MR BLAIR'S GREAT SPEECH.

Let every one, as a matter of justice and fair play, read carefully the speech of the Minister of Railways, printed in this issue of the SENTINEL, and we venture the opinion that every fair minded reader, whatever his political opinions may be, will admit that Mr. Blair has convincingly answered the charges brought against him in Parliament, by the Opposition, and has proved that his administration of the affairs of his difficult and responsible department has been marked by a desire to meet the requirements of the public, and with all possible economy.

BETTER TRY AGAIN.

Last Thursday evening an interesting session of the Debating Society was held, at which the question debated was "Resolved that Carleton is the best county in the province."

The leaders were: affirmative, R. Ernest Holyoke; negative, Wm Dibblee.

Among those taking part were H. Dunbar, F. H. Fisher, H. McLauchlan, Sabine Carr, Whitney A. Harmon, Louis Milmore, Harry Stevens, and several others.

The speeches were all of considerable weight, considering the fact that the debate was impromptu.

The critic, Donald M. Campbell gave the decision to the negative.

The Society, encouraged by the favorable impression made on a former occasion, intends holding a mock trial on Thursday 15th instant. We understand that a very spicy affair will be ventilated on that occasion.

Donald Campbell, Harry Saunders and Don Nicholson are busily engaged working up the case.

NUPTIALS.

M'PHAIL—ROBERTSON.

Kincardine, May 5.

The nuptials were celebrated at the Methodist church, Lower Kincardine, at 5 o'clock p. m., April 30, of Miss Mary J. Robertson, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, and Alexander McPhail, son of William McPhail, Esq., Upper Kincardine. The young couple are very popular and a large number of their friends were at the church to witness the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by Mr. Ellis, looked lovely in a handsome dress of cream crepe, with hat to match; she carried a bridal bouquet of roses. Her sister, Miss Jessie Robertson, was bridesmaid; she wore a dress of cream cashmere. The groom was attended by her brother Archie. Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party were driven to the home of Mr. Ellis, where over 80 guests sat down to a sumptuous supper. The presents received by the bride were numerous and costly and were an evidence of the esteem in which she was held. Among the presents was a $20 gold piece subscribed by this section of the congregation, and presented to her as a small token of their appreciation of her gratuitous services as organist for four years. The presentation was made at the supper table by Rev. G. C. Pringle, with a few complimentary remarks, to which Mr. A. Robertson, the bride's father, very ably and courteously replied, thanking the people in her behalf and remarking that we hardly thought, 25 or 30 years ago, when we used to meet for worship, sometimes in the open air, seating ourselves on logs, nothing to be seen but a dense forest, that we would have a nice church with an organ and organist, grow up among our families.

A very enjoyable evening was spent, after which Mr. and Mrs. McPhail drove to their future home at Kilburn, taking with them the hearty good wishes of their many friends for their future happiness.

SMITH—LEWIN.

At the residence of Mrs. James McWaid, Williamstown, on the 1st day of May, at 7 p. m., a quiet wedding took place, when Thomas M. Smith, Esq., of Lakeville, was united in marriage to Mrs. Ida M. Lewin, Williamstown. Rev. W. H. Spargo performed the nuptials. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be "at home" in the first week of September.

Watch for the first appearance of Kirkpatrick's Orchestra, Opera House, Monday May 26th. This Orchestra is doing wonderful work in entirely new music under the personal direction of Miss Elsie Phelan a musician of note.

WOODSTOCK SCOURGED BY FLAMES.

Loss from $20,000 to $30,000.

Woodstock had become so confident of the ability of her firemen and the efficiency of her water service that an alarm of fire had ceased to create much excitement or fear, so that when the fire broke out on Main street, on Tuesday afternoon, and dense volumes of black smoke were seen pouring out of the windows in the long block of buildings extending from Mrs. Loane's book store down to the corner of Main and Connell streets, memories of the big fires that so devastated Woodstock in 1860, 1888 and 1877, were brought vividly to mind, and the question arose in many minds, will the hosemen prove competent in the present threatening conditions? The result only proved that the fire department is to be trusted under the most adverse circumstances.

