TEMPERANCE LOGIC.

Frances Willard wrote: 'It is the faithfulness of two, each to the other, that makes possible the true home, the pure church, the righteous nation, the great, kind, brotherhood of man.' The chief corner stone of the state is the heartstone, and on the purity and righteousness of the home depends the real prosperity of the nation. Thank God, for the Christian homes of our land, the homes where father, mother and children gather round the family altar, where the Sabbath is God's holy day, and His name is reverently spoken. The homes where the little ones are early in life dedicated to the service of a covenant-keeping God, and their infant feet are led in 'wisdom's pleasant way' are they know anything less pure and tender than a mother's love. Do parents fully realize their responsibility; the value of the immortal souls entrusted to their keeping? The little ones whose angels do always behold the face of the Father who is in heaven. To parents is given the blessed task of teaching them of that Father's love, both by precept and example, and it is no easy task. How much vigilance it needs, how much of watching unto prayer, of self denial and forbearance, of firmness and tenderness, of patient teaching and constant repetition, only mothers know.

EARLY TEMPTATION.

It is line upon line, precept upon precept, woven into the ways and work of the little mind in the earliest years that will lay the foundation firm and strong, on which to build the character that will meet and resist temptation in the coming years. For the battle of life begins so early; in the school, on the playground and on the street. Temptation comes in the form of the boy with the cigarette, the boy who treats to beer and cider, the vile pictures and literature, and the unclean words and nameless habits of children from unguarded parents. Said Frances Willard: 'A precipice lies before every boy and girl when they emerge from the sheltering fortress of home, but a sure path leads around it; we must tenderly warn them of the one; we must tenderly lead them to the other.'

PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITIES.

But the children who are growing up on our streets, whence do they come? When we see the little tots on the streets at night we are constrained to ask, where are the mothers who should have tucked them in their little beds hours ago? Some of them doubtless come from homes where mothers are so busy with family cares that they have neither time nor strength to care properly for their children. Some from homes where parents never think about the danger; some from homes where social distinction is the highest ambition, and some, I am afraid, are crowded on the street by dire necessity. The saloon has robbed them of so much that makes a home, that the instinct of self preservation impels them to the sidewalk.

Sisters, what can we do for the homes and the children? For the wealthy and well to do; nothing. Any advice would be regarded as impertinence. The siren of pleasure, the world of sport, are so alluring, so pleasing, the club, the bathroom, the fashionable resort have so much of beauty and joy that they are blinded to the other side of the picture.

CHILDREN OF SOCIETY MOTHERS.

They are so busy enjoying the good things of life that they cannot see the pitfalls in the path of their boys and girls; the thin space in the ice to which the young feet are gliding so merrily, until the crash comes, the current sweeps down and away, and in the home there is darkness and silence and despair. How many have begun life with high hopes and bright prosperity, with every blessing that makes life desirable, talent, wealth, beauty, friends, generous impulses, which made him an easy prey to the tempter. Where are they now? In unmarked graves, their sun gone down at noon; slain by the wine cup. Too late they learned the truth of the proverb, 'At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.'

Jean Ingelow wrote the lines:—
'For me love played the low prelude,
Let life begin but with the riag.'

WEDDING A MAN TO REFORM HIM.
Alas! to how many women it is

Keep Little Ones Well.

There ought not to be any sickly, fretful, sleepless children—there would not be any if mothers gave their little ones an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. The little ones are sickly and fretful and sleepless usually because of some stomach, bowel or teething trouble. These and the other minor ills of little ones are speedily relieved and promptly cured by Baby's Own Tablets, and the little one thrives and grows plump, sleeps well at night and lets the mother get her much needed rest as well. Mrs. R. M. LaRue, Mountain, Ont., says:—'I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers who have cross or delicate children. I do not know how I could get along without them. Mother, isn't it worth your while to give this medicine just one trial? If your medicine dealer does not keep the Tablets send 25 cents to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the Tablets will be sent by mail post paid.'

death not life that begins with the ring. Not merciful passing away to the better land, but the slow dying out of the heart of love and hope and ambition; of all that seemed so fair and full of promise. Alas for the woman who marries a man to reform him. Too soon or rather too late she finds that he regards her as a part of his goods and chattels, with which he can do as he pleases, and he too often pleases to return to his habits. Temptation comes in 'first one glass,' the treating custom, the open saloon. He may try to reform, but the will power is weakened and he cannot resist the craving for strong drink. Soon the shadow falls on the home, the cosy flat is left for the bare rooms and the burden grows heavier for the devoted mother who toils that her little ones may have food.

Sisters, I would gladly lay down my pen for words fall to tell of the homes which W. C. T. U. women have visited; of women and children without food, fuel or clothing, in this bitter weather. This and kindred societies have done much to alleviate suffering, but who can protect the helpless babe or suffering wife from the man who has sworn to love, honor and cherish her?

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of its valves and the rhythm of its throbs. If the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requires just such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

WHEN YOU'RE RUN DOWN

Just build up your system with the great South American Nerve, the health builder, blood maker and nerve food, that is quick and most thorough in its action. Will put every organ in the body in good working order speedily and permanently, through giving them a new nervous energy, and fills the system with health, vigor and rich, red blood.

J. W. Dinwiddie, of Campbellford, Ont., states: "For years I was troubled with nervousness and impaired liver and kidneys. I was treated by several doctors, tried every medicine, but failed to procure a bottle of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVE."

I took but a very few doses and the nervous depression left my entire system. I will never be without it."
