A LIE IN THE PRESS.

Our heading is so general in its application that of course all sane people will ask, which one do we refer to.
Fabrications are so numerous that we must particularize. A party, writing apparently from Hartland, but likely a well known contemptible cur living in Woodstock, says that Mr Carvell once burnt the Queen's Uniform. If the party who wrote it has any conscience he should go away back somewhere and meditate upon the excellent prospect he has for ultimately reaching the lake that burns with fire and brimstone.

The Portland Question.

When the electors are hearing the hysterical criticisms of the opposition newspapers, which declare that the traffic of the Grand Trunk is going to Portland, Maine, they ought to consider the statements of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, made at the time he introduced the Grand Trunk Pacific bill. As to the aims and objects the government had in views in promoting the construction of another transcontinental line, Sir Wilfrid stated that one chief reason why the new line was needed was the fact that the present lines which run to the Atlantic seaboard, with the exception of the Intercolonial Railway, all passed through foreign territory.
He stated that this was a dangerous position for Canada to be placed in, because at some time Canadian freight might be prevented reaching the seaboard by the refusal of the United States to continue what is termed the "bonding privilege." Now, as the Grand Trunk Pacific is being built to correct this difficulty, it is likely Sir Wilfrid Laurier would consent to the terms of the contract being ignored and the freight of the Grand Trunk taken to a foreign port? The idea is too ridiculous to be even controverted. The Grand Trunk Pacific contract compels that corporation to carry all its unguaranteed freight to Canadian ports, and it forbids that corporation to canvass or otherwise influence shippers to send their freight to a foreign port.
Moreover, it takes away all motive for sending freight to a foreign port by compelling the company to grant as low rates to Canadian ports as to foreign ports.

A Latter-Day Persano.

The name of Vice-Admiral Rojenventsky may fittingly be placed side by side with that of Admiral Persano.
The lack of self-control, the pusillanimity, the timorous apprehension which allowed the former to open a fatal cannonade upon peaceful fishing vessels are only equalled by the cowardice, negligence and incapaci-

A WILD YARN.

A wild yarn has been circulated to the effect that the Dominion Government has sent an emissary to Judge Parker to get funds to run the Dominion election. Mr M P Davis, an Ottawa contractor, who is the hero of the romance, says that he went to Esopus to see some friends, not for any political purpose. We should say that Judge Parker and his friends could find good use for all the money in their possession just now, without sending any of it into Canada. A Presidential campaign presents a wide field of usefulness in this respect. The money spent in Canada in elections usually comes out of the Canadian taxpayers' pocket in the long run. Perish the thought that our country, with its magnificent natural resources, should have to go to Esopus for campaign funds.—News.
