Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Carleton Co. Agricultural society was held on Tuesday afternoon.

There was present the President, Secretary, Messrs S Peabody, C P Bull, S Watts, C L Smith, M P P, Andrew Stephenson, H B Smith, Jas Watts, J A Shea, Allan Bull, J R Murphy, Lee Raymond, G L Holyoke, J D Baird, E M Boyer, C L Perkins, Jos Speer, W S Speer.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The Secretary made a verbal report which was a comprehensive resume of the doings of the society during the past year. As he had not been able to complete his financial statement, it was Resolved that such statement be completed and handed to the Auditor, and, with the report of the latter, be submitted to the next monthly meeting of this society.

President Brown addressed the meeting, thanking the members for the uniform courtesy and kindness with which they had treated him during his two years term of office. He trusted that his successor would receive an equally hearty support. He briefly reviewed the transactions of the past year. The society, if not in as good a position financially as could be desired, was, in other respects, never in better standing.

On motion of J R Murphy, seconded by C L Smith, a vote of thanks was given the retiring President for the able discharge of his official duties. Mr Brown fittingly responded.

The election of officers was proceeded with and the following chosen unanimously:

C L Smith, M P P, President; Saml Watts, 1st Vice President; C P Bull, 2nd Vice President; C R Carman, Secretary.

DIRECTORS.

Robt Brown, Andrew Stevenson, J R Murphy, J A Shea, Lee Raymond, H B Smith, J D Baird, S Peabody, Jas Watts, G L Holyoke, C L Perkins, Allen Bull, Jos Speer, W S Speer, John Connor, J S Leighton, Jr, E M Boyer, W S Saunders, J T A Dibblee, M P P, J J Rogers, J S Leighton Auditor, Charles Appleby.

On taking the chair, President Smith acknowledged the honor done him, in a pleasant speech.

On motion of Murphy, seconded by Peabody, $20 was voted to the Secretary for services during the year.

On motion of Murphy, seconded by Shea, a vote of thanks to J S Leighton for use of his office, was passed.

On motion of Raymond, seconded by Brown, Mr Murphy was appointed a committee to have general charge of the Society's grounds and buildings.

Adjourned till Saturday, 27th inst.

An Honored and Respected Citizen.

A Blaine correspondent of the Star-Herald thus refers to our old friend, Mr G L Cronkite:

Aroostook Lodge F & A M claims to have as one of its members the best preserved and most active man in the State in the person of G L Cronkite, Esq, who resides just across the border. He is nearly 70 years of age and can kick an 8 foot ceiling with first one foot and then the other as fast as one can count and in every respect is just as smart and active as he ever was for a short time. In his younger days he was an athlete of no mean ability, a man of peace, but if the occasion required gave a good account of himself in many a hard fought struggle in the days when those things were more fashionable than they are now. He owns one of the finest farm properties in his vicinity and his home is one of the best. For a great many years he has been selected for one of the councillors of Carleton County and is an honored and respected citizen. He has always enjoyed all the good things of this life as they came his way, and if one wants to enjoy genuine blue nose hospitality they will find it at his home.

Miss Minnie M. Williams.

The Amateur Athletic Club have arranged with Miss Minnie M. Williams to give one of her famous Shakespearian recitals in Graham's Opera House, on Monday evening, 29th inst Miss Williams gave a private recital in this town about a month ago and delighted all that heard her. She has given recitals in nearly every town and city in the Province, and our exchanges speak very highly of her ability and her performances. On the 29th, in the Opera House she will render Shakespeare's "Mid Summer Night's Dream." Further particulars will be given in our next issue.

A New L. O. L.

On Tuesday evening Jubilee Loyal Orange Lodge was organized in the Orange Hall, at Woodstock, by County Master Wiggins, assisted by Grand Chap Bleakney, Grand Secretary Farley, Grand Deputy Kierstead, and Grand Director Lockhart. There were a large number of brethren representing different lodges, present. Some 75 names were attached to the application for a charter.

The following officers were elected:—

Charles W Hutchins, W M; S C Wiggins, D M; Rev W J Rutledge, Chap; R E Holyoke, R S; Ernest King, F S; John A Lindsay, Treas; Henry Derrah, Lect; Archie Annett, D C; John W Ketch, S C; Geo McFarlane, A McKinley, John Keiser, J E Davis, Committee.

