EDITORIAL NOTES.

Tarte was present at a tory blow out in the province of Quebec a few days ago and didn't speak. Somebody must have gagged him.

Hon J C McCorkill has been appointed provincial treasurer for the province of Quebec. Hon W A Weir has been taken into the cabinet without portfolio.

The Auditor general having climbed down from his lofty perch, it will now be unnecessary to proceed with legislation compelling him to be amenable to the laws of reason.

The workmen have been paid their back wages at the Soo. The Ontario government came to the rescue and guaranteed the banks from losses. As a result all is quiet.

Sir Thomas Lipton is said to be in the running for the post of British ambassador to the United States. The Irish baronet turned the first mark three miles behind the leading competitor.

Hon Dr Landerkin, a member of the Senate, is dead. Dr Landerkin was for nearly a quarter of a century a liberal member of the Commons. He was sent to the upper chamber about two years ago.

A dreadful thing happened to Hon Mr Tarte last week. He was invited to speak in two places on the same date. This must have been an awful shock to him. How he must have wished that he could accommodate all hands.

The Senate is now pretty well reformed. When the liberals came into power, seven years ago, they had only thirteen members in the Senate. When the existing vacancies are filled their majority will be just thirteen. A few years bring great changes.

Next Tuesday there will be considerable activity in a majority of the parishes where there are contests for the honor of holding a seat at the board. Many good men have been nominated all over the county, and the likelihood is that a first rate set of councillors will be chosen. There is no particular issue at this time, the old feeling between town and county being buried, it is hoped, forever.

It has pleased the opposition press to spread unfounded reports concerning the successor to Hon Mr Blair in the cabinet from this province. There is no longer room for any doubt in the matter, if indeed there ever was any such feeling of uncertainty. Hon H R Emmerson is admitted to be the choice not only of the liberals of this province, but of the other Maritime provinces as well. The cheap stories so industriously circulated by tory papers have been promptly nailed as fabrications by those best in a position to know.

Opposition papers are fond of quoting independent journals that sometimes oppose the government. Nobody can accuse the Toronto News of being overly friendly to the Laurier administration, yet it is forced to admit the truth in its comment on the railway policy. This is what it has to say of the Grand Trunk Pacific:

Taken on the whole, the Government policy is to be commended. It is distinctly popular in the country, despite the factitious petitions with which the House has been assailed. The popular feeling is that the enterprise offers an excellent prospect of supplementing the water and the rail and water routes.

This is rather good evidence, coming as it does from a paper owned by conservatives.

Information Needed.

Coun Burr was quite right in his demand for a report from the Scott Act Committee. The law is supposed to be in force in town, although it is evident we have no inspector at the present. However, if one can believe what he hears on the streets, there has been some kind of an attempt to systematically hold up those who dispense the ardent. What the public desire is that particulars of these cases be furnished. No person expects the committee to publish the names of the offenders in poster type on the dead walls of the town, but what reasonably should be furnished is a correct financial report of the doings of those looking after the enforcement of the act. The number of fines paid and the cost of the enforcement will satisfy the public for the present.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

There is a novel scheme in use by some enterprising Houlton merchants to attract custom. Eight well known firms have purchased a first class piano, which they will give to the church having the greatest number of votes to its credit at the close of the year. Any person buying twenty-five cents worth of goods is entitled to cast one vote for the church of his preference. We notice a church in the parish of Richmond third in the race, the number of votes to its credit being more than three thousand, and representing purchases amounting to nearly one thousand dollars. There are other provincial churches in the running, with a much smaller number of votes of course, but in the aggregate footing up a respectable sum. Even some Woodstock places of worship have found favor in the eyes of a number of the persons making their preference known. It is quite unreasonable to suppose that these ballots have been cast by residents of Houlton who have their own sanctuaries to look after and maintain. It would probably surprise the public if the volume of trade from this side of the line secured by Houlton merchants were made known. Very much of it should be done in Woodstock, where one may secure better goods at a lower cost in many instances. Something should be done to secure the trade that has apparently forsaken its natural channel. Either our merchants are not alive to their duty, or a certain fascination to disregard their best interests has overtaken a large section of the community. Certain it is that a serious state of affairs exists without any effort, seemingly, to bring about a change.

Snap Shots at Municipal Politics.

There was little or no interest taken in Woodstock regarding the Municipal election. Messrs McDonald and Bailey made fairly good councillors, and Joseph Fewer the new candidate is a young man of considerable ability and popular as well, so it is not very surprising that an acclamation was given the trio.

Over in Northampton there is no such scarcity of available timber. No less than five candidates are up, and three must be left at home. Just which three will be slaughtered would be difficult to tell. Friends of all the candidates express themselves as being confident.

Woodstock parish has an opportunity to secure a worthy representative in the person of Henry B. Smith, who at the request of many electors has consented to offer his services. His election is considered certain.

The parish of Richmond is the scene of a sharp contest. The veteran Councillor Merrithew is making a splendid fight and will again be returned. Just who will accompany him is as yet uncertain.

