Our Hartland Letter.

J. ORANDALL EVERETT, J.P., - LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE.
Authorized to Solicit Subscriptions, Advertising and Job Orders.
Prompt Service Guaranteed.

Everybody exclaims what a very fine December thus far; mild and sunshine enough snow to make good sleighing in fact the best we can have throughout the entire season teams can pass each other anywhere no deep snow.

Samuel Harmon who has been a great sufferer from blood poisoning is convalescing. Dr Macintosh is in attendance.

There has not been sufficient rain to give influx to the brooks and streams. Wells are dry and many farmers find it inconvenient to water their stock. The main river has never been known to be as low as at present at this time of the year so water, water, water is the cry.

The reservoir for town supply is full and the flow into it is sufficient to keep it so still on account of some unaccounted for waste or leakage in the pipes it is found necessary to shut off the water from houses occasionally in order to be always provided with an abundance of water in case of fire.

Hartland's new paper called Chat made its debut on Saturday last. It is certainly a much better publication than the majority expected. Its colored advertisements and general appearance with spiky items and correspondence reflects much credit upon the management and if continued as commenced deserves liberal patronage.

Miss Cora Henderson and Miss L. Kimball of Windsor were visitors at the home of W S Henderson last week.

A son of A Miller has had a severe attack of appendicitis but through the skill of Dr Macintosh is recuperating.

Engine and machinery for the Cross Creek mill is on the spot and being placed in position.

G W Boyer was absent two days visiting Monquart on business.

The popular spectacle man of Boston made his semi-annual visit to this place last week and met the need of many eyes.

Mr Phillips of the house of Randolph was here a few days since.

Mrs J T G Carr, we are pleased to report, is recuperating.

Mrs Carter of Andover returned to her home on Friday last from a prolonged visit to her sister Mrs Taylor, Norfolk, Virginia. Both ladies are daughters of G R Burtt.

Bibles and books adapted for Xmas gifts at Everett's Agency.

The best way to help yourself in this world is to show a disposition to be helpful to others. It is the law of our being. We want to help those who are kind, who rejoice in our good fortune and sympathize with us in our afflictions. Naturally we like a man better when we see him stooping to lift the fallen than when we see him walking over people in a selfish desire to get ahead. Those who envy the success of their neighbors also disparage them and while because they have not been as fortunate are likely to be looked upon as sour and disgruntled. Although it is natural for a man to feel a little disappointed when he sees a whole lot of people passing him in the race of life the only thing to do is to plod along cheerfully and if your ill fortune is not due to some fatal defect you will finally arrive at the goal. It isn't well to hate people simply because they are prosperous or popular and it is mighty mean to neglect people who need your help. When you see an opportunity to do a man a good turn jump in and do it. Sometimes you may get the worst of it but don't let that discourage you keep right on. Don't look for gratitude for many people are forgetful and it takes all the grace out of a good and generous act to charge it up and keep your mouth open like a young robin in anticipation of a reciprocal favor. The greatest reward you can receive for a good act is an approving consciousness. Gratitude is a noble virtue and it is an attribute of every normally constituted human being but the real luxury of gratitude is in feeling it rather than in showing it. If you feel it you are bound to show it a little occasionally but persons who are eager to make an ostentatious display of it are most likely to be insincere and to have a lively anticipation of favors to come. Good actions give strength to ourselves and inspire good actions in others and always at least one hundred per cent on the investment.

There will be a donation visit made to Rev S A and Mrs Baker at their residence on Monday evening, 18th inst. Any and everybody will be welcome.

Keith & Plummer has an efficient staff to wait upon their holiday customers.

An additional lady clerk in J T G Carr's store.

Stephen McMullin, 79 years of age, personally delivers milk to the residents of the village morning and evening. Mr McMullin is enjoying a robust old age.

Herbert Dickinson has received a consignment of punge of comfortable appearance, good style and make.

Estey & Curtis are making a grand display of Xmas goods in their store and store adjoining.

J O Everett agent for Phoenix Fire Insurance Company.

Market prices on butter, eggs & same as last week.

For a Xmas hat or cap visit the Misses Thornton.

For fruit and confectionary don't forget Jennie McMullin.

Fine Bros have a large stock of clothing, boots and shoes.

For a good second hand pung apply to J O Everett.

John Leak, vice president of the H Horton & Son wholesale saddlery St John, was here on business a few days since.

The large windows of our stores are handsomely decorated with goods appropriate to the season.

