Something on Draft Horses.

Discussing draft-horse breeding, Mr Geo E Brown, of Illinois, says: "In solving the problem as to which is the most suitable breed to use, it seems to me a little good common sense should settle the matter. 'Like begets like,' is an established axiom among breeders. Weight, conformation, substance and quality are the essentials in draft horses, and the breed that combines these in the most perfect manner should be the choice of every practical horse breeder; minor qualities, whims and prejudice should be cast aside.

"To get at the recognized desirable points in draft horses for actual service in the collar, watch sharp experienced buyers make their most careful selections in cases where price does not influence the decision.

"Having found the requisite weight and the general appearance satisfactory, the feet and legs will undergo critical inspection. The hoof must be of suitable form and texture to endure constant work on all kinds of roads. The leg from hoof-heads to body must be sound and heavy; the bone large, flat, and plenty; sinew and muscle likewise strong, well developed and free from fatty deposits; shoulders massive and muscular; back short; quarters long; body deep at heart and flank; thighs heavy, extending well down to hocks; hocks free from boggy indications and not too much crooked. These comprise the common essentials in all draft horses; without these the animal will go for a small price.

"Having found the real essentials, the critical buyer goes for the nice points and regulates his price according to the way in which he finds them in addition to the essentials.

"A full eye, pleasant countenance, head clean, and the bone of medium size, will add $10 to $25. Being nicely cut in throat and having a stylish neck may put on another $10 to $25. Easy action, rich color, sleek coat and good tail will fetch from $25 to $50, making a total difference of from $50 to $100 between a plain serviceable horse and one having these fancy points in addition to the essentials.

"A sharp, critical buyer does not discriminate on color unless the horse is decidedly objectionable from ugly marking or is of a particular bad shape. He looks under the color to find the horse. He doesn't care for breeding or pedigree if the individual is there.

"Now, how does the average farmer select a stallion to buy or to breed from? We who have spent a lifetime in the trade have many a laugh at the whims and fancies of our patrons.

"I frequently recall a conversation I once had with the late M W Dunham many years ago. He said: 'Don't it beat all, Brown, what notions some buyers have? One will come to me determined to get a particular shape of eye, another has the ear in his mind, another the tail, while another must have a certain sort of dappled gray in color; and if they get satisfaction in one point they will take up with a very inferior animal in place of a strictly first-class one that fails to suit on the one desired point.

"But the greatest mistake and the one oftenest made is that of letting the gross weight of a stallion be the chief consideration; and gratifying this whim leads to the very bad practice of loading stallions with surplus fat.

"When selecting an animal of any breed for breeding purposes, it must be typical of that breed. Failing in this, I will not accept an exceptional animal.

"There will be but little progress made in improving the horses of the Northwest till breeders determine to lay aside fads, fancies and prejudice, to use better judgment in selecting stallions, and to fix on a line of desirable breeding and stick to it for a series of years.

"The company plan of ownership of stallions will effect this if the selection is left to practical horsemen and the business managed properly.

Girl Tried to Enlist.

Baltimore, Sept. 23.—A blue-eyed youth applied to the officer of the guard at Fort McHenry yesterday for information concerning a private in a company recently at the fort, but now in service in the Philippines. When informed that the soldier had gone to the Far East the youth was surprised, but after a moment's hesitation announced the intention of enlisting in the army. Before the recruiting sergeant could be communicated with the officer of the guard discovered that the applicant was a woman. She said she was Annie Eastwood of Newark, N. J.; that she was nineteen years old, and that she was in search of her sweetheart, to join whom she was willing to endure all the hardships of a soldier's life. She pleaded in vain with the officer to enroll her as a man and give her a uniform.

FERROZONE.

Thousands are kept in perfect health and free from kidney complaints by Ferrozone. Among those who speak in the most laudatory terms of Ferrozone is Mr Chas F Olive, of the Gazette, St John, N B: "For several years I have had kidney trouble," says Mr Olive, "until quite recently I suffered torture. A few months ago my condition assumed a very serious form. I consulted several city doctors, used different pills, but without the slightest benefit. I suffered from an intense pain in the groin, and the increasing seriousness of my trouble prompted me to try Ferrozone. It gave me quick relief, and half-a-dozen boxes cured me. Ferrozone I can recommend as a specific for disordered kidneys."

Ferrozone not only cures kidney complaint, but also such maladies as Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Skin Eruptions, Diabetes, Lassitude and Nervousness, which are caused by defective kidneys. It neutralizes and destroys all poisons in the system, cleanses the blood, and invigorates enfeebled energies. It is mild, gentle and certain. Costs 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50. I had been a great sufferer from constipation and stomach trouble and was weak and run down in strength. I was gradually growing worse every day, and finally decided that I would have to do something. Hearing of many being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I began using them, and soon noticed a marked change for the better.
