The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too well knows. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrheea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulesca and tenderness in the put of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

Some time ago the Prince of Wales visited a factory where a great number of men were employed. The Prince asked one of the workmen—' What wages do you receive here?' The dog's anecdote—A little boy, who was continually asking people to tell him tales, annoyed his mother by the constant use of the word, and she told him to always say 'anecdote' instead. A WORD WITH HUSBANDS The Secret of Much Fretfulness, and Variable Temper in Wives.

My nerves, my nerves! If the irdividual ut of tortured women all over the land could be gathered up in one united volume of sound, the world would stand aghast at the horror of it. If men were all the more familiar with nerve physiology and pathology they would know that in minety-nine cases out of a hundred the variable temper exhibited by their wives are merely symptoms of diseased nerves, that cannot be controlled unless the nerves are restored to a normal state of health. The greatest skill of medical science has been directed to the solution of the problem, 'How shall diseased merves be made strong, active and healthy?' After years of careful study, the originator of Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic presented his remedy to the public, cona complete cure of all diseases of the nervous system The subsequent history of Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic has completely proved that he was right. Thousands upon thousands of men and women who were the victime of shattered nerves have been by its agency reatored to perfect health. Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic is a great blood and flesh-builder Stomach Tonic is a great blood and flesh-builder as well as a nerve restorer, invigorator and aid to digestion. It is a certain cure for diseases peculiar to women, giving tone to the nerves and stomach, vigor to the mind and body, and strength to the blood, restoring the bloom of health to the pale and delicate.
