THE DEATH OF TRADE.

The traffic in strong drink kills all other kinds of trade. It wars with every honest business. How much money does the butcher, the tailor, the dressmaker, the shoemaker, get from a drunkard's family? The rum-shop swallows his earnings, and he goes ragged and homeless, till he becomes unfit to work and unable to earn—a drunkard, a criminal, a beggar, a lunatic, or a pauper; and then honest, hard-working, sober men have to pay for doctoring, supporting, arresting, trying, imprisoning, or hanging him, and supporting his pauperized family who follow in his steps. Said Hon. Henry B. Metcalf:

"It is as inevitable as the action of the law of gravitation that waste can be compensated for only by production and at the expense of the producer. To my mind it is childish for manufacturers—capitalists or artisans—to weep about lack of demand for their products, while they encourage or complacently tolerate the destruction of their own market."

During the late period of depression in business there has not been a day when the amount worse than wasted on intoxicating beverages would not have employed, at fair wages, every willing worker in the land. Not only do thousands upon thousands fail to protect their own interests by claiming the market that ought to be theirs, but they bitterly antagonize all of our efforts for their relief, and deliberately and doggedly continue to pay tribute money to the enemy of their business prosperity.

A good illustration of this is found in a letter to a Pennsylvania grocer:—"Dear Sir:—Having been accustomed to spending twenty cents a day for whiskey, I find by saving it I can order from you during one year, 3 bbls. flour, 100 lbs. granulated sugar, 25 lbs. corn starch, 125 lbs. macaroni, 60 lbs. white beans, 6 lbs. ground pepper, 1 doz. scrub brushes, 50 lbs. sal soda, 20 lbs. roasted coffee, 25 cans tomatoes, 24 cans of mackerel, 50 lbs. best raisins, 1 doz. packages herbs, 40 lbs. codfish, 110 lbs. buckwheat flour, 100 lbs. oatmeal, 20 lbs. rice, 1 bbl. crackers, 100 lbs. hominy, 18 lbs. mincemeat, 1 doz. brooms, 12 bottles machine oil, 20 lbs. oolong tea, 24 cans green peas, 20 lbs. dried apples, 25 lbs. prunes, 40 lbs. laundry starch, 25 lbs. table salt, 25 lbs. lard, 12 bottles maple syrup, 100 bars soap, 2 gallons chow-chow, one ream note paper, 500 envelopes, 2 newspapers for a year. I had no idea my drinking had been costing me so much, and believe now that I can live better and buy more for my family."

"The grocer stated that the money saved would be ample to provide all the goods enumerated. There are, no doubt, many men who spend 20 cents a day, or more, for liquor, whose families would feel that the millennium was near if they could only have one-half of this bill of necessities stored in their kitchens or cellars. Many a merchant, who, with a moderate profit on goods enough to properly supply those who would naturally buy of him, could prosper, now does a dull business and is obliged to credit where he knows there is danger of loss, while the saloon near by gathers in the dollars of the heads of families."

A UNIVERSAL FOE.

Strong drink is a curse to everybody, and everybody should curse it and fight it. All occupations feel its blight, all branches of human enterprise and undertaking suffer from its blasting influence, and all should make common cause against it. The home, the shop, the counting-house, the manufactory, art, science and literature, war and peace, labor and pleasure, alike find the use of intoxicating drink a disturbing element, an unmitigated curse. And people are awakening to the fact. In time past the drunkard was unwilling to work—now men are unwilling to have him work. The railways will not employ him, the machine-shops do not want him, he is a drug in the labor market everywhere.

The police reports in some cities show a decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness. Many causes may contribute to this result. No man can ride a bicycle with "a brick in his hat." "The decrease in drunkenness," says the Gospel Messenger, "has been attributed, to a large extent, to the introduction of labor-saving machinery in the various trades, which requires not only a skilled hand, but steady nerves and a cool head, in order to achieve the best results. Experience has shown that even a moderate indulgence has a disastrous effect, and thus the artisan is compelled to be a temperance man, even though he may not be such from principle. An operator on a linotype type-setting machine was recently heard bemoaning his fate, which compelled him to refrain from drinking beer, because even a single glass would suffice to unfit him for duty such as was demanded of him. In reality he should have been thankful that the machine compelled him to abstain from drinking, when he had not the moral stamina to give up the use of that which he himself acknowledged as being injurious."

