OBITUARIES.

WM. F. SMITH.

The death of Wm. F. Smith one of Woodstock's best known citizens, died about midday Tuesday, after a few days illness of pneumonia .--Deceased was born in Fredericton, but came to Woodstock in early manhood and clerked for his uncle, the late Hon. Charles Perley. Afterwards, for some time, he carried on a mercantile business in his own name. He went then to British Columbia, where he prosecuted a commercial business for some years; he dren suffering from the effects of was joined there by his only son, Harry Smith, B. A., who, it will be remembered, was accidentally drowned there. Mr. Smith returned to Woodstock and has since been leading a comparatively retired life. He leaves to survive him a widow, who was Miss Fisher, sister of L. P. Fisher, Esq., and the late Judge Fisher, and one daughter, Miss Ella Smith, on the town teaching staff .--He was ardently attached to the church of his choice, the Methodist, and was ever ready to aid in all her operations. He was 72 years of age, a man of most kindly disposition, ever ready to help where assistance was necessary, and happiest only when doing a neighbor or friend a thoughtful and kindly act; he was

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon, at which a large concourse was present. The floral offerings were very fine. The pall bearers were all relatives of the deceased; Wm. M. Connell; William S. Fisher, St. John; Heber Connell and Allan Bull. Rev. J. C. Berrie was the officiating clergyman, and interment was made at the Methodist cemetery.

JOHN E. SMITH.

The death of John E. Smith, Upper Woodstock, on Monday, was a sudden passing away. He lived with his daughters Mrs. Fitzsimmons and Miss Shilloy Smith. On Monday afternoon he was left alone in the house while his daughters came down to Woodstock; he was then walking about in his apparent usual health On Mrs. Fitzsimmon's return home she was shocked to find

S. room, gave more than ordinary pleasure to those present. Col. D. McLeod Vince presided and made a brief but appropriate ad-dress. After the usual preliminary exercises, Mr. T. MacKelvie gave a report of the society bristling with facts touching its work which was instructive and inspiring. Rev. Z. L. Fash, followed, displaying a thorough knowledge of the work be-ing done by the society and enforcing its progress and work by happy illustrations and statement of principles which appealed forcibly to the conscience of his hearers." Rev. J. C. Berrie gave many interesting facts confirmatory of the facts given by the previous speakers. The chairman expressed the hope that Woodstock would aid more generously than heretofore by their financial contributions to the work of this important institution. Mr. Hugh Hay

Some men when they start out to get mar-ried ask the first man, woman or child they meet on the street where they will get a Mar-riage Lieense? They are directed to some old-time issuer's office, where they buy—at the long price—a Marriage Lieense of the Gover-nor Gordon series; yellow with age, and start out again to enquire for a Clergyman of their particular faith. By this time their business is pretty generally known ; and after consid-crable parley with the Parson—who don't like the appearance of the ancient document, but who like other mortals "has regard unto the recompense of reward"—are married. This man goes home tired, disgusted, and in doubt whether he really is married.

The wise man, when he decides, to marry, looks over the columts of his local paper and soon finds a name that he has seen in print or years; he knows that it is reliable, and that he is a business man, because he adver-tises so freely; he concludes that is the place to do his matrimonial business. So coming the Corner of Main and Queen Streets, gene-rally known as "Jewett's Corner," enters, states his happy mission to the urbane pro-prietor, who gives him the necessary instruc-tion and advice, tenderly fits the ring on the fair one's finger, makes an appointment with the desired Clergyman, and all is done so qui-etly and expeditiously that an inquisitive world knows nothing until the holy man has done his duty and the notice appears in the
