A New Idea. The following which is amply suggestive we take from an American Exchange : Is used to be that whistling in school was looked upon by teachers se an unforgivable offense, and the boy indulging in it was visited with due punishment. This idea has gone out of fashion in some schools of this city where now there are frequent whisting where now there are frequent whisting matches in study hours, with the teach re leading, and the boys and girls joining in the chorus. It goes under the name of musical education, as a part of a system introduced in certain sections before a regular music course was adopted. In the Zine street school in Philadelphia, where the Board of Elucation has its offices, shrill notes from the class rooms above fluct down upon the committees. rooms above first down upon the committees in the midst of their deliberations. The repertaire includes "Yaskee Doodle," "S ar Spangled Banner," and "Home, Sweet Home," Strange as it may seem the girle, after a little practice, make better whistlere than the boys. They enjoy it immensely.

Wearisome Speeches.

In the Canadian House speeches are delivered almost every other day, the wearisome length of which would not be tolerated as Westminster. For instance, at the opening of the present session Sir Charles Tupper apply to sixteen house with the present session of the present ses important remarks; and during the debate on the Yukon Railway bill just ended the uverage number of speeches per day, including ong afternoon and evening sessions, for the whole fifteen days of debate was scarcely three. In 1896, when the great debate on the Manifobs school bill took place, the House sat without adjournment from two o'clock on Monday afternoon until midnight the following Saturday, and during that record sitting the members slept and dozed through one hundred and thirty hours of solid speech-making.—Pall Mali Gazette, London.