Considerable satisfaction is felt at the election of Warden Harry Carvell and his colleague J F Williams by acclamation in the parish of Wilmot. The popular Warden is to be congratulated on this additional honor bestowed upon him.

A Provincial Circuit.

There is a movement under consideration by which horse racing may assume very much greater proportions in this province next year. Woodstock, St. Stephen, Fredericton, Chatham, Moncton, Sussex and St. John are provided with good tracks, and the management of each is reported to be favorable to the formation of a circuit that would give fourteen meetings in a period of about ten weeks.

The leading horsemen are in favor of the scheme, and it is altogether likely that definite steps will shortly be taken toward organization. The purses would be large, some claiming that at least three hundred dollars will be hung up for each class. If the deal goes through, Woodstock should see some great racing next year.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

J Douglas Black, city editor of the Fredericton Gleaner met with a serious injury on Saturday evening. The young man rode on his bicycle to the upper end of Wilmot Park, and in some manner received a bullet from a revolver. The bullet entered just below the heart, and lodged near the backbone. It is not exactly known how the unfortunate affair happened, the most likely conclusion being that the injury was self-inflicted, although for what cause cannot be learned. The patient was at once conveyed to Victoria Hospital, where he is now lingering between life and death. The doctors are making a brave effort to save his life. At latest accounts there was some hope of recovery.

The Candidates Nominated.

The election of county councillors for the municipality of Carleton, for a term of two years, will take place next Tuesday, and the probabilities are that there will be contests in every parish but Wilmot and the town of Woodstock. Monday was nomination day and as far as we are able to ascertain, the following are the candidates:

Woodstock Town—William McDonald, A G Bailey, Joseph Fewer, elected by acclamation.

Woodstock Parish—F Byron Bull, Henry Smith, George F L Flemming, Wilmot—Warden Harry Carvell and J F Williams elected by acclamation.

Northampton—C W Betts, Henry Phillips Jr., Jeremiah Bragdon, Alex Brown, H Cluff.

Richmond—J S Merrithew, John Hay, ex-Coun Bell, George Johnston, Brighton—Jas Faulkner, Allan Bradley, Cornelius Connolly, B N Shaw.

Lipton A Free Trader.

New York, Oct 5.—Sir Thomas Lipton arrived in this city last evening from Chicago looking decidedly thinner than when he left New York a few weeks ago. The baronet lost much of his old-time ruddiness of countenance during the attack of appendicitis in Chicago. In an interview he said: "In my opinion, Mr Chamberlain is the foremost man in England to-day, but I think his policy of advocating a preferential tariff for the Empire could not but make the cost of living in England higher than it is at present."

"I have studied the question of supply and demand very carefully, so far as it applies to my own country, and I am thoroughly convinced that in the question of food supply Great Britain has no choice. 'America' is the only country in the world that is prepared to meet her demands."

"It is absurd to say that anyone, or all, of the British colonies could begin to supply the foodstuffs that are consumed in England. As for the Mother Country herself, her entire annual produce would not be sufficient to maintain the people for a period of three weeks."

"I have a profound respect for Mr Chamberlain, but I must say I think this tariff rock is one on which his political career must founder. The British people will bitterly oppose any policy that must inevitably add to the cost of living."

Sir Thomas will remain here until Friday, when he will sail on the White Star ss. Cedric.

Muniao (Vic. Co).

Owing to dry weather many of the farmers are complaining that their wells are going dry.

Mrs William Paul, who has been visiting relatives in Worcester, returned home on Saturday accompanied by her niece Miss Bain.

Page Rideout was doing business in this vicinity last week.

Mrs A B Mayor of Kintore, and Miss Edna Pollock of Fredericton, were visiting at the Miles House on Saturday.

Mr and Mrs S C Salmon, Upper Kent, are to be congratulated on the arrival of a bouncing baby boy.

Mr Hefferman arrived here on Saturday from St John.

Miss Bertie Miles attended the quilting party at Mrs CR Inman's on Thursday.

W J Miller spent a few days at his home in Upper Kent.

Mrs Alex Adams visited friends here on Friday.

W H Miles spent Sunday at Kintore the guest of his daughter Mrs A B Mayor.

Mr and Mrs A. Post spent Thursday at Maplehurst.

Charlie McDougall has returned home from the woods with a very sore hand.

Alarming reports concerning the potato crop, the mainstay of the Maine farmer, are being received.

THE NEW RAILWAY.

There is not much that can be said at present concerning the Grand Trunk Pacific. The bill has successfully passed through the Commons, and the Senate may be depended upon not to waste any time in dealing with the measure. There has not been any marked outcry against the measure either in parliament or in the country. Of course the Opposition considers itself in duty bound to at least passively oppose anything the government may bring up, and for this reason some formal opposition was presented. The people in the west are practically a unit in demanding adequate railway facilities. No man of any prominence in the west would stake his political future upon opposition to the bill. There is a great and growing demand for the construction of another national highway.
