THE TRAVIS REFERENCE HARMONY.

M. B. A. REID is about to introduce in this County the above system of Bible Study for old and new Testament. It is scholarly, yet simple, practical, convenient, and, at the same time, comprehensive. This will fill a long felt want and save the purchaser much time and trouble. For instance, fifteen minutes study will give you a better idea of the events recorded in the last eleven chapters of Numbers and the entire book of Joshua, than any commentary ever written.

TESTIMONIALS.
REV. DR. CHAPMAN, Woodstock, N. B.: Most helpful as an aid in the connected study of the life of Christ.

"The 'Travis' system is evidently a valuable help to the study of the historical portions of the Scriptures. The part that deals with the life of Christ is especially so; it represents a great amount of labor and embodies the results in a form so clear and concise as to be easily used by any reader."

JAS. WHITEHEAD,
Pastor Presbyterian Church,
The Bible Student who will place the Travis Reference Harmony of this Old Testament in the hands of his people, will have a convenient chronological order which will greatly aid him in a better understanding of the life of Old Testament characters.

J. H. MACDONALD,
Pastor Baptist Church,
Woodstock, N. B.

Sept. 3, 1894.
From what knowledge I have been able to acquire after an investigation of the 'Travis' System of Bible Study, I have no doubt but what it will prove a valuable help to Bible students.

Dominion Parliament.

Sept. 23.—To-day was occupied in continuance of the debate on Hon. Mr. Foster's long resolution in relation to the motion to go into supply. The resolution was an instruction to the Government to not precipitate a revision of the tariff. Mr. Foster had made a four hour speech in support of his resolution, and was ably answered by Sir Richard Cartwright in a half hour speech.
The House divided to-day, and Mr. Foster's amendment was defeated by 115 to 76, a Government majority of 37. All Patriots and Independents voted with the Government. The result was received with loud Liberal cheers and the singing of God Save the Queen.

In supply Mr. Foster objected to any vote for the interior department until the government announced its reasons for not filling the portfolio.

Hon. Mr. Laurier replied there were exceptional reasons for delaying the announcement for a few days, or perhaps a few weeks longer. There were several precedents set by Conservatives for this. The portfolio of railways and canals was vacant for ten months in 1885.

Sept. 24th.—After discussing and adopting the report of the Debates committee, recommending the dismissal of three French translators for having taken an active part in the recent election, the House went into committee of supply on the Interior estimates.

When Mr. Foster was speaking Tuesday evening on his trade resolution there was some cross firing. Mr. Foster was referring to the N. P. resolution of 1870, and Mr.
Wood, of Hamilton, asked: "What was the date of the conversion of the Conservative party in 1878?"

Mr. Foster fenced this question, and instead of answering replied Mr. Wood on being a protectionist once.

Mr. Wood—Answer the question.

Mr. Foster—I think I can answer a question by asking another.

Mr. Wood—I can tell you.

Mr. Foster—Very well.

Mr. Wood rose and recalled the fact connected with that famous protection resolution of 1870, how Sir Charles Tupper had come prepared to denounce Sir Richard Cartwright's budget for increasing the taxes, and when he found this did not, asked that it be called 6 o'clock when it was only 5.15, and after recess at 8 o'clock came down with a speech denouncing the government for not protecting home industries—the very reverse of the speech he had prepared first.
That was the sudden conversion of the Conservative party.

Sir Charles Tupper rose amid ministerial cries of "order, order," and attempted to speak, but each time his voice was drowned in the uproar. At length the Speaker intervened and Sir Charles, when quiet, was restored, said: "The hon. gentleman's statement is utterly untrue and unfounded."

This contradiction was greeted by transient applause from the ministerial benches.

Mr. Wood—I can prove it.

Mr. Foster resumed made use of the expression "We have some points settled," and whereupon Dr. Landenker shouted "You're settled anyway," and the Liberals fairly howled with delight at Mr. Foster's apparent discomfiture. Mr. Foster proceeded to the Speaker to keep order and then lectured Dr. Landenker on good behavior.

Dr. Landenker got up to retort, but so loud did the Conservatives shout at him that he sank back laughing.

Mr. Foster, before proceeding, said: Now, if the hon. gentleman will be quiet—Dr. Landenker—If you will be civil.

