Debec.

As I have not seen any Debec items in your paper for some time I shall take the liberty of writing a few myself.

The farmers of this place are busy digging potatoes. Many have already finished. Thanks to the potato digging machine which made its advent in Debec this fall.

Alex Benn, one of our enterprising farmers, imported a carload of potato diggers, 24 in number, from the United States. He says that he had no difficulty in finding purchasers for them, and that he could have sold several more.

Three carloads of potatoes were loaded at Debec last week by CW Dickinson.

W M Crawford left here on the 19th inst for Guelph, where he will take a three months course in the Guelph Agricultural College.

Miss Nellie King, youngest daughter of Rev J King, arrived here last Thursday.

Gerald Sanderson, who was operated on for appendicitis, is doing nicely.

John F Ivey, we are glad to say, is steadily improving.

Geo Johnston had the good fortune to shoot a fine deer one morning last week.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the paring bee at Robt Johnston's Monday night.

Samuel Hemphill is recovering rapidly and will soon return to his home in Presque Isle.

Many of the young folks of this place attended the exhibition in Woodstock.

The home of Orville Nevers was the scene of an interesting event on Wednesday, when Miss Ella V Lewis, daughter of the late Anderson Lewis of Peel, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Nicholas Briggs of Plaster Rock. The ceremony was performed by Rev A H Hayward.
After a few days in Woodstock they will go to their home near Plaster Rock, where Mr Briggs follows farming.

The moose hunters of this village have returned without even a hoof of the big game. We hear of very few being captured, the woods being swarmed with hunters the animals are driven back.

We all welcome the reappearance of the Hartland "Advertiser" in improved form and increased contents.
Its new proprietor is a thorough newspaper man, has come to stay, is owner of the entire plant and will no doubt give to subscribers an up-to-date paper.

Those of this locality who visited the St John Exhibition returned well pleased with what they saw.

The harvest is completed. Potatoes are being dug and preparations made in view for the winter. Some will seek such opportunities as the province affords, while others will cross the boundary and take their chances with Uncle Sam. Some of those who are now there in the potato fields will remain.

Some who are alarmed by the prospect of being taken into court in a certain suit have skipped out.

John Drake of Bannan is running a peddling wagon and also has a supply of goods at his home for sale.

In the midst of so much competition among country storekeepers a multiplicity of peddling waggons, Arabic bucksters and the pack men, the general trade is becoming lessened in individual cases. Almost anything is safer than merchandise, while farming, "the Heaven appointed labor of mankind", supercedes all industries.

Very cold weather for September.

The matter of approaching election is being discussed, and the best element of the country advocates the principle of selecting the most competent and reliable man that can be found for the position.

The rank partisan says, "the ticket, if a yellow dog on it, vote it", while the boodle men and those unprin-ciple and degraded shamefacedly sell or offer to sell their franchise to the highest bidder. Is all hope of an honest election forever gone?

While at Hartland a few days ago we noticed progress in the erection of the brick walls of Mr Carr's new store, which when completed, will from its prominent site and superb finish, add much to the appearance of the town.

Mr Perkins, stone cutter, Hartland, has sold out his entire stock and business, as also an undivided interest in steam grist mill, and premises to J A Rogers.

ADDON.

THE NICEST GIRL OF ALL.

Do you not think that the girl who is popular with other girls is about the nicest girl of all?

It does not mean that she is not a man's girl also. It means only that she is not too much taken up with men to have no time for her own sex.

There is something womanly about the girl that other girls like. She is not sharp, nor is she vain, even though she may have more attention from men than some of her less attractive sisters.

Men can always tell a nice girl by her manner with other girls.

The girl who likes only men never takes the trouble to make herself popular with girls. She thinks it is not worth while.

In this she is vastly mistaken; no girl can afford to be without friends of her own sex, all the men friends in the world will not compensate for the lack of feminine friendship.

There are always times in a woman's life when only another woman can understand and sympathize.

The nice girl does not treat other girls in an offhand manner and keep all her smiles for the men.

Her manner does not change the minute a man comes upon the scene.

You must have seen girls who accused to death when with girls, but let a man appear, and lo! they were all sparkle and life.

There is no reason why a girl should not be popular with her own sex and men also.

If she is fair in her dealings with other girls, and allows no petty jealousies to creep in, and does not always make them feel that she would much prefer the society of men to theirs, she is pretty sure to have lots of girl friends.

Of course, there is no comparison between a girl's friendship for a man and for another girl. It is perfectly natural that she should at many times prefer to be with the former, but all girls understand that and expect to be occasionally left in the rear when the right man comes along.

The girls' girl is always saying nice little things to other girls; she knows how she likes to have these things said to her, and so she does as she would be done by.

When she sees a pretty dress on another girl she remarks on it; she takes the trouble to say—"How sweet you look," or "I heard such a nice thing about you."

Believe it, girls, it is a great thing to be popular with your own sex.

But do not think that it is not a great thing also to be popular with men, for it is.

But there is a happy medium, and if you can strike it you will be loved by other girls, and both loved and respected by men.—Weekly Welcome.

Fall and winter goods are now arriving at Carr's, Hartland. The lat-
