A SHORT SESSION.

On Monday evening the town council had a remarkably brief session. Punctually at eight o'clock the mayor called the council to order, but owing to the fact that the clerk was not there sharp on the dot with the records of the previous meeting, the mayor's gavel descended, his worship announced a postponement until the next regular meeting, left his seat, put on his hat and departed almost before the astonished councillors knew what had happened. When they recovered from the shock sufficiently to know what was going on, they likewise picked up their traps and went home. No doubt the meeting this evening will be more lengthy. There is an impression that his worship intends to make all the town officials toe the scratch during his term of office. On several occasions he has endeavored to brighten up the ideas of those who seem a bit inclined to be leisurely disposed.

RAILWAY WRECK.

The express on the Gibson Branch going towards Fredericton, met with a mishap about twenty five miles from here on Saturday afternoon. The train consisted of two passenger cars and several flats loaded with lumber. While rounding a sharp curve, the rails spread and half a dozen cars left the track. The road-bed was torn up, and some of the cars smashed nearly to atoms. The engine and the passenger coaches did not leave the track, and beyond a bad shaking up and considerable of a scare, no injury befell anyone. The passengers were taken on one of the lumber cars as far as Cardigan. There they were transferred to an empty freight car, and safely reached the Capital near midnight. Mrs. N. D. Lister, Rev. Geo. A. Ross and Geo. Balmain were among the Woodstock people on board.

A FURTHER REMAND.

Peter Hanlon was brought before Magistrate Dibblee on Tuesday for sentence on the charge of breaking and entering the C. P. R. station at Bath, to which he had some days ago pleaded guilty. At the request of the attorney general's department and in order that certain phases of the case might be looked into, the prisoner was further remanded until this morning at ten o'clock, when it is thought the case will be finally disposed of.

That Gold Headed Cane.

There is a lot of interest taken in the offer of a gold headed cane to the most popular man in Carleton County, made in our last issue. In another column particulars may be seen. So far the race is very close. Several business and professional men seem likely to receive a large number of votes. Ministers, doctors, lawyers, in fact any class, are eligible. The winner will receive what is perhaps the finest walking stick in the county and will have the unique honor of being designated as the most popular man in the county. Send in the free coupon in this paper, properly filled in. If you pay your subscription up to date and a year in advance, you may cast ten votes for your favorite. In sending remittances by mail be sure to specify for whom you wish your votes recorded.

GREATLY ALARMED.

A great sensation took place at a late hour on Monday night among the residents of Regent street. It appears that several discharges of a rifle were heard. Thinking that a murder was being committed, some of the frightened ones rushed for the police. The night watch was secured and with the assistance of the residents, a search was made of the locality. After considerable delay it was found that the noise was caused by the shooting of an old horse in a nearby stable.

Death of Mrs. A. Simonson.

We announce the death of Mrs. Albert Simonson, which occurred in this town on Thursday morning, July 28th. The deceased had been in ill health for many years, and had gradually declined in strength since a severe illness, which she suffered last winter. She leaves besides a sorrowing husband—two children, Rev. E. W. Simonson of Centerville, and Mrs. A. H. Prescott of this town. The burial was at St. Peter's church, Jacksonville, on Saturday afternoon.

Salmon is 2s. 4d. per lb in London, compared with 1s. 9d. last year.

Heroic Rescue by Robert Gill and Others.

On Sunday last a party of young fellows were bathing in the river on the Northampton shore, when one of them, by name Harry Kidney, got out of his depth. His distress was noticed by a young Englishman named Malcolm Orford who though too far away to give assistance called the attention of others near the water. Mr. Plate, another young Englishman, and Mr. Harry Bull gallantly went to his rescue; they were followed up by Rob Gill in a punt, who was the first to reach Kidney and saved him by thrusting a paddle to him. If it had not been for Mr. Gill's promptness, Harry Kidney would most probably have drowned as the current was taking him out into the river and the other men were too far away to save him.

THAT PAID CIRCULATION.

The Press devotes a lot of valuable space in an effort to hoodwink the public into the belief that the Press is a wonderfully desirable advertising medium. It says "It has been a progressive and successful newspaper of the first rank for twenty four years, and offers greater publicity at a lower rate per thousand paid circulation than any other Carleton County paper." Regarding the first part of its claim, we will have nothing to say. The readers of the Press know best. As for the sweeping assertion concerning the wonderful publicity, we challenge the Press to tell its patrons how many paid in advance subscribers it actually has on its books. If given access to its records we will undertake to prove that it has not even as many names on its mailing list, paid in advance, dead heads, exchanges and all, as either of the other Woodstock papers has of paid in advance subscribers. Further, we challenge the Press to disprove the assertion that it has not two thirds as large a circulation as the Dispatch or the SENTINEL either in Carleton County or anywhere outside. The publication of such misleading statements as we complain of is surely very much like an attempt to secure business under false pretences, an offense which no self respecting journal would commit.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Patrons of the N. B. Telephone Co., and the General Public:
For the past nineteen years I have been connected with the New Brunswick Telephone Company in the capacity of local agent for the concern. During all these years I have tried to honestly serve their interests, as well as to minister faithfully to the wants of the patrons of the company. No doubt there have been at times failures on my part but I assure you I have done the best I could. Now that I have voluntarily severed my connection with the company, I would take this occasion to bespeak for them the same generous patronage as has been given during my tenure of office as their local agent. Thanking you all for your patronage and kindly considerations,
I am yours truly,
H. V. DALLING.

