ASSASSIN ELECTROCUTED.

The Murderer of President McKinley Suffers the Penalty of his Crime.

Auburn, N. Y. Oct 29.—At 7.12.30 o'clock this morning Leon F. Czolgosz murderer of President William McKinley, paid the extreme penalty exacted by the law for his crime. He was shocked to death by 1,700 volts of electricity. He went to the chair in exactly the same manner as have the majority of all the other murderers in this state, showing no particular sign of fear, but in fact, doing what few of them have done, talking to the witnesses while he was being strapped in the chair.

"I killed the president because he was an enemy of the good people—of the good working people. I am not sorry for my crime." These were his words as the guards hurried him into the chair.

He supplemented a moment later, mumbling them through the half-adjusted face straps:

"I am awfully sorry I could not see my father."

Czolgosz retired last night at 10 o'clock and slept so soundly that when Warden Mead went to the cell shortly before five this morning, the guard inside had to shake Czolgosz to awaken him. He sat up on the edge of his cot and made no reply to the warden's greeting of good morning. The prison official took from his pocket the death warrant and read it slowly and distinctly to the assassin, who hardly raised his eyes during the ceremony.

Just as the warden stepped away from the cell door, Czolgosz called to him and said:

"I would like to talk with the superintendent."

The warden responded: "He will be down presently." Then the condemned man rolled over on his cot apparently anxious to sleep again.

At 5.15 however, the guard brought to him a pair of dark trousers with the left leg slit so as to allow the free application of the electrode and a light gray outing shirt. He was told to get up and put these on which he did.

Contrary to the usual custom, he was given a new pair of shoes. When dressed he laid down on the cot again and in this attitude Superintendent Collins found him at 5.30 when he went down to visit him.

The Superintendent stood in front of the steel bars and when the guard had called Czolgosz's attention, he said: "I want to make a statement before you kill me."

"What do you wish to say, Czolgosz?" asked the superintendent.

I want to make it when there are a lot of people present. I want them to hear me," said the prisoner.

"Well, you cannot," said the Superintendent.

"Then I won't talk at all," said the prisoner sullenly.

"After the Superintendent had left, the guards brought Czolgosz's breakfast, consisting of coffee, toast, eggs and bacon, and he ate with quite a good deal of relish. While he was partaking of this the witnesses were gathered in the office of Warden Mead, and at 7.06 o'clock the procession passed to the death chamber, going through the long south corridor.

The witnesses were ordered seated, and then Warden Mead briefly addressed them, saying: "You are here to witness the legal death of Leon F. Czolgosz. I desire that you keep your seats and keep absolute silence in the death chamber, no matter what may transpire. There are plenty of guards and prison officials to preserve order and attend to the proper details."

Warden Mead gave the signal to have the prisoner brought in, and at 7.10.30 o'clock Chief Keeper Tupper swung open the big steel doors leading to the condemned cells, and as the steel bars behind which Czolgosz had been kept were swung aside two guards marched the prisoner out into the corridor, two others following behind and the Chief Keeper walking in front.

The guards on either side of Czolgosz had hold of his arms either as if to support him, or to keep him from making a demonstration. As he stepped over the threshold he stumbled but they held him up and as they urged him forward toward the chair he stumbled again on the little rubber covered platform upon which the chair rests. His head was erect, and with his grey flannel shirt turned back at the neck, he looked quite boyish. He was intensely pale and as he tried to throw his head back and erect, his chin quivered very perceptibly.

As he was being seated he looked about at the assembled witnesses with quite a steady stare and said: "I killed the president because he was an enemy of the good people—of the working people." His voice trembled slightly at first, but gained strength with each word and he spoke perfect English.

"I am not sorry for my crime," he said loudly, just as the guard pushed his head back on the rubber headrest and drew the divisible strap across his forehead and chin. As the pressure on the straps tightened and bound the jaws tightly he mumbled: "I'm awfully sorry I couldn't see my father."

It was exactly 7.11 o'clock when he crossed the threshold, but a minute had elapsed and he had just finished the last statement when the strapping was completed and the guards stepped back from the man.

