Poetry.

The Friendly Hand.

When a man ain't got a cent, an' he's in a bad kind of blue, An' the clouds hang dark 'n' heavy an' won't let the sunshine through, It's a great thing, O my brethren, for a follyer just to lay His hand upon your shoulder in a friendly sort o' way!
It makes a man feel curious; it makes the tear drops start,
An' you sort o' feel a flutter in the region o' the heart.
You can't look up and meet his eyes; you don't know what to say, When his hand is on your shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.
O the world's a curious compound, with its honey an' its gall, With its cares an' bitter crosses; but a good word after all.
An' a good God must have made it—least-ways, that is what I say When a hand rests on my shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.

Select Tale.

EMPTY SEATS.

'Are you going to church this morning, Susie?' asked Dr. Clark, lying back in his easy chair, with the morning paper.
'Doctor, who is out day and night can't be expected.'
'No, I made jelly yesterday, and I'm tired. I'm faithful enough to stay at home this cloudy morning,' and Mrs.
Clark curled up on the sofa with the Bible she had not opened for a week, but it soon dropped from her hand. She was aroused by a strange voice saying:
'Now, my good imps, what have you done to-day to weaken the kingdom of God?'

The voice came from a suspicious-looking personage seated on a throne of human skulls. Around him was gathered a crowd of terrible beings, each with a crown of fire, in which gleamed some name, such as malice, envy, pride, hatred, and hundred passions.

'We have been busy to-day, making empty seats in churches,' began one.
'Nothing could please me better,' answered the king.

'I persuaded one man that he had a headache, and kept him from a sermon that might have changed his whole life,' said one.

'I induced one good man to slip in his store and fix up his books,' said another, with a coriand grin.

'Good!' said the king. 'He'll soon give up the Sabbath altogether.'
'I was able to get one devoted young man to visit some old friends,' said one imp.

'I worried a good sister about her old bonnet until she decided to stay at home until she got back the hat,' spoke up the imp labeled 'Pride.'

'And I made several poor women who were hungry for God's word stay home to repine over their trials. I just said to them, "Oh, these rich people don't care you; you can wear fine clothes, so wouldn't go where I was looked down upon." That way I kept many poor people at home who the rich would have been very glad to see.'

'That is one of the best ways to cheat poor people out of heaven that I know of,' answered the king with approval.

'I induced a good many men and women to think they were not strong enough to go out, said one called 'Indifference.' Of course all these men will be at their business to-morrow, even if they feel worse. But they could not go to church, where they would have no special mental or physical strain. And the ladies would have been able to clean house or go calling, but I made them think they couldn't walk to church unless they were perfectly well.'

'Very good,' said the king with a sulphurous grin. 'Sunday headaches might often be cured by getting out in the air, and backaches forgotten by thoughts drawn to higher things. But you lying imps must use every weakness of the flesh to make empty seats,' They all smiled, for in their kingdom 'lying' was a great compliment.

To make ladies think that their servants need no Sunday privileges is good,' suggested one.

'Very true,' said his superior. 'As long as we can get Christian people to come or allow men and women to work business to-morrow, even if they feel worse during work hours, we can keep many empty seats in churches, and men and women away from God.'

'I'm in the weather imp,' said one gloomy fellow. 'Go around persuading people it is going to rain or it is too cold, too damp or too hot to venture out to church.
It is enough to make even your gloomy majesty laugh to see these same people start out the next day in wind and weather. One would think it a sin to carry umbrellas and wear gum coats to church.'

'Contentially,' answered the king, 'when I find a Christian who has no more concern about weather Sunday than Monday—determined to make as much effort for spiritual gain as he would for worldly profit—I just give him up. It's no use trying to get back the man or woman who goes to God's house in all kinds of weather.'

'I'm able to do a good deal with some of the ladies of the congregation,' spoke up the imp labeled 'Fashion of this World.' 'I can make some people stay at home because the new hat did not come, or because their clothes are out of style, or they have not gotten a new cloak.'

'I have a better scheme than that,' said another. 'These people you keep away are different—generally good-for-nothing folks, who are hardly worth getting into the kingdom of his Satanic majesty, but I have a plan that empties seats of the workers in church.
'That is just what we want,' said the king.

I make these people overwork on Saturdays. For instance, I make some good man the preacher besides upon, or some devout Sunday school teacher, to make Saturday the busiest day of the week. I just keep him rubbed with neglected things till late at night, and then he overleaps or is sick the next day, and can't get out.
'Splendid plan!' cried Satan.
'Yes, it works well with delicate women. If they clean house, or have Saturday company, they can be kept at home without knowing they have broken the Sabbath the day before. A church party late Saturday night helps with empty seats.'

'You are doing finely, my imps,' his majesty said with a warm smile. 'You have a plan that empties seats of the workers in church. Preachers may work and pray their sermons all the week, but there will be no results in preaching to empty seats. One of the most important things we have to consider is how to keep people away from churches on Sunday. Your plans are excellent, but I must suggest another good point. All preachers have human imperfections—some fault of manner or speech. Get Christians to criticize their pastor, especially before their children.
If you can stir up a spirit of fault-finding against the preacher, or among the members, it will help empty seats. People who get mad at each other do not care to go to church together. If the seats are empty, the minister may be a saint and preach like an angel to no purpose. See the result of your labor on High Street church to-day. Not only did the two hundred people who stayed at home lose a blessing, but each empty seat did its work against the Lord's kingdom. The preacher's usual unusual preparation, and went with his heart on fire, but the empty seats chilled him, and he died poorly. There was a special collection, but the best givers were away, so it was a failure. It isn't a smart trick, but a rich one, and it costs no good location, nor a paid choir, that draws in the unconverted, and makes an eloquent preacher. As soon as a Christian begins to stay at home, he loses an excuse or another, I know I have a mortgage on his soul, which, if he does not shake off, I will foreclose on the judgement day.'