The Real Loss.

The Windsor Tribune referring to the loss by the fire in that town says:

What is the total loss? No man can say. The utterances of an insurance adjuster have gone abroad that the total loss was $1,000,000. This is most unjust to the town, as the lowest estimate made by any person knowing anything of the town, places it at nearly $2,000,000, while the estimate of one gentleman, who must know more of the town than any non resident, puts it at fully $2,500,000. Of this amount, nearly $700,000 was covered by insurance. These figures will give some idea of what the loss will be.

Klondyke - Yukon Gold Fields.

From information at hand, the Canadian Pacific Railway believes there will be a great rush to these Gold Fields in the spring of 1898, and would add, too early a start, or first to start, does not necessarily mean first to arrive at destination. All the various routes, viz, via St Michaels; via Taiya or Shaguay; via Stickeen River route; or via Edmonton, are being throughly investigated by the Company to ascertain which of all is the best route to go in by, and full information will shortly be in the hands of all C P R Agents. If you are thinking of going out, write to the District Passenger Agent of the C P R at St John, N B, for information and you will get detailed reply as soon as it is received.

IMPROVEMENT OF STOCK.

Aberdeen and Brighton F. & D. A.

The above Society met in the Caledonia Hall, Glassville, on the evening of Saturday, the 6th, Vice Pres Mr George B Reid in the chair. Owing to the stormy evening and very muddy roads, there was a small attendance. The minutes of previous meeting having been read and approved of, the discussion of the question, "How shall we best improve our Farm Stock," was immediately proceeded with. In opening the debate, Mr Spence said that undoubtedly the best way to do so was to import the very best pure bred stallions, bulls and rams, and cross them with our native animals, not forgetting, in the case of bulls, to look out for animals of a breed, remarkable for a first class milk strain. Rather have a cross for milk or beef, then look exclusively to mere purity of breed, as even some of the last might be defective in the production of these. Such a cross as he referred to was well adapted both to our country and climate—better adapted in short, than the finest pure bred animals ever placed on the market. Milk dealers always wished to know the milk pedigree of milch cows.

In the matter of sheep, Mr Lyon recommended the importation of foreign ewes as well as of foreign rams. This had been almost altogether lost sight of. Enough rams had been brought to Aberdeen, to keep up our large flocks of sheep, as far as rams were concerned, but little or no attention had been paid to periodic infusion of new ewe blood. For his part, he preferred black faced sheep, Shropshires, to Leicesters, and could always get as much, if not more, for Shropshire lambs than could be got for the best Leicester lambs in the parish. If Mr Spence and he were to make a reciprocal exchange of, say, half a dozen ewes into their respective flocks, the improvement in their offspring would be most marked, feeding and other things being equal.

Mr John McIntosh, who had had large experience in handling sheep, agreed with Mr Lyon as to the necessity of a frequent importation of foreign ewes—of an importation, say, every four years, at any rate. As for our cattle, they were, as a rule, neglected, both in the stable and out of the stable, especially in the fall of the year. There was great neglect in feeding our cattle in winter. The consequence was that in March or April they came out very thin—in some cases, almost ready to step out of their skins and squat down on their bones—in wretchedly poor condition, either to give milk or put on flesh. Our cow stables were far from being warm enough, full of cracks, crevices and gaps, and with floors often so high above the ground as to be open to cold draughts of air and wind. Cow stables should never be so cold in winter as to allow the freesing of the manure, and never so loose in construction as to permit the in-sifting of snow upon the stock. We might feed as high as we pleased, but the efficaciousness of that feeding would be materially interfered with by the chilling influence of a cold stable, as a considerable percentage of the nourishing qualities of the feed, necessary to the putting on and keeping up of flesh would be expended in keeping up the animal heat of the stock Cattle would never thrive in cold stables. Again our usual straw feed was wretchedly poor feed, and in effect a very decided foe to the improvement of stock, if little else was fed, which unfortunately in not a few instances was the case.