Warden Mead raised his hand and at 7.12.30 Davis turned the switch that threw 1,700 volts of electricity into the living body. The rush of the immense current threw the body so hard against the straps that they creaked perceptibly. The hands clinched up suddenly and the whole attitude was one of extreme tension. For forty five seconds the full current was kept on and then slowly the electrician threw the switch back, reducing the current volt by volt until it was out and off entirely. Then just as it had reached that point he threw the lever back again for a brief two or three seconds. The body, which had collapsed as the current was reduced, stiffened up again against the straps, when it was turned off again Dr MacDonald stepped to the chair and put his hand over the heart. He said he felt no pulsation but suggested that the current be turned on for a few seconds again. Once more the body became rigid. At 7.15 the current was turned off for good.

From the time Czolgosz had left his cell until the full penalty was paid less than four minutes had elapsed. The physicians present used the stethoscope and other tests to determine if any life remained and at 7.17 the Warden, raising his hand, announced:

"Gentlemen, the prisoner is dead."

The harvest supper was held in the Orange Hall on the evening of Oct 24. About $80 was realized from the supper and the fancy table.

Rev Mr Teed has his flagpole up again. It was struck by lightning in the summer and the upper part broken.

Mr Cowie lectured in the Church of England Sunday School last night. The proceeds were in the interest of the Foreign Missions.

Rev Mr Sloggart of Houlton will conduct the service in the Episcopal church next Sunday. Mr Teed will attend a dedication at East Florenceville.

Lakeville.

The N B Telephone Co have at last run a line from Centerville to Lakeville and from there to Bloomfield. This is only what should have been done months ago, although some would much rather have had the line run through to Hartland or Woodstock. Doctors Brown, Ross and Bearsto are pushing a private line through Avondale and Waterville to Hartland. This will connect us with some points that the N B line at present does not reach.

Ploughing and butchering are the present occupations of the farmer.

Among those who took advantage of the royal visit to go to St John were Councillor Carvell, Colin King Jr; Mr and Mrs Robert Smith, Mrs H Carvell, Miss Effie Tracey, Mrs Bearsto and Master Jack.

Miss Mary Fowler leaves here for St John next week, to further her studies in music.

Miss Annie King, who has been spending a week at Monticello, has returned home.

Mrs M Smith visited her mother, who is very ill, at Mars Hill last week. Her old neighbors are sorry to hear of her suffering.

Williamstown.

The harvest supper at the home of Mr Will McWaid was a royal success. Chicken, galore and abundance of other good things. The treasure found himself the happy recipient of $70 to hand in to the trustees of the church for repairs. This church has a sacred spot in the hearts of all as it stands year after year almost as a guardian of our dead. Surely we ought to at least keep it equal in comfort and cohesiveness to our homes.

On Wednesday of last week at the home of Mr John McAulay, Mr L Reade and Miss Ethel McAulay were united in marriage. Both these young people are very pleasant friends who wish them much happiness.

Mrs Lewin left last week for Boston at the call of her sister Mrs Richardson, whose husband is very ill.

Miss Helen McLeod spent several days of last week with her sister, Mrs McWaid.

Rockland.

Oct 30, 1901.

For some days past the chilled atmosphere reminds us of what is coming and that we prepare for it. A fresh consignment of warm underclothing recently received at the post office store will be found all right in price and quality.

The "Holy Ghost and Us" school, Me, is represented by a few young men, students and workers, who are holding meetings in surrounding localities; they are now at Mc Pleasant and quite an interest is manifest.

Mr and Mrs Archibald Purdy, of Jemseg, have been visiting at Rev J D Wetmore's and other friends in this region. D J Purdy, M P P for St John, is a brother.

Rev Wetmore closed special services at Windsor on Saturday last; were baptised and many more under conviction.

So many married as well as single men have gone to the woods that some one suggests the organization of a "grass widows' club" for the whiling away of long winter evenings in literary and instructive discussions.

The building in course of construction by S Lewis is a dwelling house and not a warehouse as erroneously stated in my last, and promises to be the most attractive in the village, when completed.

