cattle and sheep or of busy mowing and, as well, of neat cottages and school buildings and of comfortable and useful residences. Here one finds the explanation of the proverb applied to Canada, the "garden country." It is a magnificent agricultural resource developed by brave and enterprising men.

Boy's Brigade.

Col. Baird was in his element and greatly enjoyed his last Thursday afternoon while surrounded by and participating in the sports of the Boy's Brigade, on his disjunctive grounds, at Grafton.

The boys, to the number of twenty, marched over, in full uniform, with banners, provisions for a picnic outing, and upon reaching the grounds at once entered upon the joyousness of sports arranged.

First there was a swimming parade and the youngest and a nice contest in the river. Then came a warm wicketed game of base ball; next a hundred yard foot race with five competitors 15 years and upwards; the prize, a gold pin, was won by Herbert Henderson, a hundred yard race with three competitors between 12 and 15 years, prize, a mouth organ, won by Harry Baird, a mile race, won by Harry Baird, a mile race, won by Harry Baird.

In the midst of a 'tag' war the heavy shower occurred and ended the outdoor sports driving the boys to the shelter of the house where they were regaled by the Col. and Mrs. Baird, assisted by Mrs. J. D. Baird, Jr., with a much enjoyed lunch.

The members of the Brigade will long remember this happy occasion, and one result will be, probably, a large accession to the ranks. Col. Baird is to be congratulated upon the success of a movement, intended to promote a feeling of kindly fellowship among the boys and train them in habits of attention, physical fitness and obedience, and most of all discipline will be carefully looked after by the colonel.

Personals.

W. R. Balloch, Centreville, was in town Tuesday.
C. Kearney, Fredericton, was in town Tuesday.
Hon. Mr. Foster and Mrs. Foster, are in Kings county.

The Late Deacon Deboles.

The death of Mr. James Deboles occurred at 6 o'clock Sunday evening. He was one of the oldest inhabitants of Woodstock. Born at Prince William, he settled in Woodstock in the early part of his life. He was 80 years old and was a member of the Baptist church at Prince William. He leaves a wife, one daughter, one son, four daughters, three sons-in-law, ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren to mourn their loss. He passed away quietly, in the hope of eternal rest. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon; it was largely attended and Rev. Theo. Todd, assisted by Rev. Mr. McDonald, conducted the service.

Death of Mrs. McRoberts.

Mrs. McRoberts died at the residence of her son, at Lower Corner, Woodstock, on Saturday. The deceased lady was 80 years old; she was the widow of the late Alexander McRoberts, of St. John. She leaves, besides the son mentioned above, who is bookkeeper for Dickson & Sons, three daughters, one of them, Mrs. C. D. Jordan, of this town. Mrs. McRoberts was noted for her amiable and exemplary qualities. The remains were taken to St. John, on Monday, for interment.

An Entertaining Firm.

Donald Fraser & Sons are making large shipments of lumber this season, clearing on an average a cargo every day. This is an extraordinary feat, and a visit to their commodious mill above town shows that they know how to handle men and can turn out an immense lot of work in a day. Their lumber has a great reputation in the market. Messrs. Fraser & Sons are adding to their business every year. Wherever they introduce themselves, they make a most favorable impression, and double their orders every year.

W. Woolton Mills.

In the Woodstock Woolen Mills the four floors of the building are now being occupied by machinery. Some new and valuable additions to the plant have recently been made. In the lower or basement room a new fulling machine has been set up; it is a G.I. fulling machine, made by H. W. Karth, Haverhill, Ont., and ranks as the most improved and perfect for the purpose of fulling. On the floor, in a room fitted for the purpose, three Greenleaf knitting machines are in place and being operated by an expert, young apprentice, Miss Baker, of Moncton. These machines make, or knit, stockings of different sizes and also stockings, which we can best describe as being an extended or continuous stocking leg, which can be made any length from 25 yds. to 150 yds. The capacity of each machine is from one and a half to two and a half dozen pairs of stockings per day, or 120 pairs of stockinet per day. The company purchased these machines as being the very best yet made; Miss Baker produces the best work of this mill in superior to any she has worked; there is no waste machine, Miss Baker, that will produce such perfect work as do these power machines.

We understand that our merchants, who have examined the work, declare the stockinets to be the best ever made. Every size and every form of stockinets, fancy, cloth, etc., can be made on these machines, and the writer remembers with a certain fondness his conversation with him on the eve of his leaving for the South, in which his bitter sense of feeling regarding those who had been his political opponents was expressed, but in which he dwelt upon his kinder associations and impressions with and regarding them, as well as his hope to the future of the province.

Carleton C. S. Convention.

The Carleton County Sunday School Convention meets at Grafton on Tuesday, Aug. 13th, at 9 a.m. There will be a morning, afternoon and evening session; and a preliminary meeting will be held on Monday evening, 12th August. A programme will shortly be sent to the different schools, the items on which will comprise some specially interesting features, among them addresses from the Field Secretary, Ladies, and other prominent and able speakers. We believe there has been a delay in sending out the statistical blanks, but it is hoped that the superintendents will be so prompt in returning them to the Recording Secretary, James Watts, as that the secretary will be able to furnish to convenient full statistics of all the schools in the county. The respective schools should elect their delegates and take up a collection collection at once. This convention is the one of the best and will be so for each separate school will contribute its quota. Let every school be fully represented. All sessions open to the public, who are cordially invited.
