People of this town are nothing if not benevolent; not happy unless doing something for the good of others. That the younger portion of the the community have 'caught | Serge, Wool, Henrietta and Cashmer on' to the idea is evident from the following and he has found the work of sawing up his winter's wood this year a heavy tack. He had about four cords at his door. Some of 'the boys' at a glance 'took in the situation' and resolved to be!p him out. So on Wednesday last about 37 all told met at his wood pile and with their 20 buck saws and saw horses went to work with a will and long before the sun went down, the sticks of wood were in stove lengths ready for use.