Rev Foster, F B, is holding special meetings in Knowlesville.

A W Estabrooks and daughter, Mrs S S Page, visited St John during the time of Duke and Duchess sojourn and were pleased with appearance of their Royal Highnesses, as well as city decorations and grand display.

Sheriff Hayward attended divine service at Baptist church this place on Sunday morning last.

The telephone line to and through this village will soon be an established fact.

Joel Ellis and family are comfortably located in their new house.

Two new hanging lamps of fine finish and appearance have recently been put in the Baptist chapel which, with former, furnish an abundance of light; the light of the gospel also shines forth from the pulpit.

The better thinking portion of this and surrounding sections are pleased that settlements without severe punishment were effected with parties who were so unfortunate as to have criminal suits at late session of Court.

Baptist Sabbath School, Rockland, will elect officers for next term at its session on Sunday morning next.

Frank Hayward has been home from the woods with an injured limb.

Daily inquiries for men to go to logging camps; wages good but supply of men from this quarter entirely exhausted.

Because of late rains Clark Bros mill, at mouth of Coldstream, is running full time, manufacturing boards, scantling, shingles and laths.

Country produce of all kinds in demand at remunerative prices; plenty of work for all who desire it; food plenty; health beaming in every countenance; a happy and contented people—what more needed? May we truly appreciate all such great favors.

Royalton.

Mr C C Shaw passed through here Saturday on his way to Bloomfield; he has agreed to teach the school there for the remainder of the term.

Mr Jarvis Miller is very low; the doctor says he cannot last but a few days. His wife is also sick at present; we hope she will soon recover.

Mr and Mrs Oley Smith have gone to Lowell to spend the winter.

Mr Oliver Miller, Connell, paid us a short visit on Monday.

Mrs Ira Miller and her daughter, Mrs Carey Shaw, have returned from a visit to Connell, Hartland, Rockland and other places.

Mrs Samuel Jamison is spending a few days with relatives in this place.

Miss Alice Cowan spent Sunday at home.

Farmerston.

Oct 29, 1901.

Once again we hear the click of the hay press, and the boys are merry, if they do have to work hard. The press is run this season by Will Fewer, Michael Keefe, Ernest Fewer and Eddie Kennedy. We hope they seem to be doing a rushing business.

Vince Fewer and Ernest Keefe are running a threshing machine, so we will see their smiling faces but little this season.

Miss Charlotte Kennedy and Miss Mabel Ray spent a few days here, last week, the guests of Mrs James Fewer.

Miss Alice Traverse, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs Walter Fewer, has returned home.

Mr George Anderson left on the 16th for a short visit to the Commercial Metropolis.

Mr Edward Estey, our postmaster seems to have had luck with his horses. He lost one last week, that being the third this year.

Mr A W Fields and C S Britton, passed through here Thursday, en route for Centerville, to extend the telephone line from Centerville to Bloomfield.

A number of young people spent a very pleasant evening at the home of Mr Richard Gallivan on Friday evening last. Music, dancing and games of all kinds were indulged in, and refreshments served about 12.

I am afraid we are about to lose from our midst John Callahan, Walter Fewer and Will Fewer, as they are thinking of buying farms at Jacksonstown.

Everyone should have been present to enjoy the oyster supper at Mr Henry Gallivan's, on the evening of the 17th. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all, although it began to snow shortly after the crowd had gathered, and those coming from a distance knew they would have a very cold drive home in the small hours of the morning.

Killing hogs seems to be the order of the day; as everybody is trying to get ahead of everybody else, while the prices are high.

East Newbridge.

Oct. 29, 1901.

We have a very pleasant Autumn. The farmers are all getting ready for next spring.

Ploughing bees are the order of the day—tripping the light fantastic the night. Mr McCarty had the crowd last night, they came home in the wee sma hours well satisfied. We wonder who will have the next bee?

Our popular carpenter and mason, R A Fuller, has been kept very busy this fall building a new house for Mr W Clark, putting some finishing touches on Mr W Sibbly's house, plastering for Mr J Price and Mr O McDade, a stone wall for Mr Tabor, a fine for Mr D McIntosh and helping Mr McLean with his new house.

