More Along the Same Line.

The valued Press seems quite worked up over a somewhat innocent desire on the part of this humble journal to offer a little kindly advice to our friends of the opposition persuasion. In the last issue of the King Street luminary there appears a leading editorial, either inspired or written by some person high in the confidence of the machine, which goes a long way toward proving the truth of the present attitude we believe the opposition party has for their late champion, Mr. Jas. R. H. Simms of Bath. The cheering assurance is given by the Press that the conservative party was never in such good shape for a hard battle as at present. We notice in this the old familiar ring so often uttered by the Press before the last dominion election, when to judge by the assurances sent out from conservative headquarters the liberal candidate was not likely to much more than save his deposit. Readers of that journal who remember the rosy predictions made by it just about a year ago will know how much its statements are worth to-day. At any rate, granting for the sake of argument that which the Press brags about is true, what does it amount to? If ever a party needed to be in shape for battle of the hardest kind it is the now utterly discredited local opposition party in the County of Carleton, a party that is dominated by an irresponsible clique, devoid of political sagacity, and craving with an intense hunger for the sweets of office and the crumbs that fall from the patronage table. The Press is absolutely correct when it says it speaks for no one man party. There is no one man who would care to take the responsibility for all the many misdeeds and shortcomings that must be laid at the door of the party or those responsible for its doings as a whole. The conservative party in the county is practically dormant for the want of leaders,—men who are fitted by nature and training for leadership. No man of any wisdom would contend that the party cannot be resuscitated for if it could but estrange or purge itself from the mischievous machine element that for so long has misdirected its destinies, the party would doubtless demonstrate its fitness for existence. But we are most concerned with the plain, almost blunt manner in which it is intimated that Mr. Simms has no show for a nomination. It is given on the authority of the machine that the same old ticket, Flemming, Smith and Hartley, will be nominated. What have the friends of Mr. Simms to say to this? Why is Mr. Simms to be put aside in favor of a man who would not step into the breach last winter? Mr. Simms was ready to fight,—so he says,—when no other conservative had the courage to face the Solicitor General. Now as a reward for his bravery and party service he is to be turned down. Mr. Simms and his friends can urge on his behalf that he at least has never been tried and found wanting at the polls. As for the big puff the Press gives Mr. Smith, we can say that we are glad that gentleman is such a good merchant and nothing would give us greater pleasure than to learn of his increased success from a financial standpoint. He is entirely welcome to all the money he can make handling produce so far as we are concerned, but from a political standpoint we believe his popularity is greatly on the wane, and we know whereof we speak. As for the statement that only those who are feared are traduced by the enemy, we must say that the liberal party has no occasion to sit up late or strengthen its defenses by reason of the political onslaughts of the man from Florenceville East. We have never traduced that gentleman. We have criticized him somewhat sharply, but in a political sense only, and no good fighter will squeal at that treatment. After showing its own hand the opposition organ gets off some more information concerning the makeup of the government ticket. The Press knows very little of the situation when it so glibly discusses the attitude of these gentlemen. Frank Shaw, Major Good, Dr. Hand and Sheriff Foster are mentioned. As for them we can say they are all good true party men. Probably not one of the four desires political preferment. As good party men they will support the nominees of the convention, and after it is held, and only then, can any man say who will help carry the liberal standard in the garden county of the province. There will be no difficulty in securing men who will be the equal of their opponents in any way that may suggest itself. The battle is a long way off, but the government forces are not sleeping.

Rev. A. H. Kearney will preach in the Adventist Church at Jacksonville next Sunday at 3 P. M.

In Our New Home.

SENTINEL subscribers and others who have had occasion to call at the office during the past quarter of a century will be interested in learning that the plant and business office have been moved from the Vanwart Brick Building on King Street to the Garden Building on Queen Street, directly opposite the Henderson Furniture Store and alongside the law offices of the Hon. W. P. Jones, Solicitor General. In making this change several things were kept in view. In the first place the need for having a business office on the ground floor was always staring the management in the face. In the second place it became evident that a more central location was desirable. It was also felt that the business could be made much more profitable. These and other considerations induced the owners to make the change. Our friends and patrons will find us comfortably housed on Queen Street, better than ever prepared to attend to their wants.