'You have none on mine!' cried Mrs.
Clark, who had been listening with deafened breath. 'I'll go to church if only to defeat you.'

'What the matter, dear?' asked the doctor. 'Have you been dreaming?'

'Perhaps so; but I'm going to church if I get to my feet just in time for the penitential. I'll cheat Satan from this day out of my empty seat.' She has kept her word, and influenced many others to let nothing trifling keep them from God's house; and one 'down-town' church has begun to grow, and will soon be a great power for God, because of no empty seats.'

'What makes you go late?' asked his mother.

'The teacher kept me in because I couldn't find Moscow on the map of Europe,' replied Johnnie.

'Mother—And no wonder you couldn't find Moscow. It was burned down in 1812. It's an outrage to treat a child that way.'

'Mother—Was your aunt glad to see you, and Tommy, and Frankie, and Fred?'

'Johnny—Yes, mamma.
Mother—Did she invite you to call again?'

'Johnny—Yes, and she told us to bring you and papa, and Susie, and the dog next time.'

No one needs to be told to try to cure a cough. But any one will be glad to be told of a means of cure which will be thorough and lasting. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine which can be confidently relied on to cure diseases of the organs of respiration, such as colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis and bleeding of the lungs. It cures when nothing else will cure, and the local physician says: "There is nothing more that we can do."

There is no alcohol in Golden Medical Discovery, and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer, tempted by the little more paid by less meritorious medicines, will sometimes try and sell a substitute when the "Discovery" is asked for. No substitute medicine will satisfy the sick like "Golden Medical Discovery."

"Two years ago a severe cough started on me and I was also bothered with catarrh," writes Mr. F. S. Reid of Danvers, Chicago, Ill. "I could not sleep nights, as the cough was worse at night. I tried several cough medicines, but to no avail, until a year ago when I bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and at the same time using Dr. Sages Catarrh Remedy, I am a well man. I can thank Dr. Pierce for my good health, and will recommend his medicine to any one suffering from the same trouble."

sumption.

OUR MOTTO.

OUR FAITH.

A Pure Election.
To the Editor of the Carleton Sentinel: One fact is clearly demonstrated, viz: an election can be run without bribery and corruption and without rum. For proof, the election in York county, between Dr. McLeod and Mr. Gibson. If Dr. McLeod had been on the right side, good Liberal, to-day he would be a member of the House of Commons at Ottawa. This statement cannot be doubted by any intelligent person.

Now, sir, the precedent is established.
Shame be to the lawmakers! Shame to the lawbreakers of such weak ineffectual laws that would give a shame to the shame to the shape calling and thinking themselves men, who offer money and give the people money, that should be used to build "Saint John Valley Railroad" and other improvements, for the decent class of taxpayers, which are indispensably needed, instead of going for alcohol to set the roughs racing, making the night hideous with screams, oaths and obscene language, lasting sometimes a month, so that one hears of an election coming on with disgust. I hear a Conservative saying, "that is how you Liberals got themselves in power." That is how you got yourselves in power, I say. I also say if the powers that be, cannot do better with that and some more scandalous things, they had better step down and out and give a better class in the community a chance. That class is the women, who have as much intelligence, brains and every needful qualification as the men. Then we would have a government without bribery and corruption. Then we would have the greatest boon on earth—prohibition from intoxicating drink.

One man has stood up with the courage of his convictions and run his election sound principles and almost won.
Why not more try? I heard Gompers Foster speak on temperance, in the old Institute, in Woodstock, and declare not only the plank in his platform, but the whole platform was prohibition. In "moments of weakness," he repudiated that statement, and some of those who were there, and where is he? Echo answers where?

Now, Mr. Editor, I think the time is come, and was here long ago, when it is everyone's business who can use a pen, to speak a word, to cry out against Liberals and have them redressed. Give us a pure government; put in those beautiful buildings that the people's money have built and the people's sweat has erected, stone upon stone, men or women who fear God and keep His commandments, who were not put there by rum and stolen money. Then this glorious Dominion of ours would rise among the nations of the world, an honor and inspiration for the world to admire and follow, instead of a shame and reproach.
With these few thoughts I close, hoping to see the next election run on decent principles.

Africa After The War

One of the most striking articles in the magazines this month is that contributed to the Window Magazine, by Ernest E. Williams, on the possibilities of Africa after the war. Cape Colony should have a promising future, judging by the following statistics:—In the year ended May, 1898, 2,000,000 bushels of wheat were produced, and about 3,000,000 bushels of oats, barley, maize, Kaffir corn and rye. 6,000, 000 lbs of tobacco, over 43,000,000 lbs of wool, over 250,000 lbs of ostrich feathers, and over 3,000,000 lbs of butter. The Colony's wine stock yielded 4,350,000 gallons of wine, 1,400,000 gallons of brandy, and 2,000,000 lbs of cocoa. It held 2,250,000 head of cattle.
Moreover, that test of advancing development, the establishment of manufactures, may likewise be called in evidence. The 1891 census is the latest available. In that year more than a quarter million pounds' worth of manufactures were produced in Cape Colony. These sample statistics not only show the progress which has been made, but are an earnest of the greater thing to come, when British rule and British railways and British development shall have extended northwards till they join hands with those coming steadily down from Egypt. Already the home products of the Colony are worth some
