An Appreciative Sketch of the Late Stephen B. Appleby, K. C.

Returned to the place from which he came. When a sprightly bright intelligent boy of 16 or 17 he took the position of clerk in Hugh McLean's variety store in Woodstock. How well the writer who was then a clerk in a similar store a few doors south remembers the morning that the news was spread through the town that young Appleby was behind McLean's counter. As he remained there he grew in favor with customers and the general public. His habits were of the best; no inclination for mischief, loose, lewd or dissolute companions. After a few years he opened a business in his own name at the place now known as Florenceville. He told me in after years he could not make a success of mercantile life and entered upon the study of the law. Although at this period I was occupying a situation in St. John still an acquaintance was continued. He was successful in his educational preparation, examinations and admission to the N. B. bar as well as in obtaining a respectable and lucrative practice which was permanent and increasing.

During the Dominion election of representatives when after a full and a half term at Ottawa he was defeated by the late George H. Connell, I was in the county and worked and travelled in his and the party's interest, reporting the doings at public meetings and writing letters from different parts of all the parishes which were published in the CARLETON SENTINEL. I saw much of Mr. Appleby during this campaign, listened to and reported his speeches, travelled with him some, and in every instance I found him ready to discard and ignore any and every suggestion of a dishonest or dishonest character, hoped his friends would not be lavish in expenditure that in event of his election it could not be said he gained it by improper means, he wished to go with clean hands as in the first instance or remain at home. His plans and reckoning in that contest were well devised and more than once as we rode along I remember him saying "I do not see how I can be defeated, certainly not if the promises of those who proffer support can be relied upon." He took the defeat logically and in the manifestation of a christian spirit and in his subsequent career those who knew him best attribute to him the exercise of the same disposition in all of his varied acts and duties. A well gained reputation sent him to the local house by acclamation, gave him prominence in society, in fraternal organizations, church and home. Now one year my junior he leaves me behind for a little while to return to the place with a lifeless body from which he came to be the young and efficient clerk for the late Mr. McLean full of honors and a judge-ship slated. His remains will rest until aroused by Gabriel's trump for further scenes and emoluments in the great beyond but his influence will remain to be felt in sacred circles where nothing but death will eradicate his memory.

Deus est qui regit omnia.

Death of Aged Sisters.

Mrs. Shields, for many years a resident near the town on the Houlton Road, died on Wednesday of last week, aged 81 years. The remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery in town, on Friday, after a requiem mass in St. Gertrude's church.

Miss McGee, a sister of Mrs. Shields, passed away from earth on the following Saturday, at the advanced age of 84 years. She had made her home with Mrs. Shields for many years and her death was hastened by grief at the loss of her sister.

Death of Charles Doherty.

A resident of Watson Settlement, Charles Doherty, died from pneumonia, on Wednesday of last week, aged 70 years, and was buried the following Friday in St. Gertrude's cemetery. Woodstock after a requiem mass in the parish church was celebrated by Rev. Fr. McMurray. Deceased was highly respected at the settlement in which he lived, as was evidenced by the extremely large funeral. Besides a widow he leaves two sons and one daughter to mourn their loss.

Some Dental Hints.

BY DR. R. G. THOMPSON.

Unless the teeth are properly taken care of, what are the results? 1st. We have improper mastication. 2nd. Improper digestion. 3rd. Improper nutrition. 4th. Poor health, and without health what is life. Hence we have the paramount importance of good teeth.

How many people realize this fact and without doubt there is perhaps no part of the body that receives less attention than the teeth.

The importance of Hygiene in regard to the mouth should be as strictly attended to as any other part of the body. In order to do this the teeth should be examined by a dentist at least once or twice a year and any defects found should be immediately attended to. In this way how many cases of indigestion and serious sickness could be avoided and doctor's bills saved. Hence we see the importance of having the teeth attended to at the proper time, incidentally at the proper place, which is at Dr. R. G. Thompson's Dental office over Mair's Drug store, No. 2 Main St. Woodstock N. B.

JOTTINGS.