Mr Simpson said there had all along been more attention given to horses than to any other farm stock. As to cattle, he was much of the same opinion as Mr Spence. We ought to get the very best specimens of high bred bulls to breed on our best native cows and to keep up the cross. He would refer gentlemen to Mrs E M Jones' able pamphlet on "The Poor Man's Cow." A good animal was an animal of a good milk strain. A good cow, in this or similar sense was a good cow, no matter what her breed was. Prof. Robertson interviewed a man, who had four cows that yielded on an average about 78 lbs of butter each in a year. The Professor recommended superior feeding to the man, who followed his advice, and brought up the average butter yield of each cow to over 258 lbs per year. What that man did many of us might do; although it was true that many cows would not greatly improve in putting on flesh or in flow of milk, even under good feeding. Put all such away, as milk dealers would at once do, and make no small bones about it. Of course we did not feed our cows properly, feeding as many did only on straw, or any one kind of feed. It was so with ourselves. However excellent things bread and water might be, we could not expect greatly to improve the physical condition of the race, on prison fare alone. Something else must be fed to our cows than the usual traditional straw, or even occasional hay ration. Something new should be occasionally fed to them. He had not studied sheep a great deal but was strongly inclined to support Mr Lyon's views. We must import new ewes or exchange our ewes for others, like Ontario's farmers, at their shows—farmers often living hundreds of miles apart. Change of pasture and change of other feed were important factors in the development of superior cattle and sheep. All should receive equal attention. Turnips as cattle and sheep feed were valuable and successful, it would appear, in England, but not in New Brunswick, begging his friend Mr Lyon's pardon, who was a strong advocate for "neeps." Swine had been for years past and were still on the march of improvement.

The chairman remarked that in our breeding philosophy and practice, and in every branch in fact of our stock improvement and developement theory, we had not been sufficiently careful in "the selection of the fittest." We had been too often contented with any kind of sires, on the one hand, while on the other hand, some farmers trusted too much in mere breeding, without any reference whatever to other points, just as we often meet with people in this world, who were always bloating about "blue blood," with no regard to excellencies of intellectual and moral character, and placing the crown of distinction on the head of a doubly distilled blockhead or a worn out scion of a decayed soi dissant aristocracy or family-compact idiot. First class sires might do for a season or two, but without a repeated infusion of new blood the progeny would soon run out. The grand points to be observed in improving our stock were:—breeding, feeding, housing and weeding out the faulty.

Mr Simpson wished to add that one great thing for us first to do was to make up our mind as to what we really wanted in our stock, and then follow out certain definite lines for the successful attainment of the end desired. Were we to feed for milk or beef? We were to settle this question in our minds, and in our commissariat treatment of our bovines and ovines and equines, too, to govern ourselves accordingly. In the matter of housing, a most important factor in our stock-improving economy, he would refer them to the finely put up and finely appointed stables of his friend Mr Michael Welch.

Mr Spence insisted that to succeed in feeding both for beef and milk we should cross any good animal of our breeds with Shorthorns.

Mr Simpson rejoined that it would be desirable to get, say, ten or fifteen farmers to feed stock, note results, and report said results in the course of a year.

As another discussion had to be opened this evening it was resolved to adjourn debate on stock improvement until next meeting, and proceed to the discussion on the Removal of Tick from Sheep.

Mr John McIntosh said that every one who had had any experience in handling sheep knew that in nine cases out of ten poor sheep were too often the consequence of neglect and poor feed. As regarded the removal of ticks he had almost invariably found that sulphur was an almost infallible agent.

Mr Spence rejoined that it was the ticks that made the sheep poor, just as lice made cattle poor. Ticks and lice also were both found on fat sheep.

The Vice President said he frequently used Insect Powder, in every case with great effect. It had never failed. It should be applied to the sheep on a calm evening, after the sheep had been housed. There was no danger whatever from poisoning, when put along their backs. The same remedy and rule may be applied to cattle when tied up in stables

Mr Frank Home said he had often found one or two sheep in his flock largely affected with ticks, while the others were almost altogether free from the pest.

Mr Lyon strongly recommended the application of English snuff, which he had again and again used with great effect.

Debate was adjourned till next meeting, appointed to be held—same place and hour—on Saturday the 13th inst. Adjourned.

JOHN HOME,
Glassville, Sec.-Treas.

