OUR MOTTO.

OUR PERSUASION.

That temperance is the moderate use of all things harmful, and total abstinence from all things harmful.

OUR FAITH.

That as God lives, right the day shall win.

THE SALOON AND SOCIETY.

The saloon, in fact, is an institution for the compounding and dispensation of poisons. These poisons, when taken in excess (and sometimes when taken in moderate quantities) cloud the reason of the victim, extinguish for the time his conscience and his moral convictions, stimulate all that is ferocious and brutal in him, and impel him frequently to the perpetration of crimes. They do not affect all alike. While they render some savage and malignant, they make others imbecile and incapable of self-protection, and yet others they rouse to immorality. Society, however, is exposed to injury in some way from all who drink; and since all who drink may not drink to excess all are liable to become irresponsible, the danger is perennial. Of its reality no specific proof is needed.

We have only to look abroad in any direction to see this. Fully half the police and judicial machinery of our cities is occupied in dealing with the evils which are produced directly or indirectly by the saloon. The cost to society is enormous, but when a nation makes an institution of the saloon, it must be prepared to pay roundly for all the accessories in the shape of prisons, and police forces, and courts, and insane asylums, and work-houses.

The prosperous taxpayer, who grumbles at the levies made upon him, may be thankful that his bank account secures him at least partial freedom from the worst products of the saloon. The poor mechanic, whose narrow earnings compel him to accept the life of the tenement-house, cannot shelter himself in the same way. He may be a temperate man himself. He may be a Christian. He may be desirous of raising his family respectably, and of keeping them unstained. But the polluting contagion which poverty compels makes him an involuntary witness and auditor of all the brutalities and obscenities provoked by drink in the most depraved of his neighbors, and he cannot keep from the eyes and ears of his wife or daughters sights and sounds which in themselves constitute infection.

Thus it is not only its frequenters that the saloon injures. Its corrupting influence spreads far beyond the ostensible range of its activity, and its deadliest work is doubtless often effected among simple creatures who have not entered its doors.—Atlantic Monthly.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

It is gratifying to know that there is a determination among prohibitionists to make the best they can of the position in which they are placed by recent legislation. From every part of the Province comes expressions of determination to go into the Referendum campaign with such earnestness as will ensure the polling of a splendid vote. The wisdom of this policy is forcibly set out in the Presbyterian for July 26th, in the following terms:—

"The duty of the friends of temperance, in Ontario, would seem to be plain. The Act to be submitted for the approval of the electors on December 4th, may not be perfect, the conditions imposed may not be favorable, but by that vote the strength of the temperance sentiment in the Province will be adjudged."

If such a measure of prohibition as the Provincial Legislature can enact is carried under the conditions laid down for the Referendum, if 212,723 voters go to the polls on a special day and mark their ballots for prohibition, it will be made manifest that there is in Ontario a solid body of public opinion, strong, untainted and active, which no government can disregard, and which gives assurance of the just administration of the prohibitory law.

If prohibition is not carried on December 4th, then the strength of the vote in its favor will be the measure of advantage in any subsequent campaign, and the larger the prohibition vote the better will be the situation for some other line of temperance advance. Only harm can come from holding back and discouraging the people.

Prohibition, rather than extreme restriction, is the issue forced upon us by circumstances with which both the government and the prohibition leaders have had to do; if prohibition is sustained by a public opinion which is at once strong and active, it can be enforced, if the vote falls short of the support required, it will be the starting point and the index of another campaign against the unmitigated evils of the liquor traffic.

For the fight must go on along the line of improved legislation, or of State control, or of much-needed education in the habit of total abstinence, until the curse is lifted, and the offence taken out of the way."

Cardinal Rules for Success in Business.

Keep good company or none. Never be idle. If your hands cannot be fully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind. Always speak the truth. Make few promises. Live up to your engagements. Keep your own secrets, if you have any. When you speak to a person, look him in the face. Good company and good conversation are the very sinews of virtue. Good character is above all things else. Your character cannot be essentially injured, except by your own acts. If anyone speaks evil of you, let your life be so that none will believe him. Drink no kind of intoxicating liquors. Ever live (misfortune excepted) within your income. When you retire, think over what you have been doing during the day. Never play at a game of chance. Avoid temptation, through fear that you may not withstand it. Earn money before you spend it. Never run into debt unless you see a way out of it again. Never borrow if you can possibly avoid it. Do not marry until you are able to support a wife. Never speak evil of anyone. Be just before you are generous. Keep yourself innocent, if you would be happy. Save when you are young, to spend when you are old. Read over the above maxims at least once a week.

If You Are Conscious of Failing Strength and Energy this Month, Make use of

Paine's Celery Compound

THE GREAT HEALTH AND STRENGTH GIVER.

No Other Medicine Can Afford or Guarantee Such Happy Results.

Men and women, young and old, of every rank of life, freely admit that they are more conscious of overtaxed nervous strength in the hot weather than at any other season.

When such a condition is experienced, Paine's Celery Compound affords advantages and results that no other remedy can offer with honesty. It vigorously cleanses the blood and regulates the tardy circulation. It strengthens and encourages the kidneys and enables them to filter from the blood all waste and morbid matters; it secures strong, firm nerves, gives sweet and natural sleep to the nerve-tired and brain-weary. In a word, Paine's Celery Compound is a true summer life-giver and health builder.

Mr. J. Ralston, of Nixon, Ont., says: "It is now a year past since I had a severe attack of nervous prostration caused by chronic dyspepsia, and I could not sleep at night. This condition of sleeplessness brought on delirium. I was attended by four of the best doctors, and took a great quantity of medicine, but all failed to do me any good. I thought I would try your Paine's Celery Compound. After I had used four bottles the nervousness and dyspepsia left me, and I have done more work since than for years past. I now enjoy excellent health and consider myself completely cured."

ST. JOHN LETTER.

The murder of William Doherty, aged about 20 years, by Frank Higgins, aged about 18 years, last Friday night, has been much discussed in the city for the last few days, but it is only the legitimate outcome of the lax manner in which many of our parents bring up their children, and the lax manner in which justice is in many instances administered.

Doherty and Higgins were two of hundreds of boys in the city who grow up regardless of parental authority, who rarely see the inside of a school house, who are suffered to loiter about the street corners at nights, to sleep in alleyways and barns and to live in a questionable manner generally. Had Doherty had moral training, had he been sent to school and to work when old enough, he would probably have been alive to-day, and had Higgins been brought up in the same way he would not now have the gallows staring him in the face. There are hundreds like them in the city, but it is of no use to moralize. They can only be saved by making school attendance compulsory and by keeping them off the streets at unreasonable hours. That will not be done.

The now famous criminal known as "Jim the pal of Buck," who was executed in Dorchester Penitentiary in 1893 for the murder of officer Steadman of Moncton, has become insane and was on Friday removed from Kingston Penitentiary to the hospital for the insane. His case recalls Buck's famous trial in Dorchester, N. B. Buck's last words to Hangman Radcliffe, were, "Let her go." Buck's pal, Jim, for being accessory to the deed, was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary.
