News From The Country.

Riley Brook.

Nov 10, 1902.

Gray November has come in like a lamb; 10 beautiful days have passed, worthy to be called Indian summer. Business continues brisk in this hamlet.

Sporting about dying out. Guides preparing for the woods.

Some of the Wardens are up the river, erecting ice houses for the Salmon Club.

T. F. Allen left here this morning with one guide for a week's vacation and moose hunt at his old camping ground.

Mr. H. Ingraham, commercial man, registered at the Harmony, Saturday till Monday.

Mr. J. A. Hayward and Mr. Bell of Bristol, made a flying trip to this place on Saturday.

Capt. Perkins left his place of business here on the 6th for Woodstock and his home in Centerville.

J. J. Hale and E. McCollum are in the woods getting their men located.

Arthur Inman of Lower Perth is employed here as blacksmith by E. McCollum.

Some friends from Dow Flat passed through here yesterday, en route for Rocky Brook.

Miss Rena Ross and Mrs. R. H. Ross will leave here on Wednesday for the States for a short vacation. Not a very comfortable time for travelling.

Mrs. J. Vanderbeck will have a chicken supper at her home at Rocky Brook on the night of the 13th. All are cordially invited. Proceeds for church purposes.

Mrs. R. Wallace, of Perth, arrived here last night, en route for Sisson Branch, where her husband is cooking; she will remain with him through the winter. Mrs. Wallace is looking fine.

ONE INTERESTED.

Rockland.

Nov 10, 1902.

Election of officers in Baptist Sabbath school on Sunday, 2nd inst. Samuel W. Estabrooks was elected superintendent; Enoch B. Estabrooks, vice-supt.; A. S. Estabrooks, treasurer; Nellie Seeley, secretary; Julia Wetmore, organist; S. S. Page, librarian.

The local election of representatives causes much inquiry.

Of late we have had a few fine days between the rainy, cold and gloomy. Many prophecy an open late fall and others say look out for sudden winter. With all respects to their weather wisdom we are inclined to the opinion that their foreknowledge is very deficient; it will do pretty well to take it as it comes; we have had instances of such plans in the past.

No cabbage gardens suffered here on Halloween—none to suffer.

Joel Ellis has had a severe attack of la grippe but is convalescing.

Any person having an item worthy a place in CARLETON SENTINEL can have it published by leaving it with Rockland Commission Agency.

Selected—What a blessed thing is death, when it comes in the fullness of time to relieve the spirit of its worn-out body. With the old house falling into decay with age, the roof leaky, and the walls mouldy and cheerless, how gladly the tenant—if he has lived wisely and well—goes forth to occupy his beautiful mansion builded for him in the Summer Land. There should be no sorrow in old age, for it is then "we are almost there" and the glad thought should fill the soul with delight, the haven lies just beyond that bank of clouds we call death. See ye not the harbor lights, O sire! and thrills not your spirit with joy of the home gathering so near at hand?

The crops are all garnered, now for the harvest home.

Buyers of hogs, lambs, beef, oats and other farm products are on the rampage through this region, poultry in fair demand.

There is quite a mania among young men to attend commercial college; while it will do no particular harm to any, still it cannot be denied that many go through a course who have no natural inclination, talent or aptness for anything taught and will be but little benefitted by the time and money expended, and if such made themselves a study would discover that they have a greater fitness for the plow handle or a trade than business life or profession. It is a great study to know thyself. Farmers boys are gainers by attending agricultural schools and colleges where science taught is also practised.

Mrs. W. A. Hayward, jr., is here to spend the winter with mother and relatives; her husband has joined his brother George in a lumber operation at Cabino, Quebec.

Several loads of building material from Barton Bros mill, at Avondale, hauled through here of late; quite a lot of building going on in the far away suburbs of this village.

A few more N. B. log rules at Rockland Commercial Agency; when disposed of, no more made until another year—$1.50 each.

Miss Minnie Estabrooks, residing at John Sewell's, has had a tedious and serious attack of quinsy, but is recuperating.

An engine, drawn by 2 four horse teams, passed through here a few days since for Esdracelon to be used in the new industry there of moulding blocks for shoe lasts.

Many of the young women of the rural districts are enamored with the prospect of becoming trained nurses while any number of our married women have all or more of such training than is really desirable.

The Orange Lodges in this section showed their liberality last week to a strange brother, resident of Truro, N. S., who last spring or early summer went to Edmundston to work at his trade as carpenter. A short time there and he fell from the roof of a building breaking a leg and seriously injuring his back and side; yet unable to work and no funds, calls upon the craft to assist him in getting home to Truro; a hearty and cheerful response was given and home he went to wife and family.