Fashionable Wedding.

A very happy event took place at the residence of Mrs William Hale of Pembroke on the 10th inst occasioned by the marriage of her daughter Rhoda L to W C Bull Esq, of Central Northampton.

The ceremony took place at 8 15 p m, the Rev Archdeacon Neales being the officiating clergyman. As the bridal couple entered the parlor escorted by Mr and Mrs Ernest Hale, the former being the brother of the bride, Mrs W P Jones in her own inimitable style played the wedding march. At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests, to the number of seventy or eighty, adjourned to the dining room where a repast awaited them which would have done credit to the table of a sovereign. Early in the evening the happy couple drove to their future home followed by the earnest felicitations of the assembly. Judging from the large and costly assortment of presents on exhibition one is naturally impressed with the idea that the popularity of the bride and groom is of long standing, and ever increasing. The following list embraces nearly everything:

Set of dishes, Mrs W Tedlie; china berry set, Mr and Mrs Carvell; china berry dishes, Misses Phillips; cake plate and doylie, Mr and Mrs T McIntyre; jardiniere, Archdeacon and Mrs Neales; glass berry dish, Miss A McIntyre; china fruit dish, J Jarvis Bull; linen table cloth, Mrs D A McKendric; centre table, Mr and Mrs F H Hale; salt and pepper service, Miss Beulah Shaw; set of tumblers, H A Phillips; vase, Miss M E Bourne; silver butter dish, J R and A Brown; silver pickle dish, R Brown; pair camp spreads, Mr and Mrs Betts; fancy rug, Mr and Mrs P Bradley; centre pieces, Misses H Bourne, Bessie Bailey and Mrs R J Lindsay; silver cake knife, Dr and Mrs Colter; dozen silver knives, Mr and Mrs S T Baker; two silver table spoons, Mr and Mrs G W Shaw; porridge set, Miss M L Bull; rocking chair, Mrs G A Bull; silver milk pitcher, Mr and Mrs Wolverton; china berry set, Mr and Mrs J H Wilbur; silver pickle dish, Miss K L McIntyre; silver sugar shell, Mr A Phillips; vinegar bottle, Miss May Colter; five o'clock tea pot, Miss Bessie Britton; linen table cloth, Mr and Mrs John Colter; napkin ring, salt and pepper service, Mr and Mrs H D Sharp; cake plate, Ernest Britton; cake plate, Frank Britton; silver napkin ring, Geo Sharp; napkin ring, glass cake plate, butter knife with pearl handle, Mr and Mrs H F Phillips; pair towels, Miss D Sharp; cake plate, Mrs M Hovey; pepper and salt service, W McIntyre; silver breakfast castor, Mr and Mrs A Hale; silver breakfast castor, Mr and Mrs T Britton; silver castor and gold spoon, Geo Black; large teapot, James Colter; pair towels, Mrs James Keegans; hot water pitcher, Mr and Mrs Brooks; glass pitcher, Miss A Teedlie; glass pitcher, Miss E Brooks; hand painted picture framed, Misses Ada L and Hattie Watson; picture scarf, Miss N Tedlie; embroidered pillow shams, Mrs James Turney; rocking chair, Mr and Mrs J J Hale; arm chair, Mr and Mrs C R McKeen; silk table cloth, Mr and Mrs W P Jones.

The lectures delivered by Rev. E. O. Taylor in the Methodist Church, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, this week, were largely attended by deeply interested congregations. The highest compliment was paid the lecturer, in that for two hours he held the rapt attention of his hearers. Mr. Taylor is a pleasant and forcible speaker and close reasoner. He treats his subject from a physiological and scientific stand point and his deductions are conclusive. His lecture on "A Glass of Beer Analyzed," emphysizing his statements by chemical experiments, was a masterly effort.

Miss Laura Smith was the guest of Miss Alma Reid last Sunday evening.

Our School is progressing finely.

Beware of bay horses for their drivers are flirts. Some one out driving with a bay horse last Thursday evening! What made the driver look so pleasant! Why the one who shares his seat of course!

Miss Alma Reid intends going to school in a few days.

The speedy mare owned by Mr Fred Williams has been missed very much by a few of our young ladies.