Horror of Horrors.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 21.—The latest estimate as to the loss of life in the Fraserville coal mine disaster at Coal Creek, is 226. The last day reported was that of 13 bodies in an entry. Five of them had written letters before life became extinct. One of these letters gave the time of day. It was written at 2:30 o'clock, Monday afternoon, thus indicating that these, and perhaps other entombed men, lived many hours after the terrible explosion which occurred Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock. The letters gave a general suggestion of the suffering that was undergone, indicating that the men were gradually being strangled to death by the foul gaseous air that was filling the mine. One piteously said: "My God, for another breath."

The letters in the mine were directions to families as to what disposition should be made of the writers' bodies and business affairs and instructions as to raising the families. One of the victims, an orphan, addressed his letter "To Everybody," and pleaded that they change their way of living.

WONDERFUL HOME HELPERS.

The Ablest Analytical Chemists Say They Are the Best.

The ablest and best analytical chemists in the world affirm, without hesitation, that Diamond Dyes are the purest and best dyes for home dyeing. All the colors are guaranteed fast to light and washing with soap; they color more goods, package for package, than any other dye in the world.

As there are imitations of the popular Diamond Dyes, ladies should be careful of dealers who attempt to recommend the worthless makes. It should be remembered that these imitation dyes are made up of poisonous and dangerous adulterations, and the hands are often injured by them. Diamond Dyes are so easy to use that even a child can work with them successfully. See that your dealer supplies you with the "Diamond;" refuse all others.

WESTERN CANADA.

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL TERMS IT "THE SLEEPING EMPIRE BEYOND," AND PROVES ITS POSSIBILITIES.

The Minneapolis Journal has gathered together some interesting facts in regard to Western Canada, "the land of the warm, wet, western wind and the far-flung fenceless prairie," which the late American Consul Taylor, at Winnipeg, called the "sleeping empire beyond." A contemporary observes that in Manitoba and Assiniboia alone there are 60,000,000 acres of rich, arable land, which could easily support a population of over 320,000. Much of this land formerly sold for $3 an acre, but owing to the present immigration the price for favored sections has gone up to $5 and sometimes $15 an acre. Even $50 an acre has been offered for choice lands in Southern Manitoba. The soil of this land is so deep that its fertility is practically inexhaustible, and many far-sighted American capitalists are purchasing large blocks of it. In order to open up this country the railroads are building numerous extensions and soon there will be prosperous settlements in regions that were not even surveyed a few years ago. Last year this region raised 63,425,428 bushels of hard wheat, the best in the world, from 2,520,339 acres. The average wheat yield on this land is 25 bushels to the acre, while 40 bushels of barley and 48 bushels of oats are common. The value of Manitoba's crops last year was $40,000,000 which was distributed among a population of 246,464. Saskatchewan, lying north of Assiniboia, with an area of 114,000 square miles, is now being opened up by railroads, and Americans are finding their way there. It has a large wheat growing district, and is well adapted for cattle raising. Fine land in this territory may be had on the settler's own terms. The western portion of Assiniboia and most of Alberta are prairie land, and are admirably adapted for cattle raising. Indeed, large fortunes have already been made in this industry. Between the Red River and the Rockies it is estimated that there are 65,000 miles of coal bearing strata, hardly any of which has yet been developed.

of Western Canada is severe has been a serious obstacle to its development. It is true the winters are cold. On the other hand, the warm chinook winds from the west make much of Western Canada, especially Alberta, distinctly more temperate than some of the Northwestern States. The equable climate of Alberta is highly praised by all Americans who have settled in it, and its Rocky Mountain resorts, such as Banff, Glacier and Field, are patronized, largely by Americans, especially by sufferers from hay fever. Even where the winters are found to be severe there is an offset in the fact that the days in summer are long and vegetation thus gets a great deal of sunlight. As to the general conditions of the country—climatic, social and political—the Journal prints signed letters from former citizens of the Northwestern States who declare that they are entirely satisfied. The laws are just, the taxation is right, and churches and schools are being rapidly built. Many Americans, indeed, who have taken farms, are growing rich, and even farm laborers find steady employment at good wages. All, of whatever nationality, are welcomed on condition that they will take a hand in the industrial development of the country. Apparently "the sleeping empire beyond" is awakening to a realization of its great possibilities.