The work of moving the mechanical department was in charge of A. W. Fields, foreman for Small & Fisher Co., assisted by efficient helpers from that well-known establishment. Fewer Bros. and J. P. Pickel did the necessary plumbing. The premises lately vacated on King Street would prove quite suitable for anyone in the wholesale trade, or for use as a storeroom and could be secured, we believe, at a moderate rental. Large airy, and well-lighted rooms are scarce, and for the purposes we have named, or for a workshop, they could not be excelled. The friends of the SENTINEL will please remember our new location, and call at Queen Street, directly opposite Henderson's Furniture Store.

Our Hartland Letter.

J. CRANDALL EVERETT, J. P., - LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE.
Authorized to Solicit Subscriptions, Advertisements and Job Orders.
Prompt Service Guaranteed.

Where, we ask, is our stock to come from for this week's correspondence—blue prospect.

At our sanctum during the past week we received pleasant visits from Rev. F. Todd and lady of Woodstock, Colonel Hartley of Florenceville, Sheriff Hayward and J. K. Flemming M. P. P.

We are told to invite the attention of the general public to the Misses Thornton's millinery stock and especially to the 25c and 35c hoods and caps and fur trimming in gray and white at 10c per yard.

At this busy season how many bitterly complain that toll is exacted to cross the river bridge, all others on the river being free. It would be worth a half million to stop the growling and make Hartland bridge free also.

Darius Nixon, the big lumberman, who came here last Friday from his operations on the Restigouche and returned on Tuesday, says that in a lifetime experience he never put in logs as fast as he has thus far this season.

Dr. MacIntosh had to shoot one of his horses a few days ago on account of incurable lameness. G. W. Boyer got the hide.

The mill at Cross Creek is a certainty. House already nearing completion for the boarding of the men; engine and boiler of 70 horse power ordered from St. John; lath machine and other work from Connell Bros. Expects to have it running in a month.

Heavy stock of hardware at J. T. A. Diblee's and a large business done superintended by Arthur Baird.

Mr. Flemming says, if alive and no serious changes transpire, he will be a candidate at the coming election for the consideration of the voters.

An actual violation of the game law if proven cannot, under its cast steel provisions, be excused.

New goods at C. H. Taylor's, where a St. John milliner attends to the trimming of hats and other kinds of headwear. The church going people would like to have the broad rims trimmed to give an easier view of the speaker.

Complaints are frequent respecting the number of cattle running at large. Drove from 15 to 20 every day infringing upon premises where they have no right and doing damage and in some instances destroying strawberry and other plants, vines and herbage generally. Such has become an intolerable nuisance, and unless owners take care of such stock and confine them to their own premises they certainly will be impounded.—Com.

Episcopal service conducted by Rev. H. G. Alder in Burt's Hall on last Sunday morning. Organist being quarantined, Mrs. J. T. G. Carr kindly gave her services on the occasion. Mrs. Carr has for many years been organist in the Methodist church and she is exceedingly well qualified for the position.

The residence of Mr. Keith is quarantined because of scarlet rash. Supposed to be contagious—so informed.

Rev. Mr. Harrison preached in the Methodist church last Sunday evening. Rev. S. A. Baker preached in the Reformed Baptist church last Sunday evening at 7.30. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated at the close of the service. A goodly number present.

Many think that the number of ministers in Hartland ought to be sufficient to care for all religious interests and the interest taken in foreign workers is abating. While much good may be done it increases the tax upon the comparatively few who have to foot the bills, and the experience so far is that the results have not proved commensurate to the outlay and that the regular attendance at the various churches is thereby distracted.

Horace R. Nixon is increasing his stock of groceries, boots, shoes and general merchandise to meet a growing patronage.

The new drug store is gradually building up a business.

Last week H. McLean completed a veranda in front of Frank Bradley's home which materially improves its appearance. Mr. Bradley is one of our most successful farmers whose home extends friendly hospitality to all visitors.

George McLaughlin is nicely ensconced in his new quarters and ready for all business in the printing line.

George R. Burt anticipates quite a lengthy absence from Hartland. He will spend the winter with his son in Vancouver. After taking in that section of the country he will on his return visit his daughter, Mrs. Taylor, in Norfolk, Virginia. Mr. Burt will leave here about the first of December. The recent sad changes in Mr. Burt's home life will no doubt be somewhat relieved by change of scenery and travel.

David Morgan is recuperating. He is able to attend to his place of business, although quite lame.

Speculations are made respecting Xmas festivities and of what the enjoyment will consist. Let all throw selfishness aside and cheer the hearts of the poor and those in trouble of any kind.