Thos G Simms' book and accounts contracted with him when in the harness business have been left with J O Everett for immediate collection for the benefit of Mr Simms' creditors. A quick pay up will be forced, instructions imperative. After another week the unpaid Hurst bills will be enlarged by a bill of costs.

Rev Mr Beatty preached every night last week and three times on Sunday. The Sunday evening service closed the series undoubtedly much good has been effected and the faith of many increased.

Rev Mr Beatty persuaded to renew this week and Sunday next.

C H Taylor spent two days of last week in Houlton and vicinity.

Mrs S S Miller is receiving a visit from her sister Mrs Emma Henderson of Woodstock.

Miss Mabel Shaw has returned from Boston.

Geo F Kay our harness maker is having a wrestle with Jaundice but is confident that Dr Macintosh will bring him through.

Mrs Burtt of Centreville has been visiting her sister Mrs H Bradley.

LeBaron Moore of Connell was in Hartland on Sunday last and attended Rev Mr Beatty's meeting.

It appears unnecessary if not silly that bad blood should show itself with newspaper men. ADDON.

A Novelty on Exhibition Here

One of the most beautiful and artistic examples of pyrography ever seen here is now on exhibition in Garden Bros window. It takes the form of a smoking cabinet and stands about three and one half feet high. On its sides are fine reproductions of famous generals and other great men. Those who admire the artistic should not fail to gaze on the exhibit. It may be stated that the cabinet is entirely the work of Miss Mildred Hay of Millville, a sister of Mrs D McQueen and Mrs A Wilmot Hay of this town.

A Chance to Make Money.

There is big money in raising chickens. See what fine prices are the rule now. For some time at least 12 cents a pound has been the figure asked. If one raises a hundred 4 lb chickens that means nearly $50. Think what a nice tidy sum that is! Of course the old way, setting hens, is uncertain and played out. The safe way to hatch chicks is to use an incubator and the best incubator is sold by The Mansou-Campbell Co. They have a big ad in this paper. Read it and send them a post card for full particulars. Be sure to get their full address, Dept 134 included. This inquiry puts you under no obligation to purchase. The SENTINEL knows they are a reliable concern.

SCOTLAND FOREVER!

Scotsmen largely dominate the new cabinet of Great Britain. The Premier, the lord chancellor, the colonial secretary, the war secretary, the first lord of the admiralty, the secretary for Scotland, the secretary for Ireland and the Lord Lieutenant are all Scotsmen, while Mr Asquith and Mr Morley, two Englishmen sit for Scottish constituencies. It will thus be seen that the men from the land o' cakes have about all the posts worth holding. The Gordon clan has three representatives in the ministry:—Lord Aberdeen, his brother-in-law, Lord Tweedmouth, and his son-in-law Captain Sinclair, who married the beautiful Marjorie Gordon, for five years the pride of Rideau Hall. It is said that the leader of the House of Lords will be Lord Tweedmouth, another feather for the Gordons! It is not thought that the present premier will long continue to sit in the Commons, but will take a peerage, leaving the leadership of the lower house to Henry Herbert Asquith, perhaps the brightest light in the British political firmament.

There is an interesting little romance in connection with Mr Asquith. As most folk know he is a non-conformist, or to use the inelegant British term, a "ranter", being the son of a Congregational pastor. Though he was merely a poor youth and of no better social or financial position than that of school teacher he won the heart and hand of Miss Margot Tennant, an aristocrat of the aristocrats, young, high-spirited, beautiful and wealthy, who had, it is said, refused the hand of an Earl. But Miss Tennant had faith in her lover and it was not in vain. He is to-day finance minister of the kingdom at 53 and will be premier some day, so love's triumph will not be unrewarded. Two of the elder men in the cabinet are the Marquis of Ripon who while Grand Master of the Masons became a Catholic, and Sir Henry Fowler, who was the first Methodist to attain cabinet rank. John Morley, Secretary for India, is an agnostic, but for all that a power in the land. He was perhaps the closest personal friend of the late devout Mr W E Gladstone. David Lloyd George of Wales is with the exception of Mr Asquith and Mr Haldane perhaps the only member of the cabinet who can stand up to Mr Chamberlain in a give and take debate. His tongue is sharper than a two-edged sword, and woe betide the parliamentarian who crosses his path. Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, is a cousin of our present Governor-General. Those who think Sir Henry weak or incompetent must admit that he has displayed all the wisdom of the average canny Scot in surrounding himself with able helpers. Sir Henry has surprised his critics in forming his administration. He may surprise them still more by his tact in guiding it through the perils of a general election and the trials that come in the course of a troublesome parliamentary term. It is certain that his cabinet is by no means inferior to that which has just laid down the reins of power.

