A party of C N R surveyors made a ghastly find on the prairie a few days ago, about forty miles west of Saskatoon. While running their survey line they came across a man and a team of horses attached to a sleigh. The man was sitting huddled up in furs on the seat, but the reins were trailing on the ground, and the horses were walking in a jaded condition on the trail. On investigation the surveyors found the man was dead. There was nothing in the way of papers on his person to show who he was, but it is believed that he was a rancher and had been frozen to death.

Mr. Flemming said they should have a ballot system that must be secret. He agreed with the attorney general that the present system might be amended and improved so as to secure greater secrecy.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

In the Assembly on Tuesday the election law was further discussed by Messrs Copp, McLatchey, Grimmer, Osman, Smith, Tweeddale, Ryan and Pugsley.

Mr Tweeddale believed that if it be possible to enact a law giving us pure elections, it is the duty of the house to do so; but he did not think it wise to enact laws unless there is a reasonable certainty that they will be strictly enforced. Otherwise disrespect for all laws will be created. He wished to go on record as favoring purity in elections, and punishment of bribery.

Mr Smith agreed something should be done to improve the election law. Mr Ryan said that the people of Albert had said that the present ballot was good enough for them. When a man can make his own ballot surely it is secret enough, still if a committee of the house could devise a more secret ballot than the present one he was with them.

Mr Hazen said he did not impeach the sincerity of the gentlemen who moved the amendment, but regretted he did not make it a separate motion and let the secret ballot resolution rest on its merits. The question of the secret ballot was quite distinct from the question of bribery.

The present ballot is in no sense a secret one. There could be no improvement until the law provided that no one should be admitted to the room except the voter and the agent. While the present dominion law is not perfect, it has this advantage, that if the returning officer does his duty, no one can tell how a man votes. In almost every county in the world the Australian ballot system has been adopted. It seemed to him that when we find all the other countries adopting this system, we might very well follow their example.

With regard to the amendment he desired to say that he would be happy to accept it and he trusted that the result of the deliberations of the committee would be the framing of a law that would have the effect of stopping bribery, corruption and intimidation.

Hon. Mr Pugsley thought it a hopeful sign that there was such a strong expression of feeling in favor of so amending the law as to secure purity of elections. We ought not to adopt a ballot simply because it has been adopted in other countries, neither should we be carried away by the sentimental desire to follow the example of any other province.

The adoption of the Australian ballot had not prevented the most disgraceful bribery in other countries and he instanced the state of Delaware. He thought our present ballot system might be so improved as to afford entire secrecy and freedom from intimidation or bribery. He would change the law so that no one but the returning officer, the clerk and one representative of each candidate should be admitted into the polling booth. He would prevent persons from hanging about the door to intercept the voters and he would have a private room in the polling booth in which the voter might obtain his ballot and where official ballots would be placed on the same kind of paper for both sets of candidates so that they could not be distinguished. He believed that if this was done entire secrecy would be secured.

He was going to vote heartily for the resolution and amendment but without committing himself to the Australian ballot. He wished to refute the idea that the present election law is as bad as had been made out by the member for Charlotte. It contained most stringent provisions against bribery. The difficulty was that there was no provision made for carrying out the law and he thought it would be the duty of the legislature to provide machinery for enforcing any law that was passed. He thought the leader of the opposition took an exaggerated view of the amount of undue influence exercised on voters. The great evil which they should endeavor to put down, was bribery. He felt quite sure that the result of the labors of the committee would be to place on the statute book a law that would be creditable to the legislature and satisfactory to the people.

Mr Fleming said they should have a ballot system that must be secret. He agreed with the attorney general that the present system might be amended and improved so as to secure greater secrecy.

