Hugh Price Hughes Dead.

London, Nov. 17.—The Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, the celebrated Wesleyan preacher, editor of the Methodist Times, died suddenly here today from apoplexy. He was one of the most prominent clergymen in England.

The Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, M A, was born in 1847, at Carmarthen, South Wales, the son of Mr. John Hughes, surgeon, coroner, senior magistrate, chairman of school board, etc., in Carmarthen. He was educated privately, and afterwards attended lectures at University College, London, and the Theological College of the Wesleyan Methodist church, at Richmond, Surrey, where Dr. Moulton was his tutor. His first appointment was to Dover in 1869.

He remained there and at every other place to which he was appointed for the three years permitted by the itinerancy law of his church. His successive appointments were Dover, Brighton, Stoke, Newington, London; Mostyn Road, London; Oxford and Brixton Hill. At the conclusion of his three years at Brixton Hill he was appointed superintendent of the West London Mission, which conducts services in St James' Hall, Prince's Hall, Wardour Hall, and Cleveland Hall, and has a centre of social philanthropy in Lincoln House, 60 Greek street, Soho square; a residence for young men at Wiclif House, Fitzroy square, and a sisterhood in Katherine House, Montague street, Russell square. He published, in 1889, 'Social Christianity,' 'The Atheist Shoe-maker,' and 'The Philanthropy of God,' in 1890. In 1892 he came prominently forward at the review of the church's conference at Grindelwald, when his remarks on a possible reconciliation between English dissenters and the Church of England led to much discussion. He was also present at the conferences held at Lucerne in 1893. He was editor of the Methodist Times, the most influential Methodist newspaper; an active total abstainer, and vice-president of the United Kingdom Alliance. He took a prominent part in the Social Purity Movement; was a prominent member of the Methodist Conference, and a leader of 'The Forward Movement,' which aims at the promotion of social as well as individual salvation, and believed that the example of Jesus Christ must be followed in business, pleasure and politics, as well as in prayer meetings and sacraments. Mr Hughes represented his church at the last Ecumenical Conference in Washington, on which occasion he paid a visit to Montreal, where he had many friends and admirers.

Sam Jones to Reporters.

A prominent Baltimore physician tells in the Baltimore Sun the following anecdote about Sam Jones, the Georgian evangelist:

When several years ago Mr. Jones was at Emory Grove camp, the newspaper reports of his sermons caused him to complain.

At the last service he looked down at the reporters, who sat at a table just in front of the pulpit, and said:

'And I want to tell you fellows that I like you a lot in spite of your manifold faults. You boys don't treat me right, though. You take my sermons and pick out a piece here, a piece there and a piece somewhere else. Then you string the pieces together, and, naturally, they read funny.'

'Now, suppose I reported the Bible that way! A man asks me what the Bible tells him to do. I read in one place, 'And Judas went out and hanged himself.' I turn over and read, 'Go thou and do likewise.' And in another place I find, 'And do it quickly.'

Now, you see, boys, that sort of thing won't do. It ain't fair.'

The Fredericton Herald: James Barnes, of the James Barnes Construction Company, contractors for the Newcastle and Chipman Railway is among the visitors to the city. He says that the company have between eighty and one hundred men at work on the twenty miles of road between Newcastle and Chipman, and they are making good progress with the work. The grading is about finished and they expect to begin track-laying in a few days, and should have the road ready for traffic by the middle of December.

An exchange prints the following marriage ceremony, which was said by a Tennessee squire a short time ago: 'Wilt thou take her for thy pard, for better or worse, to have, to hold, to fondly guard till hauled off in a hearse? Wilt thou let her have her way; consult her many wishes, make the fire every day, and help her wash the dishes? Wilt thou comfort and support her father and mother, Aunt Jemima, Uncle John, and three sisters and a brother? His face grew pale and blank; it was too late to jilt; as through the floor he sank' he meekly said, 'I wilt.'

BRITISH BEEF TRADE.

London, Nov. 17.—The position of the beef trade in this country is in a very interesting state this moment. Prices have not been maintained at all successfully by the great American houses in the Smithfield market. This is on account of new competition from South American meat shippers which have become, to the great satisfaction of the English element at Smithfield, of a formidable nature. Finding they were prevented by the English board of agriculture from shipping cattle alive to England the South American houses some months ago set to work in earnest to ship dead meat. At first they tried freezing it, but with poor success, for the cargoes came to market in much the same state as Australian frozen meat, hard and altogether outclassed by the American chilled beef. The latest shipment, from South America, however, was, in the opinion of the market, practically as fine in condition as the American chilled beef, and is sold at prices only a shade below those of the American commodity. The problem of cheaper meat also is brought nearer to solution by the news that the Argentine has agreed to accept the terms which the board of agriculture has so long stipulated for as the only conditions upon which British ports could be reopened to live stock from that country.