Shortly after the dinner hour Tuesday, Hose Co. No. 1 was called out, the alarm caused by smoke showing itself between John McAfee's tin shop and J. T. Collins' book store. Hose was laid, but no water thrown; it was thought the smoke came from a flue, and, after watching until there was no appearance of danger, the hosemen returned to their quarters. The fire, however, must have then existed and kept working its way through the attics of the buildings until about 5.30 when a fresh alarm was sounded and the hosemen of Cos. 1 and 2, quickly responding, reached the spot to find smoke pouring in great streams from the windows and openings of the buildings in the entire block. From that time until 2 o'clock in the morning the hosemen worked like tigers, displaying excellent judgment, fighting the fire inch by inch; it was a difficult and desperate struggle, but courage and intelligence prevailed and at last the fire king was dethroned and the town saved from a much more severe conflagration than at first threatened. The supposition is that the fire started from the flue mentioned and working its way along the interior of the upper part of the buildings, spread its way northerly to Mrs. Loane's building and southerly to the Payson building, corner Main and Connell, and up Connell to J. C. Doherty's building.

The buildings destroyed or partially so, are Mrs. Loane's, wooden, occupied by herself as a book store; it can be repaired.

Baird's estate building, brick, occupied on the lower flat by L. E. Young, law office; Miss Boyer, Ladies' Emporium; Garden Bros., drugs; Misses Hall and McLeod, over the drug store, as a dress making shop.

J. McAfee, brick, occupied by himself as a tin shop.
J. T. Collins, wood, himself occupying the first flat as a book and fancy goods store; the upper flat Dr. Pugsley occupied as dental parlors.

H. N. Payson, wood, himself occupying the ground flat as a grocery store; Walter Cogger, barber shop, and John McCormac's magistrate's office being in the upper story. Building can be repaired.

J. C. Doherty, wood, occupied by William Blake as a restaurant; can be repaired.

Besides the above, slight damage was done to Payson's wooden building just north of Mrs. Loane's, occupied as a residence by Percy Gallagher, and I. E. Sheasgreen as a drug store. Sheasgreen suffered some damage by removal of goods, but was able to move back at once into his old quarters. Gallagher lost by damage in moving.

During the progress of the fire Miss McLeod, through excitement and the effects of the smoke, fell in a fainting fit on the floor of her room, where she was discovered by Eldon Fisher, foreman of No. 1 hose company, who gallantly rescued her by carrying her down a ladder to the street. Not long after, Mr. Fisher himself was so overcome by the density of the smoke that he had to be helped down a ladder and sent home.

Houlton hearing of the outbreak of the fire wired offering to send over hose if needed. While it was thought the hose would not be required, the kind and thoughtful act of the Houlton firemen was highly appreciated and will be gratefully remembered by the people of Woodstock.

There scarce could be a harder fire to fight, and there never was a fire that was more hardily or successfully fought, or admirably managed than that under notice. Some idea of what the hosemen had to contend with, may be formed when it is stated that eleven powerful streams of water through 3700 feet of hose, was poured on the flames for some nine hours before they were entirely quenched. It will go without saying that the supper furnished the firemen, at the Royal Cafe, about 11 o'clock, by the owners of the burned building, was well deserved and could be fully appreciated by the weary boys. The spread prepared on so short notice was highly complimentary to the Cafe.

The burned district has been fenced in, and some of the walls, presenting a dangerous appearance, pulled down.

So far as we could learn before going to press, the insurance on buildings and stocks is as follows: H. N. Payson, building, $1000; nothing on stock; W. Cogger's loss covered by insurance; J. T. Collins, $900 each on building and stock; J. McAfee, $700 on building, $500 on stock; Baird estate, $1500; Garden Bros., shop fixtures $200, stock $1000; Mrs. Loane, building $1500, stock $1500; Miss Boyer, stock $500; Mr. Young, covered by insurance.