A Campbell, agent for the Sayre Milling Company, is a very busy man these days.

A rainy day is about the only time one needs to borrow an umbrella and about the only day the owner thereof needs it himself. Still it is a virtue to accommodate, especially a lady.

The wild beast of the forest and the Indian are better protected than the white man; the one from the gun, the other from ruin.

File your accounts with J. C. Everett for collection. Leather is on the advance in price but J. C. Everett sells the lot in hand without increase. A new lot of sole leather, findings, half soles and taps to arrive in a few days.

William Miles, hotel keeper and farmer at Muniac, was in town last Friday and Saturday. Miss Miles is at the Commercial Hotel where she will remain during Mrs. Rideout's visit to her son, Charles, who is in the employ of the Bangor & Argoosook Railway.

Boots, shoes, dry goods and groceries among the latest arrivals at Carr's.

Rev. Mr. Beatty's sermon on Sunday afternoon was a very able and deeply interesting discourse. Text 1st Kings, 18th chapter, clause of 30th verse, "And he repaired the altar of the Lord that was broken down." A crowded house and many testimonies given by persons present. Mr. Beatty is certainly a very forcible speaker whose heart and soul are in the work.

It is almost impossible to get a man to do work in town, such as sawing wood or ordinary work required about the house. All those who do such work are in the woods and there is daily demand for men by lumber operators. The scarcity has created an increase in wages.

Loose ice fills the river and is making on the shores to quite an extent outward.

SUPREME COURT CASE.

On Monday at Fredericton an appeal from the York County probate court was argued in the Supreme Court. A Mrs. Forrester died in Toronto in 1903 leaving considerable property in this province, but without issue. Letters of administration were granted to her husband, Major John Forrester, who claimed his residence as Fredericton. After administering the estate the Major died. On behalf of the next of kin, Hedley F. Grosvenor of Meductic then applied for appointment as administrator de bonis non. The major's nieces in England, who claim the whole estate, resisted Grosvenor's application, and nominated The Eastern Trust Co. The probate judge decided in favor of Grosvenor, and the English heirs appealed. E. H. McAlpine K. C. of St. John appeared in their behalf, while Mr. Grosvenor's interests were looked after by F. B. Carvell, M. P. After hearing arguments by learned counsel the Supreme Court decided in favor of Mr. Grosvenor and dismissed the appeal.

In civic circles the names of former Councillors H. E. Gallagher, R. B. Jones, G. E. Balmain, I. E. Sheasgreen and H. E. Burt are mentioned as more or less likely to be in the field. Of the untried aspirants R. E. Holyoke, Dr. Kirkpatrick, W. S. Skillen and P. Bradley are most frequently named but all deny the charge. Bashful, you know, just yet.

Fun and Destruction at the Black Firs.

Inspector Colpitts and his assistants put in some big work Monday afternoon near a secluded hollow in the Black Firs. The four or five loads of liquor seized at the Boundary one day last summer were carted to a quiet hollow and destroyed. The general public, a majority of whom would no doubt have been pleased to join in the ceremonies, did not have sufficient notice. Besides the Inspector there were present nearly a dozen officers of the law. One of these said that the stuff included brandy, whiskey, gin and champagne—of the latter commodity nearly five cases. The bottles were smashed on huge boulders, and on the frozen ground, in the hollow the liquor was half a foot deep, making a regular artificial lake. Perhaps three or four thousand dollars worth was thus destroyed by the stern will of the law.

An attempt was made on Saturday evening to steal a bag of oats from Gallagher Bros' stable. The culprit endeavored to lug the bag through a small passageway, but was unable to get it all the way out. The proprietors have a shrewd suspicion as to who is the guilty party.

The bowling alleys are still the centre of great interest on the part of young and old. Coun. J. S. Leighton has tied R. C. Lawrence's 204 with the pig pins while Arthur Grant and James McDougall are tied at 111 for honors with candle pins.

Demand Good Rubber Goods.

There's a tendency on the part of some rubber goods manufacturers to see how little pure gum rubber they can use in their goods and still have them called rubber. The demand for cheaper goods has brought on this condition, but as such goods do not wear, people are beginning to call for something better, and we are prepared to supply it.

Such goods as we are selling are decidedly cheaper in the long run because they wear years to the inferior goods' months.

When you want family rubber goods come here first and see what the real thing is like, and also what real values are.

We guarantee for one year.