The resolution as amended, was

Hon Mr Tweedie moved the house into committee on a bill to authorize the leasing and development of the water power at Grand Falls, Mr Copp in the chair. The premier said the great aim of capitalists at the present time is to obtain water power for developing their electricity. Some years ago a company obtained a charter for utilizing the water power of Grand Falls. One of the incorporators was Sir William Van Horne. Unfortunately they did not carry out their agreement. Two years ago their charter was extended on condition that they would spend $100,000 prior to March 3 last. Their charter has now elapsed and it is thought desirable that the government should have the power to lease this power at Grand Falls to any company that should require it. He thought, indeed, that all the important water powers in the province should be under the control of the government. The province of Quebec was deriving a large revenue from its water powers and ours should be looked after. The bill enacted that when any person afforded evidence to the government of their financial ability to develop this water power and made a deposit with the receiver general of not less than $50,000, they might receive incorporation by letters patent and in case they made default in the conditions imposed, their deposit would be forfeited. When any company desired incorporation for utilizing our purposes they should give evidence of their bona fides. Heretofore we have been too much disposed to give away our franchises to persons who had no money behind them.

Mr Hazen—Has the company incorporated before abandoned all

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

idea of going on? Two years ago we extended the term of their charter and he understood they were not satisfied with the conditions and went to Ottawa, where they obtained an act without limitations. If the company rely on this there may be a conflict of authority.

Hon Mr Tweedie said the company had not set up a claim so far under their dominion franchise. They say they are not ready to go on. If there is a conflict of authority with the dominion we will be prepared to meet it. Sometimes it looks at Ottawa as if the ministers thought the provinces had no right which the dominion was bound to respect. Now, whatever the dominion government might please to do at Grand Falls, we are ready to fight them and he thought the province would come out on top.

Mr Hazen said it seemed to him the government ought to carefully consider the taking over of all the water powers of the province. They are becoming of priceless value. The Grand Falls water power is one of the greatest in America. He thought the province should derive a revenue from its water powers and that the bill should be guarded so that the government might impose a rental. He thought also that the government had taken the proper position as regards the company going to Ottawa, and he entirely agreed with the premier that the federal parliament had no right to give up our franchise. In reference to the other water powers in the province, some questions might arise as to the rights of riparian proprietors. For instance, the Grand Falls at Nepesiguit was held by a company of anglers, who had made large expenditures there and who might object to their fishing being interfered with. It would be necessary to give these persons proper compensation and also to guard the fisheries against injury. He asked if the government proposed to impose a rental to be paid by parties obtaining water power.

Sour Stomach—Bad Breath.

The body depends on the bowels to carry off all waste and poisonous matters from the system—it is Nature's drainage. If the bowels don't perform their functions properly and become clogged up, the system gradually absorbs this poison. It is this which causes sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, bad breath, inactive liver, lack of energy, heartburn, etc.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt will cure you by clearing away the obstruction and thoroughly cleansing the bowels. This brings healthy action to all the organs of the body and rids the system of the cause of illness.

In this way Abbey's Effervescent Salt permanently cures. A teaspoonful in half a glass of tepid water every morning.

Hon Mr Tweedie thought the suggestion a good one, while he thought that private interests should be protected they should not be allowed to override public interests. He would take care that the rights of all should be safeguarded.

Hon Mr Hill said that the disadvantages of granting incorporation by letters patent were overcome in the present instance by the more important consideration that all our great resources should belong to the people of the province. The water forming the Grand Falls comes from many water sheds to which no man has contributed and was it not equitable that owners of land on either side of the river should claim that which nature produced? The government should not part in fee simple with the natural resources of a country. They are wealth producers and should, in all cases, be leased, so as to swell the revenues of the province. He was therefore glad to vote for the bill.

Mr Tweeddale said it was evident that the company whose charter had recently expired, had not sought incorporation in good faith. What is expected in the leasing of public franchises is the development of industries, thereby enhancing the value of private property. He would not like to see too many restrictions placed on the bill as they would have a tendency to discourage enterprise. It would be time enough to enforce the payment of an annual rent to the provincial treasury when industries had been developed and well put in circulation. The people of Victoria county, especially of Grand Falls, were anxious for the development of the water power and he knew they would heartily endorse the action of the government and approve of the bill now before the House.

The bill was then read section by section and after all its sections were agreed to, progress was reported.
