ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Japan and Russia.

The agreement between Japan and Russia to hold a conference at Washington in order to settle terms of peace is a notable event. It marks the influence of the United States as one of the great powers of the world, and it gives a prominence to the capital of a nation which it never before attained in the field of diplomacy. The representatives of the two empires, in one of which the national authority is possessed by an autocrat, and in the other of which the supreme authority—despite a national legislature—reposes in an Emperor who is revered almost as a deity, are to meet in the capital of a nation in which the spirit of democracy is supreme. This is at least a tribute to the honesty and fairness of the United States government. It is an acknowledgment that in the capital of the great republic there will be greater freedom than elsewhere from these diplomatic influences which often shape the ends of contests, and sometimes defeat the purpose for which these contests are carried on. Japan has had one experience of this kind and that will be sufficient for her.—Globe.

Cordially Greeted by His Majesty.

Windsor, Eng., June 21.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra gave the heartiest welcome this afternoon at Windsor Castle to 103 Canadian women and the 135 members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The party were met at the railway station by 70 carriages provided by the King and were shown the Victoria mausoleum and other sights. The visitors were then received on the east terrace of the castle by their majesties, the King saying so that all present could hear "Welcome to England. Welcome to Windsor. I hope you will all enjoy your visit to the old country." The visitors then sang the national anthem.

Sydney, N. S., June 20.—(Special)—The Dominion Iron and Steel Company will begin to-day the rolling of the $25,000 order of rails for the Grand Trunk Pacific. Another rail was produced Saturday. The entire machinery is working splendidly.

The Royal Arcanum.

(Boston Transcript, Wednesday.)

Several new schemes for remedying the existing trouble over the sudden increase of rates in the Royal Arcanum are being discussed in the subordinate councils. Roxbury Council will meet this evening in Guild Hall, and the following resolution will be presented by a committee composed of its most active and influential members: "That the grand regent call a session of the Grand Council, and this body demand that the Supreme Council hold a special session to either amend or modify the change of rates." The committee also suggests that two more assessments be levied on each member of the order, which will make fourteen assessments each year, in place of twelve, as at present. The extra levy will net about $1,300,000 annually. The committee regards this as better than the new plan.

Passed the Exams.

Mr. T. R. Blaine, of this city, was one of the nine out of the twenty-eight who passed the pharmaceutical examinations at St. John this week. Mr. Blaine, who was formerly employed in Mr. C. A. Burdell's drug store in this city, has lately graduated from the Manitoba College of Pharmacy. He was the president of the graduating class and given over the grand dinner given by the class at the commencement exercises.—Gleaner.

General Gomez Dead.

Havana, June 17.—General Maximo Gomez, who commanded the Cuban forces during the revolution, died at 6 o'clock this evening.

"El Caudillo" (Chieftain) as the great leader of revolutions was called by his countrymen, expired just as the sun was slanting across the gulf, in the presence not only of his family, but also his old time friend, Estrada Palma, president of the republic.

Must Leave Port Arthur.

Chee Foo, June 19.—American and European firms still in Port Arthur have been notified by the Japanese authorities to depart and remove their merchandise. Many of the firms are now arranging to charter steamers for that purpose.

Shipments of contraband of war for the Japanese continue to be made, particularly from Chee Foo to Dalney.

A Chance for New Men.

The conservative opposition in Canada is to-day as near the low water mark as it has ever been in the history of the dominion. The ebb-tide of public opinion has thrice within a decade carried the once triumphant and domineering party to defeat. There are as yet no indications that a turn in its fortunes is at hand. The future will doubtless witness a return to power on the part of the conservatives, but it will scarcely be under the direction of the men who are at present guiding the helm. Leader Borden is not the stamp of a man who develops into a great statesman. True he has ability and amiability, but in the work of building up the party his efforts are like unto the labors of the man who made a house upon the sands. The fact is that the men who should be his followers are virtually the leaders. The conservative party in Quebec is to-day utterly disorganized and dispirited. Where Sir John A. Macdonald was able to secure a majority, his successors have been unable to obtain more than a corporal's guard. We know where the opposition find themselves in the maritime provinces. Annihilated in the federal field and with but a pair of representatives in the assembly, the Nova Scotian opposition party is practically extinct. Our province is more evenly divided, but unlike hopeless, while tiny Prince Edward Island offers scarcely any more encouragement. Ontario is the one bright spot. There the conservatives are to-day undoubtedly strong in numbers, and if we include provincial politicians, strong in men. The West reverses the aspect. There the government is supreme, British Columbia is solid for the present federal regime, and the territories give a good majority, as does Manitoba. Can it be that the rank and file of the tory party is becoming extinct, or is the ill-luck due to defective leadership? We incline to the latter view. We have it on no less an authority than a conservative ex-premier, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, that so long as the party is largely controlled by men of the stamp of Foster, Haggart and others we might mention, just so long will the reins of power be given to their opponents. Had the federal opposition the assistance and co-operation of men like Whitney, Haultain, McBride and Roblin in the house of Commons, it might take on a new lease of life. The measure of its present leaders has been taken. They have been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Probably they have gone so far in the hole that the present generation may not witness the renaissance. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said a few years ago that the next conservative premier was yet unborn. Sir Wilfrid may have been speaking facetiously, yet the statement may be nearer the truth than one at first blush would credit.

Cunningham-O'Brien.

At 5.15 o'clock on Monday morning in the Episcopal Church Miss A. Gertrude O'Brien was married to Robt. P. Cunningham of Truro, N. S. The ceremony was performed by the Venerable Archdeacon Neales. Owing to the fact that none but the closest friends of the contracting parties were aware of the impending event, there was only a handful of spectators. The couple were unattended. Mr. Wm. Dickinson, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, gave the bride away. At the conclusion of the ceremony the newly married couple departed for Quebec, Montreal, Buffalo and other cities, after visiting which they will reside at Truro. The bride during her stay in this town was employed as teacher in the Sloyd School. She was a general favorite in social life, and her departure is deeply regretted.

Sound Advice by Cardinal Gibbons.

Cardinal Gibbons recently advised women to avoid politics. He told a gathering which he was addressing that every young lady he ever knew who went into politics "lost her freshness." Commenting on this remark, F. E. Sheppard editor of Toronto Saturday Night, made a pertinent inquiry. "Is it possible," he writes, "that the good Cardinal has never heard of the W. C. T. U.?" Of course Sheppard's comment was intended for a witticism. Most people will agree that "Don" himself is well endowed with the quality he seems to think so strongly developed in others.