Africa as a Cotton Field.

Liverpool, Nov. 10.—Sir Alfred Jones, president of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, has just received reports regarding the cotton raising experiments in West Africa. He said in an interview:—

'We sent out a hundred tons of American seed and divided it among the British West Coast colonies. The results have been most satisfactory. The crops matured in ninety days and in quantity and quality were equal to those of the parent stock. Next season we shall send Egyptian seed, and we hope for equally good results. The only question is whether we can make the natives work, so as to put plantations on a commercial basis. The native wages are four cents a day. But I am personally afraid that a number of years will elapse before we can make the West Coast of Africa a serious competitor of the American Southern States. If we could transport the negro population of the Southern States to the west coast there would not be any question of making Great Britain independent of the rest of the world for raw cotton. But I have had one experience with American negro colonization, and I do not believe it is possible to secure American negroes for the new cotton belt. We are sending out Americans to teach the natives cotton raising, and must wait and see how the experiment turns out. The question of freight does not yet enter into the problem. The railroads and steamships have agreed to transport African cotton free.'

Fifty years ago the United States wealth per capita of the population was $307, while now it is $1235.

FAREWELL.

(Daily World, Vancouver.)

Last evening, at the residence of Mr. Horner, on Carl street, a large number of the young people of Princess street Methodist church gathered to say farewell to Miss Minnie Burpee, who leaves on Sunday next for the northern Indian mission field. The gathering was purely one of social intercourse, no formal program having been prepared. Those who were present thoroughly enjoyed themselves, engaging in all the approved parlor games, from ping-pong under the latest rules, down the whole descending scale to that of fishing for leaden funnies. As the party was a congenial one, no chilly feeling of restraint interfered with the pleasures of the evening. The triumph of Miss Ethel Smith, who proved herself the cleverest exponent of the art of successful ping-pong, proved very popular.

Notwithstanding the heartiness with which the friends of Miss Burpee entered into the evening's amusements, they did not fail to show her in a hundred ways that they had not forgotten the purpose for which they had gathered. For many years Miss Burpee has been well known in Vancouver, and in her quiet, earnest way has won the love and esteem of all those with whom she has come in close contact. Miss Burpee is the sister of one of the members of the well-known firm of Letson & Burpee. Nearly fourteen years ago she came to the West, and for many years has been connected with the work at the Coqualeetza Indian Home. Her long period of training there has well prepared her for the new work she will shortly enter upon.

On Sunday next Miss Burpee will leave by the steamer Tees for Port Simpson. She will immediately commence her duties as matron of the boys' home there, which is under the general board of Methodist Missions. Next spring, however, she expects to be transferred to the girls' home, under the Woman's Missionary Society. Both by experience and by nature Miss Burpee is well fitted for the task she has undertaken, and her choice of the home mission field as the scene of her labors speaks eloquently of her patriotism. Her friends in Princess Street Church and in the city generally, will be sorry to miss her from their midst; but they will all feel that wherever Miss Burpee goes she will be a source of help and comfort to others.

Nov 17.

First snow of the season fell here on the 12th; the ground was covered with about 8 inches of the beautiful white snow. The mail coach and portage teams have exchanged their wheels for runners.

Some people are prophesying an open fall and some a sudden winter; one thing sure, people can't alter the weather, and it is best so.

Mrs V's supper on the 13th did not turn out very well, as the chief part of men and boys were absent, on account of bad travelling.

Rev J D Campbell was unable to pay his semi-monthly trip to this place on Saturday.

Charles Love called at the Harmony to-day.

A medium sized bear came from the forest to-day and has taken up his abode in Capt Perkins' store for the night.

Mrs R H Ross and Miss R Ross left their homes on the 12th, for a short vacation to Fort Fairfield and other places.

T F Allen is still absent.

Mrs Vanderbeck made a short call at the Harmony to-day. She is looking fine as usual.

SAFEGUARDED.

Washington, Nov. 13.—National and local police authorities have combined forces to throw around the President and his family additional safeguards at the White House and wherever they journey. In consequence of the enlargement of the White House and the erection of a new building for the executive office, the police and secret force has been doubled since the President and Mrs. Roosevelt resumed possession of the mansion.

Picked men from the police department and the secret service will be constantly on duty at the White House proper and also at the executive office adjoining. It is the intention to have the usual number of civilian ushers on duty at the White House day and night, the same as heretofore. They will be re-enforced by delays of policemen and the secret service men to safeguard the President and his family while they are at home. When the President leaves the city he will be accompanied by a squad of secret service men. At the executive office there will be a similar force of policemen and secret service men constantly on guard, while stalwart bluecoats will patrol the grounds day and night.