The chicken supper at B. parsonage, on Friday evening last, was just immense; the ladies of the Circle mistook not the capacity of their guests. It is very doubtful that in the same space of time more poultry bones were ever polished in the Beckaguimac country; the occasion celebrated the 20th anniversary of the Rockland Baptist sewing circle; the sum of $17.50, the receipts of the evening; several from Hartland and vicinity.

Albert, A. A. and Frank Belyea returned on Friday p. m. last, after a five days absence in the Miramichi county; they captured a moose.

Miss Currie of Hartland, dressmaker, is plying her trade at Rev. Wetmore's, and Mrs. Smith of Mount Pleasant, dressmaker and tailoress, is engaged at J. N. Belyea's.

A few who are spotted for fast driving over Beckaguimac bridge, at this place, are advised to slacken pace or a fine may be levied.

R. C. Agency now authorized to take applications for risks by fire, by as strong a company as there is in the world and terms reasonable.

100,000 Immigrants to Canada Next Year.

London, Nov. 10.—The Canadian emigration office in London, which was recently promoted to the dignity of a special bureau with a commissioner of its own, is preparing to branch out on an extensive scale, with the view of popularizing emigration to the northwest.

Two floors have been secured in a new building going up at Charing Cross, in the midst of railway and steamship offices. Contracts have been placed for fitting of the office exclusively with Canadian woodwork, office furniture and a steam heating plant. It will contain a complete exhibit of Canadian products.

Commissioner Preston said to a representative of the Associated Press:—

"We expect next year to place 100,000 emigrants in Western Canada and we shall probably draw a third each from the United States, the United Kingdom and the rest from Europe."

There are many local poultry shows and village shows of varying importance; at some of these prizes are given to the school children for the best collections of named grasses, weeds, etc. This also is found to be a very satisfactory aid to education.

Private land owners also sometime hold shows for the encouragement of agriculture among their tenant farmers, under local farmers. Chief among these is the show held by the Duke of Portland, known as the "Walbeck Tenant Farmers' Show."

The Secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society states that the year 1700 saw the beginning of Agricultural shows in Great Britain.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS IN BRITAIN.

A private letter from Mr. W. A. MacKinnon, Chief of the Fruit Division, Dominion Dept. of Agriculture, who is now in Great Britain, contains some interesting notes on the development of Agricultural shows in that country. Some of his criticisms given herewith are well worthy of notice by those interested in Agricultural Education in Canada.

One striking feature of the recent Royal Show at Carlisle, Eng., was that all but two or three of the buildings were simply frames covered with canvas, in other words the Show took place under a series of long tents. The advantage of this system is that the framework can be taken down, and the tents shipped from point to point, and used many times in the season. This arrangement also makes it possible to use grounds for an exhibition which are required during the rest of the year for another purpose.

The tents are arranged in a compact and systematic order; in such a way that visitors can go in one direction and return in another, seeing always new exhibits. The classes are arranged in blocks, not in long lines.

There are four classes of Agricultural Shows in Great Britain:—(1) The large shows devoted to breeding types and implements; these are open to the kingdom. (2) Local shows: for the benefit of tenant farmers and breeders in the neighborhood; there may be certain open competitions in these, and the addition of sections for horticulture, apiculture, sports, etc., is optional. (3) Fat Stock Shows for the encouragement of the production of high class butcher's meat. The chief ones are held at Birmingham, Leeds and Norwich: the finals so to speak where the winners in the three former. The competition takes place at the great Smithfield show. (4) Specific Shows: these are held for the benefit of one or more particular branches of Agriculture, such as dairying, fruits, poultry, horses, etc. A good type of this class of show is that held at the Agricultural Hall, London, during three consecutive weeks for special breeds of horses as follows:—1st week, Shires; 2nd week, Hackneys; 3rd week, thoroughbred hunters and polo ponies. One of the best of these specific shows is that held at Ashbourne, Derbyshire, a great Shire horse center, (owing to local conditions, fine grass, climate, etc.) here they have three main divisions of the show: one for general classes, (2) foals bred by tenant farmers, (3) foals from stallions belonging to local breeders.

Another notable show is that called the Cart Horse Parade held in London, where prizes are given for the best single pair, unicorn, and four horse teams; these must be working horses attached to vehicle without load. No new harness or vehicles are allowed; the turnout must have been used up to the date of the Show. Whit Monday. The prizes are given for the best working condition, the object being to encourage carters to take good care of their animals and a pride in their appearance. This is one of the most commendable of the specific shows.

There are many local poultry shows and village shows of varying importance; at some of these prizes are given to the school children for the best collections of named grasses, weeds, etc. This also is found to be a very satisfactory aid to education.

Private land owners also sometime hold shows for the encouragement of agriculture among their tenant farmers, under local farmers. Chief among these is the show held by the Duke of Portland, known as the "Walbeck Tenant Farmers' Show."

The Secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society states that the year 1700 saw the beginning of Agricultural shows in Great Britain.