Miss M McCarty who has been spending the summer home intends returning to Lowell shortly.

Mr D Bagley has moved to his new house.

We are glad Mr Nevers is around again, thanks to Dr Saunders.

Our school is progressing fine under the care of Miss E Borne.

Mr L Hull and his mother were welcome guests at Mr J Hartin's the other day.

ONLY ME.

Riley Brook.

Oct 27th, 1901.

A jolly crowd of men arrived here on the 22nd for Hale and McCollum. Sporting tourists still coming and going.

First snow here on the 19th, mountains and valleys were clothed in their beautiful white robes.

Quite cold and disagreeable weather the past week; heavy travelling and lots of mud.

Mrs Wm Inman who has been visiting her sister here for a few days, returned on the 22nd to Three Brooks, where she will remain through the winter and spring months.

Nearly all the young men have gone to the woods.

Miss Jessie Wilson has gone to Woodstock on a vacation trip, we see some one wandering around looking as though he would like to go too.

Bird Ross has gone to yankee town for the winter.

Rev Girdwood preached his farewell sermon here on the 26th.

Mrs J Ganter, who has been staying with her husband's sister since last spring, returned to her home in Woodstock to-day, accompanied by her niece Mrs Wm Vanderbeck, as nurse.

Very sad—A young man of Gordonsville who was in Mr G Falkner's employ on the Tobique, got hurt on the temple with a skid on the evening of the 24th and died in camp on Sunday morning 26th. He was brought here last night, accompanied by his employer and brother.

Mr S Hayden kindly assisted in placing the remains in his express and their journey was continued to P R. What a sad sight for his loved ones at home! Whilst in life, we are in death.

Master F McCollum called at the Harmony to night.

Mr James Bigger of Oxbow at the Harmony tonight.

Mr Salmon commercial traveller, here to night.

Mrs R McKeen of Woodstock who has been spending the summer here with her sister Mrs J Tapley, leaves for her home in the morning by stage.

Mr Robert Phillips is still working at E P Ross' house.

Four Falls.

Oct 27, 1901.

James Anderson of Perth, who has moved here recently, is an excellent blacksmith. He is a very obliging young man, and we predict for him a large amount of patronage. The people will not be compelled to go elsewhere to get their work done in the future, and for this they are very thankful.

We boast of a magnificent water-power, which is going to waste for the want of some enterprising person to take hold of it in this locality. For motor power, and manufacturing purposes, it would be difficult to find anything better than you would in this little village. We hope that Canada and U. S. will remove the barriers that prevent capital from taking hold of this grand opportunity.

W E Spike is an efficient officer.

F A Turner has sold his place to his brother Ammon Turner, and has purchased the late J C Manzer's fine property about three miles above Andover.

Mr John Cox's grist mill, run by him and his son Thomas Cox, is giving general satisfaction to the surrounding country.

Miss Cherrie Beveridge, the little daughter of H W Beveridge, is the guest of Miss Ethelyn Barker this week.

Centralization of school districts, and compulsory attendance with, as a consequence, a higher grade of teachers, would materially advance the efficiency of the school service in rural districts. At present, under the existing conditions, and the desultory nature of the service, not to mention the incompetency of teachers, there is no material advancement in the scholarship of the pupils. This defect in the present system would be effectually remedied by merging several schools into one and employing good teachers with remunerative salaries. No amount of inspection can remedy the defects of the present system of education. This is a matter that the legislature should grapple with at once and put the poor pupil in the country on the same footing as the one of the town schools.

Will some member of our legislature be so kind as to inform the public what material benefit accrues to the people from the slaughter of our moose and deer, and the destruction of the fish in our streams? If some steps are not taken in this respect it is only a question of time when our forests will be depopulated of its beautiful denizens, like the prairies of the West where the buffalo once were counted by millions. This fact is a shame and a disgrace to the country to have these things done under the name of sport, but in reality it is to suit the shallow minds of pleasure seekers.