The August session of the above court met on Tuesday morning. His Honor Judge Carleton presiding. Every member of the grand jury was present. There was one criminal case, that of the King vs William McHattan, on the charge of stealing a watch, the property of Edith Niles. His honor briefly addressed the grand jurors on this case. He took occasion to state that this was the first occasion, since becoming a judge, that he had found every member of a grand jury in his place. He congratulated them on the fact. After a short deliberation, "no bill" was found, and on motion of Mr F B Carvell, the prisoner was discharged from custody. Several civil cases had been entered, but settlements were arranged.

ASHLAND'S OPERA HOUSE.

That enterprise and persistency is productive of success is instanced by the fact that fourteen years since, W. W. Loane, one of Ashland's progressive business men, came from Woodstock, N. B., and engaged in the hardware trade. Since that period, increased business demanded increased facilities, resulting three years since in the erection of a three-story structure, designated the Opera House block, corner of Main and Exchange streets. This structure is of modern design and finish, externally and internally, the ground floor and basement being utilized for business purposes and it cannot be gainsaid but that it is one of the best and most completely stocked hardware and agricultural houses in northern Aroostook, comprising within its portals everything essential to the benefit of the mechanic of whatever grade, together with guns, revolvers, ammunition, fishing tackle and sportsmen's goods of every character, stoves, ranges and kitchen furnishings, lime, cement, builders' supplies, agricultural implements, with the "Hoover" potato digger as a specialty, constituting an essential part of the business, the heavier lines being cared for in a practically new storehouse of ample proportions, adjoining the railway station. The two upper stories of the block are combined into a modernly finished opera house, circled upon three sides by a gallery, which, including the main floor, is equipped with removable opera chairs, with an aggregate seating capacity of 600. In addition to a handsome drop curtain, the stage is equipped with six scene sets, and of ample proportions for the production of any theatrical attraction, as well as any public entertainment. The opera house is heated by steam, well lighted, and the finish being of polished natural hardwood, the effect is at once cheerful and attractive. Ashland is a thriving town, still growing, and managers of theatrical attractions will subserviently their own interests by communicating with W. W. Loane.—Bangor Industrial Journal.

Another Slander by the Press.

It is not unusual to find somewhat outrageous statements in the columns of our opposition contemporary, yet anything more out of place or uncalled for could not possibly be imagined than certain statements made in the leading editorial of that paper in its last issue. That heavy taunt is appreciated by the residents of the county no person will contend, yet any one openly insinuating that the people of Carleton county are more largely concerned on account of the cost incurred by the conviction and punishment of offenders, rather than the reproach of harboring them within its borders, must surely have a very poor estimate of the sense of honor which Carleton county people maintain. We beg to remind our contemporary that the people are jealous of their good name and will not allow the paltry increase in taxation consequent upon the administration of justice to warp their sentiments one iota. What the people deeply resent is the effort made by certain newspapers, the Press unfortunately in the number, to cast reflections upon the county. We notice that the St John Sun, a paper which has not gained any popularity in Carleton county for some time back, gives further publicity with evident approval to the Press article. The Fredericton Herald takes a different view and sharply rebukes the Press in the following vigorous fashion:—

"The Woodstock Press asserts that the Carleton county people are not so much concerned about the re-proaches that county is receiving for its recent criminal record as they are respecting the expense of the murder trials. We can scarcely believe that the people of that fine county are fairly represented by the Press. They are as jealous an any other community for the preservation of the good name of their county and the upholding of justice even though the court bills may be large, and the Press should apologize for its insult to its constituency. No such reflection has been made on Carleton by any outside newspaper."

Tory Ammunition.

In the coming campaign we may expect to hear the opposition orators, great and small, harp largely upon the Dundonald incident. The conservatives seem inclined to grasp at anything calculated to win a few votes. How little stock the English people take in the agitation may be judged by the remarks of Sir H. Taschereau, who on his return from the Old Country, is reported as saying that at first public opinion was somewhat divided across the water, but when all the details were received, the noble Earl's course was almost unanimously condemned. It may interest some to learn that Colonel Kaulbach, tory M.P. for Lunenburg, N.S., an old and valiant militia officer, walked out of the house of commons just before the vote was taken, rather than support Mr. R. L. Borden's motion of censure on the government for dismissing Lord Dundonald.