Particular enquiries about the standards adopted in judging stock at these shows failed to elicit a definite statement on this point. In fact the officials themselves were not any too clear as to what is or ought to be the standard.

They appear to have fallen into the easy error of looking on the prize itself as being the end and goal of the exhibitor's ambition. On pressing the matter somewhat closely, certain officials admitted that too little attention was paid to either the educational value of the show or the cash result to the farmers at large.

In the catalogues and prize lists, Judges are warned not to be influenced by the market value of stock in making their awards, and a high official stated that in his opinion too little attention was paid to the economic value of the exhibits, and that farmers are sometimes misled by awards so as to produce an article which is not remunerative.

With regard to the Smithfield Show they have begun to make improvements in the direction of market demands; that is to be expected as the object of the show is to encourage the production of butcher's meat. Formerly prizes were given for animals four years old, but lately this has been cut down to three and under, and no prizes are given for cows. The result is that they get fewer of the "tallow" animals which used to be seen there; yet they still give awards in some cases to animals which would not be sought for by a butcher.

The Smithfield judges are breeders and the lessons learned by farmers from the judgment have to be picked up without the benefit of any explanation of reasons from the judges. Farmers are supposed to learn from the show that certain types of animals can be made to put on flesh at a certain rate, weight for age.

There is also a slaughter class, which the judges view and rank alive and afterwards when killed. The secretary says that the average result is that the same animals are ranked first both alive and dead, but there are exceptions and some dissatisfaction in consequence. In this class one judge is usually a farmer and the other a butcher; these have similar ideas for the block test. Heifers must be killed if they take a prize, this being a meat show, and not a general or agricultural show.

Educational meetings are all but unknown. At Carlisle there were demonstrations of dairying processes but no word of explanation seemed to be given. Guelph leads them all for active, energetic, intelligent education, for in Britain the farmer seems to be considered highly honored in being allowed to exhibit, and they let him pick up some crumbs of information if he can."

F. W. HODSON, Live Stock Commissioner.

A THRILLING BURNING.

New York, Nov. 10.—The new East River bridge, in process of construction between New York and Brooklyn, was damaged at least $500,000 to-night by a fire that for four hours raged 355 feet in the air on the summit of the great steel tower on the New York side. Three men at work on the top of the tower are reported to have fallen into the river.

Owing to the height of the tower it was utterly impossible to reach the fire and the flames, after devouring all the woodwork on the top of the tower, seized on the timber false work of the two foot bridges suspended from the main cables, burning away the supports until nearly 1,000,000 feet of blazing lumber fell with a mighty splash and hiss into the stream.

The fall of the foot bridge carried away scores of the lighter cables and guys which trailed in the water, rendering it necessary for the police to stop all traffic on the river. The fire was the most spectacular ever seen in New York, the great body of flames being visible all over the city and lighting the river and shores for miles up and down the stream.

Daniel Brophy and his brother John, of Montreal, A. P. McBride and an unknown man were reported to have been at work on the tower when the fire started. The framework on which they stood collapsed and the two Brophys and the unknown man were hurled into the river. McBride saved himself by catching a piece of projecting steel work.

While the fire was at its height a party of firemen were cut off at the base of the tower where they were exposed to a torrent of brands and red hot pieces of steel. They were rescued after several had been severely burned. Brands from the tower set fire to the storehouse of the Pennsylvania Steel Company on the level of the main roadway of the bridge, 125 feet above the water. The storehouse was entirely consumed, and its contents of nuts, bolts, rivets and tools were hurled into the river, with two hoisting derricks on the platform.

Later—It is officially announced that no lives were lost during the fire the three men reported killed having been accounted for.

Colds

"I had a terrible cold and could hardly breathe. I then tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it gave me immediate relief."
W. C. Layton, Sidell, Ill.

How will your cough be tonight? Worse, probably. For it's first a cold, then a cough, then bronchitis or pneumonia, and at last consumption. Coughs always tend downward. Stop this downward tendency by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Three sizes: 25c., enough for an ordinary cold; 50c., just right for bronchitis, hoarseness, hard cold, etc.; $1., most economical for chronic cases and to keep on hand.

MOVING THE WHEAT.

Winnipeg, Nov. 8.—The Canadian Pacific is beating previous records in moving wheat to Fort William. Yesterday 515 car loads were despatched from the Winnipeg yards alone, each car averaging 880 bushels. Here and there individual elevators are full, but there is no blockade at any shipping point on the company's lines. Official returns show that from Oct. 15th to Oct. 31, the Canadian Pacific carried 3,340,000 bushels to Fort William, against 2,050,000 during the same period last year, an increase of 66 per cent. Sixty two wheat trains, averaging 40 cars each, were on the road at noon to-day. On the cessation of the coal famine the company will be able to add to its rolling stock and motive powers, the demand for coal from Souris, Lethbridge and Crow's Nest coal consumption having somewhat diminished.