The fire has caused the following removals: Mrs. Loane, store corner of bridge next door to C. B. Snow's grocery; Garden Bros into their wholesale store, Queen Street; Miss Boyer into C. R. Watson's music store; L. E. Young, into the Gillen store, King street; H. N. Payson, is for the present in his old store, Connell street; Dr. Pugsley may be found at the residence of Mrs. Fisher.

Michael Kelly's Illness.

For nearly a week, a well known and popular citizen, Michael Kelly, has been seriously ill from an attack of heart failure. His age, 75 years, and frequent sickness of late, caused much uneasiness among his friends at his present illness. Ason Ambrose Kelly, of Jordan and Marsh's establishment, Boston, has been telegraphed for. The condition of Mr. Kelly on Thursday was satisfactory and his friends and relatives hope for a speedy recovery.

This play is an exceedingly strong combination of humor and pathos. There is just enough of the pathetic to balance the extremely laughable situations. The cast of characters has been selected from some of Woodstock's best talent and they have been undergoing a thorough training in their different roles under the efficient direction of Miss B. Maude Dibblee. The play is sure to be a success from the point of view of ability and it only remains for the people of Carleton County to make it so financially. In aid of the Carleton County hospital fund. Don't get mixed on the dates: Centreville, May 20th; Woodstock, May 26th.

Shaw & Dibblee, Hartland, have decided to close out their Wall Papers, Window Shades and Curtain Poles, and will give genuine bargains in these goods; all new and up-to-date. Call and see them.

The Spring butter paper trade is quite lively judging from the recent orders reaching this office. We have it in sheets to line tubs, or to enfold bricks. First rate quality, lowest price, printed or plain.

What is more attractive to the eye upon entering a house, than a handsome stair. The Woodstock Woodworking Co. is introducing something strictly new in this line for 1902. They employ the best turner in the Province and their work is guaranteed, and it will pay you to give them a call before purchasing elsewhere. Corner Green and Elm Streets, near Small & Fisher's Foundry.

Three young ladies inspired by a laudable ambition to do something to help in the hospital movement, resolved upon giving a musical and literary entertainment in order to secure funds for the purpose. The young ladies were Muriel Merritt, Helen Hand and Cassie McQuarry. The grand affair came off on Saturday afternoon and was a decided success. The programme was a good one and well rendered and the proceeds amounted to $2.22, two dollars of which they handed to the mayor for the hospital fund, the balance, 22 cents, was reserved as a nest egg.

THE ST. JOHN S. KERR & SON Oddfellows' Hall, 15-16.

The Two Ways.

Some men when they start out to get married ask the first man, woman or child they meet on the street where they will get a Marriage License. They are directed to some old-time issuer's office, where they buy—at the long price—a Marriage License of the Governor Gordon series, yellow with age, and start out again to enquire for a Clergyman of their particular faith. By this time their business is pretty generally known; and after considerable parley with the Parson—who doesn't like the appearance of the ancient document, but who like other mortals "has regard unto the recompense of reward"—are married. This man goes home tired, disgusted, and in doubt whether he really is married.

The Other Way.

The wise man, when he decides* to marry, looks over the columns of his local paper and soon finds a name that he has seen in print for years; he knows that it is reliable, and that he is a business man, because he advertises so freely; he concludes that is the place to do his matrimonial business. So coming to town he readily finds the place located on the Corner of Main and Queen Streets, generally known as "Jewett's Corner," enters, states his happy mission to the urbane proprietor, who gives him the necessary instruction and advice, tenderly fits the ring on the fair one's finger, makes an appointment with the desired Clergyman, and all is done so quietly and expeditiously that an inquisitive world knows nothing until the holy man has done his duty and the notice appears in the proper column of the leading papers.

Which course, Young Man, will you pursue.
