Within the year the beautiful love story of Mr. and Mrs. Brown has become a public property and has been translated into many languages. It is a story of love and devotion, of a man and a woman who have been united in the most perfect manner. The story is told in a simple, straightforward manner, and is a most interesting and profitable study. It is a story of a man and a woman who have been united in the most perfect manner. English Sunday Laws

There are some curious Sunday laws still unrepented. One old English law states that 'no one shall use, employ or travel upon the Lord's day in any boat, barge or lighter, unless it be an extraordinary occasion, under a penalty of six shillings fine or two hours in the stocks. According to the law made in 1803 a fine of one shilling was inflicted on all persons over 9 years of age who were not present at their parish church on Sundays, and the law further goes on to say that all churchwardens were compelled, under a penalty of $20, to enforce this law. Several instances are on record of people being fined for absence from church. One of the latest occurred in 1817, when Sir Montague Burgoyne was prosecuted at Bedford for having been absent from the parish church for several months. He was, however, let off on the evidence of the doctor. But in 1864 Isaac Watson, a man of straw, was fined 9 shillings and 6 pence for refusing to go to church on Sunday when asked to do so by his mistress.

Dangerous Projectiles

Among projectiles often referred to in the war despatches are shrapnel, common or ring shell, and case shots. The shrapnel shell weighs 124 lbs. and contains about 160 lead bullets. It is fitted up with a time and percussion fuse, graduated for an extreme range of about 5,000 yards. These shrapnel shells are a real terror to the enemy, which at the moment of bursting imparts to the 100 lead bullets an accelerating velocity of about 250 feet per second, so that even at long ranges the projectiles are most effective against men and horses. The 124 lb. common and ring shells are very similar to each other, the only difference being a slight variation in structure. They are both fitted with a point percussion fuse and contain a bursting charge of about ten ounces. The case shot is efficient up to 300 or 400 yards. How Bore Spies are Treated

Gunner Alfred Beadell of the field artillery, in a letter from Orange River, South Africa, says: 'The most painful thing I have seen was a Dutch spy who was caught trying to poison some horses. He was tried and sentenced to be shot, and the poor fellow was made to march with a gun on his own back, and when he had finished it he stood over it. Then 12 soldiers marched out and each man had to pick up a rifle out of a group of 12. There were six of these loaded and six unloaded, so none of them knew who shot him. And the poor chap never said a word. I was all over in a few minutes. * * * I shall be thankful when we get into barracks—if ever we do so—as we shall have a bed to sleep on. It will be quite a change from sleeping on the hard bare ground and only your foot to rest on from the wind and rain.'