Mr. Foster proceeded to describe Mr.
Wood as a protectionist, and cited a motion by Mr. Wood in Parliament in 1874.

Mr. Wood denied that he was ever a protectionist, and explained that his resolution simply called for an investigation into the condition of our industries. Sir Charles Tupper at that time objected to the motion as the thin edge of protection.

Sir Charles Tupper (rising amid the laughter of both sides of the House and crying out)—I give that statement the most emphatic contradiction.

Premier Laurier briefly outlined the immigration policy of the government. He said there was little probability of immigration from France and Belgium. A recent report from Sir Donald Smith said an increased immigration from the British Isles might be expected, but it was from the overflow of the population of the United States that Canada must expect her greatest increase, and the government would see to it that this emigration was directed our way.

Sir Richard Cartwright left for Boston today, and reports say he will interview the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain before he returns.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—Protagation is now in sight. The premier told this house to-day, in answer to a question by Sir Charles Tupper, that the government hoped to prorogue on Saturday next.

The minister of trade and commerce, replying to Mr. Foster, said that the contract with the Allan steamer company for carrying mails between Canada and Great Britain, was given on December 16, 1891. It was extended until December 24, 1892, with a proviso that the government should have the right to continue the operation of the contract for a further period, not exceeding one year. There was no clause in the contract requiring the government to give notice to the company of the expiry of the contract, but, in view of the fact that the contract had been continued from year to year for many years, the government were of the opinion that notice to terminate the arrangement should have been given, and that under all the circumstances the company was entitled to a contract for carrying the mails to the close of the season of 1897 and no longer. The contract had been renewed yearly by order-in-council, the last on Sept.
7, 1895, renewing the agreement until Nov.
25, 1896.

A question by Mr. Richardson in reference to the contract for carrying the mails between the railway stations and the post office at Morris, Manitoba, revealed an example of the way in which the affairs of the post office department have been administered under the Conservative regime. The post master general stated that tenders were called for the service in February last, the period for their reception expiring on the 14th of the month. On that day the deputy postmaster general received a letter from Mr. Lariviere, M. P., enclosing a telegram from Mr. J. D. Burke, offering to renew his contract for the performance of the two services at the total sum of $227.50 per annum. On September 23, 1896, the information reached me that said contract had been renewed at a price exceeding that for which a tender had been received, and accordingly I directed an inquiry into the matter and learned on the information of the clerk having charge of such tenders, that the tenders in question were still unopened in the department, whereupon I directed their being opened and found amongst them a tender from George Spence, the lowest tender, to perform both services at the rate of $100 per year, instead of $227.50, the amount at which said contract had been renewed. Accordingly I directed that steps be taken for the cancellation of such renewed contracts, and for the services being offered, to Mr. George Spence on the terms of his tender, namely, $100 a year. (Liberal applause.)

What They Do in Germany.

Dutch peasants are proverbially stolid and slow but they are quick enough to grasp new ideas for increasing their comfort. They have been using wooden sabots for footwear on account of their lightness and warmth; and now the staid and conservative Dutchman has taken to the use of a pair of shoes which is spun out of pure wool fibre; and their costs and vests are interlined with Fibre Chaniois, which is nothing more, or less, than a woolen cloth, made as it is entirely from Spruce Fibre. These same stolid peasants realize thoroughly the non-conductivity of the wood and are anxious to use selves of the inexpensive warmth it provides.
Fibre Chaniois has a world wide reputation as a warm and giving interlining, for it is so light that its presence is hardly felt in the garment and yet it gives an absolute healthful protection from the coldest blasts of a long, stormy winter.

Sept. 20th, 1896.
Those members of our Council, who are fortunate enough to be present last Saturday evening, had a treat. The Florenceville "Templar" presented that evening, as expected, was an excellent production, in fact it was spoken of by one enthusiastic member as the best paper yet issued, which was said to be a good thing, as it was very fidelity, instructive, loyalty to the temperance cause, outspoken criticism, encouraging statements, words of warning, respective admiration of the good, and a sure of the social element, poetry, and a good deal of temperance exhortation. Such a result of the evening's work is a credit to the night that its presence is hardly felt in the garment and yet it gives an absolute healthful
protection from the coldest blasts of a long,
stormy winter.
