REMARKS.

"A gratifying increase" is reported in receipts from customs, excise and postal service; and a material decrease from Dominion lands, due to decreased receipts from Yukon.

The times have come when only a moderate increase in revenue, but a largely increased expenditure are to be expected. The government is not afraid to spend wisely, believing it to be true economy.

Loans will continue maturing yearly until 1913; then a long period without any.

The government will pay a bonus of 3-5 of one per cent for the return from banks of foreign silver in exchange for Canadian currency. It is expected to benefit the country by increasing Canadian coinage.

East Florenceville

Your correspondent while at East Florenceville recently called at Mrs. A. D. Hartley's museum.

He was happily surprised finding so many hundreds of foreign curios. It is both beautiful and instructive to any who would call, as Mrs. Hartley takes great pleasure in giving a full description of these foreign exhibits.

On the fifth inst. at her home the N. B. M. U. of Centreville held their annual meeting in the arbo.

The meeting was most helpful and inspiring to missions. About fifty persons partook of a bountiful repast.

Mrs. Hartley would cordially welcome any who would care to come.

A basket of potatoes, in each one of which was imbedded a five-dollar gold piece, was presented at Cleveland, Ohio, last Thursday to Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, of which John D. Rockefeller is a member. Mr. Rockefeller attended the presentation, and is said to have been the donor.

The New Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society.

The Rev. Robert E. Welsh, the new Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, is a Scotman with Covenantor blood in his veins. He comes of a missionary family and was born at New Cummock, Ayrshire—the county where the graves of the martyrs lie scattered over the "wine-red moors." Mr. Welsh had his schooling at Ayr Academy, and then studied and graduated at Glasgow University, afterwards taking his course in Theology at Edinburgh. He was ordained in 1889 to the ministry of the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, and went out as one of its missionaries to Japan. Here serious illness in his family compelled him to return after a short period of service. He then settled as minister of the English Presbyterian congregation at Harrogate where he built a new church, leaving it practically free of debt when he accepted a call to Brondesbury, a rising suburb in the North-West of London. Here Mr. Welsh began to gather what was a new congregation, and during his seventeen years' ministry at St. George's Church, a handsome and spacious edifice was built and paid for, a district mission established with two salaried agents, and a mission hall also erected. Since last year Mr. Welsh has been in charge of the Presbyterian Church at Hove, the western suburb of Brighton.

During his twenty-three years' service in the Presbyterian ministry Mr. Welsh has taken an important share in the social and business of his own communion. For instance, as Convener of the Missions Committee of the London Presbytery, he has organized their great and successful annual meetings for Home and Foreign Missions in Queen's Hall and Exeter Hall. He has also acted as Convener of the Hymnbook Committee of the English Presbyterian Synod, and is now engaged in carrying their new hymnals to completion.

As author and journalist Mr. Welsh has gained for himself a distinguished position. He is a well known contributor to many religious periodicals, and has edited a series of "Christian Study Manuals." In 1897 he edited for some time the magazines of the Bible Society, and was invited to become its Literary Superintendent. Mr. Welsh's published works have attained great popularity. One of his earliest books, "In Relief of Doubt," issued in 1895, was reprinted in 1907. His introduction by the present Bishop of London, and over 50,000 copies of a cheap edition of this work have been sold during the past twelve months. Mr. Welsh's other publications include: "The People and the Priest," "God's Gentlemen," "The Romance of Prayer and Hymnals" and "The Challenge to Christian Missions." His new book, entitled "Man to Man" and addressed to young men, is in the press and will appear this autumn.

Mr. Welsh has the wide horizon of the Christian. A long visit to South Africa gave him insight into mission work throughout Kaffraria, Natal and the Transvaal. He has travelled all over Canada—to the Pacific Coast and Vancouver, and his gifts as a preacher, lecturer and platform speaker have already won for him some reputation in the Dominion. We are confident that he will receive a hearty welcome and prove himself ideally qualified to sustain and advocate the cause of the Bible Society.

The Committee of the Canadian Bible Society at their meeting in Toronto on June 23rd approved of the appointment of Mr. Welsh and look forward to a period of successful work with him as the living link between themselves and the Parent Committee in London.

