The Big Excursion.

On next Monday morning, June 10th an opportunity will be given those who desire it of visiting the favorite summer resort of Maine, Eastport. The excursion is under the auspices of the A. O. H. and will leave Bath at 5 o'clock. It will collect excursionists on the way down, and will leave Woodstock at 6.30, take the Houlton excursionists at Debec, and will arrive at Eastport, via the C. P. R. and Washington County railway, at 12 o'clock, there being no change of cars and no delays from Bath to Eastport. Excursionists will have 7 hours in the city to admire the scenery, visit the beaches, or enjoy a sail. Those who prefer to do so, can stop at Milltown and visit the cities of Calais and St. Stephen. For particulars see large bills and dodgers. A most enjoyable outing is guaranteed.

Absolutely Untrue.

The fact is now established that the story scattered broadcast last week to the effect that Mrs. George Freeman, of Bridgewater, made a deplorable confession of a horrible nature is absolutely false, and is but the fabrication of malevolent gossips. Mrs. Freeman has been ill a long time and is insane, but Mr. White disclaims having heard any confession. Sargent's strange disappearance set some malicious tongues going at the time, but no person ever thought seriously of foul play. The Freemans are highly respected and peaceful and held in esteem by all their neighbors. It is with pleasure that the Advertiser is able to contradict the rumor.—Hartland Advertiser.

Some time ago, Love's hotel, at Glassville, was considerably damaged by several young men who were under the influence of liquor. The menu did credit to the reputation of Wilbur & Stevenson, of the Aberdeen, as most successful caterers for events of similar nature.

GIBSON UNSEATED.

RESPONDENT'S COUNSEL SAYS DINNERS WERE GIVEN VOTERS AND TEAMS ENGAGED BY AGENTS—AGREEMENT BY BOTH SIDES TO REFRAIN FROM CORRUPT METHODS.

Fredericton, N B., June 3.—The election court for the trial of the York petition opened this morning, Chief Justice Tuck and Justice Hanington presiding. Rev Joseph McLeod, the petitioner, was present with his solicitors, O S Crockett and H F McLeod; and A J Gregory appeared in the interests of the respondent, Alex Gibson, Jr.

The usual preliminaries were gone through with and Messrs. E A McKay, deputy clerk of the pleas, and A A Sterling, sheriff of York, were called to the stand to prove the publication of the notice for trial of the petition.

After this the counsel for the respondent informed the court that Mr Gibson had upon inquiry learned that some irregularities in the conduct of the election on the part of his supporters and agents had taken place. The irregularities, Mr Gregory explained, amounted to the furnishing of dinners to friendly voters, at some of the polling places, and the conveyance of voters to and from the polls, these acts being corrupt within the meaning of the election act; and the fact that such dinners were given and voters conveyed to the polls could no doubt be proved by the petitioner, therefore he would consent to the election being decided void.

Mr Crockett then announced to the court that he would offer no evidence in support of the petitioner's claim to the seat, or in support of the personal charges against the respondent, to which Mr Gregory replied that he would in that case offer no evidence on behalf of the respondent in support of the recriminatory charges preferred against the petitioner, which were substantially the same as the charges made by the petitioner against the respondent.

Acting on the strength of the admissions and announcements, the chief justice declared the election void, and formally adjourned the court. No order was made by him as to the costs. The whole proceedings did not occupy more than half an hour.

The following document, containing the signatures of members of both political parties, is self-explanatory:

The undersigned, believing in the desirability of pure elections, and speaking, as far as they have authority for the Liberal and the Liberal-Conservative parties in York county, hereby agree that in all elections, in the county, they will refrain from the use of illegal and corrupt methods, and that they will use their influence to the utmost to prevent their respective parties from using such methods.