If these few words don't find their way to the waste basket we will call again.

Nov. 15.—1897.

Winter will soon be here; the earth is covered with her white mantle; the weather is mild, the roads are muddy.

Our old councillors, J Tapley and J Jenkins, are again to the fore.

J Jenkins and sons are having their house plastered.

Geo W Everitt has gone to Perth to meet his sister, Miss Sadie, who is returning from Marysville.

The Klondyke fever has struck some of our farmers quite badly. One of our young men, Harry Harris, has left for British Columbia

One of our farmers dressed a porker last week that weighed 440 lbs.

A soup supper was held at James Jenkins, over fifty guests being present.

La Grippe is prevalent.

Wm Everitt is still in poor health.

Nov 16.

The first snowstorm of the season made its appearance on Thursday night of last week, and continued all day Friday. It is estimated about a foot of snow, which would, had the ground been frozen, made very good sleighing, as it was, nearly all the runners in town were out and quite a number of our people enjoyed a fine sleigh ride. But the snow did not last long on the roads, and at present it is raining and the snow is rapidly disappearing from the fields.

Bad colds are very prevalent here just now.

We are sorry to learn that G W Bull, one of our most popular traders, by too close attention to business, has failed in health; he and wife have gone away for a vacation. We sincerely hope the much needed rest will be beneficial to him, so as to enable him on his return to resume business again, otherwise he would be greatly missed.

CARLETONIAN.

Greater New York.

This is the name applied to what was formerly known as New York, but which now embraces what is known as the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queen's and Richmond. It is 196,800 acres in extent; has a population of 3,204 360; the assessed value of its real estate is $2,367,659,607; ditto of its personal property, $404 001,063; bonded debt, $212,923,116, and the number of votes cast in 1896 was 537,174. It has 61 State assembly districts, 20 State Senate districts, 16 Congressional districts, 28 members of the City Council, and 61 alderman.

Instead of several Mayors as formerly there is now but one, and this is the territory over which Mr. Van Wyck, with a salary of $15,000, and Tammany now holds sway. The Mayor has the appointment of thousands of civic officials with salaries running from $2 500 to $15,000. The Civic, or as it is called the Machine System is most elaborate and complicated. New York is now the second city in the world in population.

To W. T. Stead, of London, in an interview, Richard Croker thus explains the meaning of Tammany Hall. "You talk," he said, "of Tammany and those who are in office as if they had any authority whatever beyond the popular vote freely expressed. What is Tammany? I am the Boss, they say. But I hold no office. If I am the Boss it is simply because what I may say or think goes with the Executive Committee. You or any man might be a Boss to-morrow if you could convince those who hear you that you are a sensible man who has a sincere regard for the party and the city. They cry Tammany Hall! Tammany Hall! But what is Tammany Hall? It is simply an Executive Committee of the Democratic party of New York, elected annually at primaries or open public meetings held subject to the law, which makes strict provisions against any fraud or wrong doing. New York is divided into thirty four assembly districts. Each of these districts holds a public meeting, to which every member of the party resident in that district is free to attend. At these primaries representatives are selected by the free vote of the citizens present. These representatives elect one of their number in whom they have confidence as their leader. This leader becomes their representative on the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall. He may be re-elected year after year. But he can be superseded in twelve months if he cannot retain the confidence of the people in his own district. You hear a great deal about my being the Boss, as if I were Lord and master of Tammany Hall I hold no office.

'I have no power, not an atom, except what I can exercise because of the confidence which the people have in me. They know that I am honest, that I am true, that I care for the party and the city, and that is all there is to it. Boss Tweed no doubt was a bad Boss. But we met him in the primaries and we turned him down, and put honest John Kelly in his stead. When Kelly died there was some discussion as to his successor. I said, let us appoint no successor, or rather let us all be successors. Instead of one Boss let us all thirty four be Bosses, and it was agreed But somehow when people found that what I said went, they got into the habit of saying I was Boss. But I could not help that."

Mr Stead said of Croker: "Mr. Croker is not a silk-stocking dude, but he is a gentleman in his bearing and in his conversation. I speak of him as I saw him. And of his personal rectitude Mr Stead appears to have been somewhat convinced.