The Cincinnati Enquirer here has the following to say about Gibson:—"The new catcher of the Pirates joined the Pittsburgh team on Saturday night, and it was his first game in fast company. His home is in London, Can., and he has been playing with the Montreal Club in the Eastern League, from which his release was purchased by Barney Dreyfuss. This is his first visit to the State, but he didn't seem a bit embarrassed. In fact, the youngster backstopped well and showed that he is not afraid of spiked shoes by blocking off both Huggins and Barry as they slid for the plates and tabling them out. His throwing was off color early in the game, but improved, and he caught the last two men who went down. He is a strong, well built fellow and looks good."

King Oscar is Grouty.

King Oscar has unwisely refused to let any of his sons become king of Norway. He has naturally a deep grudge against Norway for dismissing him. From his showing that dismissal would seem to have been done with a precipitancy which implied a predetermination to break the one constitutional link that bound the two countries together. The constitution provided a means by which Norway could have legally carried anything over the King's veto. It was certainly a clumsy way, and one that no country would like to resort to very often, namely, to carry the matter through three successive parliaments. The Storting took a shorter way and dismissed the king. The king is eloquent as to the fact that, in exercising his veto he did not go beyond his constitutional power. This is irrelevant, as no one has said he did. What the Storting dismissed King Oscar for was because primarily he was not King of Norway and because it was not in the interest of Norway that he exercised his veto, but in the interest of the union with Sweden. They dismissed him, not because they did not like him, but because he was King of Sweden. It is entirely natural, but all the same it is a mistake for the King to be huffy and refuse to give them a king from his family and keep the two countries as friendly as possible.

What Russia Will Do.

St. Petersburg, July 12.—Judging from the spirit of the Russian press the Russians are not anxious for peace negotiations unless Vladivostok can be saved. One of the Russian Ministers who has the ear of the Czar, said this week:

"Suppose the very worst that can happen. We can abandon Manchuria, Liau-tung, Port Arthur, the Kharbin railway and agree to pay a war indemnity, but what we will refuse at all costs is the dismantling of Vladivostok and the surrender of Sakhalin. Not that Sakhalin is intrinsically so valuable, but its possession is invaluable to us if we intend that Vladivostok shall remain what it always has been—namely the outpost of Russia in Siberia. We have never had any national existence in Manchuria. Port Arthur is an accident. Let them take both if they like—take both away from us, let them ask for money but let them go no farther. If Japan is bent on asking for the dismantling of Vladivostok and the promise not to maintain a fleet in the far Eastern waters it is futile to lose time in vain talk."

How He Got Even.

"A practical joke," said Barney Oldfield, the automobilist, "was played on me last season. I had my revenge though."

"The practical joke took the form of a telegram. It was a telegram from a friend of mine travelling in Italy. It came 'collect'; it cost me $7; and when I opened all I read was:

"I am well."
"To get back on my friend for playing such an expensive trick on me I went out into the road and found a cobblestone. I wrapped this stone in excelsior and pink paper, sealed it up in a handsome box, and sent it by express, 'collect,' to my friend abroad."

"I cost my friend $8 for the box, and on opening it he found, along with the stone, a note from me that said:

"On receipt of the news that you were in good health the accompanying load rolled off my heart."

The passage of the British Columbia railway bill seems to have had one good effect already. From the charter of a railway projected to run from Brandon to Hudson's Bay a clause permitting the company to build a branch to the United States had been stricken out, but it has since been restored.

Sunshine Furnace

Don't Shovel Ashes

Not one make of furnace in twenty is supplied with an ash-pan.

Without an ash-pan the ashes must be shovelled into a pail or some other receptacle for removal—means dust in the eyes, ruined clothes, extra work; a dirty disagreeable job—the meanest part of furnace tending.

The Sunshine Furnace has an ash-pan which catches all the ashes, and slides in and out easily. Has two handles for carrying. No shovelling, sweeping or dirt.

This is only one of a dozen good features possessed by the Sunshine Furnace, none of which are found on any other furnace.