ROYAL ARCANUM.

At a meeting of the local council of the Royal Arcanum held Monday evening the following officers were duly elected for the coming year:—Regent, W W Hay; Past Regent, N F Thorne; Vice Regent, Major John J Troy; Orator, I Edward Sheagreen; Secretary, T C L Ketchum; Treasurer, John McLauchlan; Collector, Capt Thos Duncan; Chaplain, Coun James McManus; Guide, Jos Fewer; Warden, Sheriff A R Foster; Sentry, John Wallace; Trustees, Hugh Hay, James A Gibson, Thomas J Boyer; Rep. to Grand Council, Donald Munro; Alternate, W W Hay.

Death of W. M. Mills.

Readers of the SENTINEL will read with regret of the death of Wm M Mills, who died at his home in Middle Simonds, Wednesday, 8th inst, in the 80th year of his age. Until a short time previous to his death the deceased had enjoyed apparently good health. The cause of death was attributed to old age. Mr Mills had been a resident of Simonds many years, and as a neighbor was highly esteemed by all. He leaves an aged widow, one daughter and one granddaughter to mourn their loss. The funeral service was held at the home of the deceased by Elder M C Burtt, assisted by Elder Hiram Raymond. Words of comfort were spoken from Psalm 121, 1, 2. Interment took place in the Simonds burying ground—Com.

A WOMAN HANGED.

Mrs Mary Mabel Rogers was hanged at the Vermont State Prison at Windsor last Friday afternoon for the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers. The execution took place after the woman had been twice reprieved on account of appeals made in her case by her counsel, and after the United States supreme court refused to take action in the case.

Only a comparatively few persons witnessed the hanging, the number being restricted to those permitted to attend by the laws of Vermont. Mrs Rogers was pronounced dead by the prison officials at 1.27.

The crime for which Mrs Mary Mabel Rogers was executed was the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers, at Bennington, Vt., Aug. 13, 1902. She was then only 19 years old. She had been separated from her husband for some time, and was desirous of marrying a young man named Maurice Knapp. On the night of the murder Rogers met his wife by appointment in the woods, near the Wallomac River. While caressing him she induced him to allow her to bind his hands, and while he was powerless she chloroformed him. In this she was aided by Leon Perham, a half-witted boy, with whose mother she boarded. Another woman, Estella Bates, was present.

After the chloroforming Mrs Rogers and Perham rolled the body into the river, where it was found the next day. In order to divert suspicion the woman wrote a note, to which she signed her husband's name, giving the impression that he had committed suicide.

Immediately after the murder Mrs Rogers endeavored to collect her husband's life insurance of $500 and also made arrangements to purchase furniture for the house where she expected to live when she had married Knapp.

A few days after the murder Mrs Rogers, Perham, and the Bates woman were arrested. Perham made a complete confession, and both he and Mrs Rogers were found guilty of murder in the first degree. Perham was sentenced to imprisonment for life, and Mrs Rogers to death on the gallows.

Various futile attempts were made to induce the legislature, in which body the pardoning power rests, to pardon or commute her sentence. An effort to pass a law abolishing capital punishment likewise failed, and the legislature also denied an application for a state commission to inquire into her sanity. Governor Bell twice reprieved her in order that her attorneys might carry the case to higher courts, but the Vermont state supreme court denied her a new trial, and the United States supreme court declined to interfere.

The New British Cabinet.

In another part of this issue we give a list of the members of Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman's administration. It will be seen that he has gathered round him an exceptionally strong body of men, with the exception of Lord Rosebery including all the leading lights of Liberalism, and even the absence of that statesman cannot be much of a cause for worry when it is seen that his son-in-law, the Earl of Crewe, and his understudy the gifted Sir Edward Grey, have been given prominent portfolios. Even the opposition organs express astonishment at the success Sir Henry has achieved in gaining the assistance of the great men of his party. It will thus be evident to all that the new administration starts out with bright prospects for a successful career. It cannot at any rate be charged with internal weakness. Canadians will be glad to learn that Lord Aberdeen who was such a popular Governor General during his term of office in Canada has accepted the Lord-Lieutenancy of Ireland where he and Lady Aberdeen may be expected to rule with wisdom and acceptance. Herbert John Gladstone, son of the great former leader, has been given an important post, that of secretary of state for home affairs. Another scion of a former great Liberal is Louis Vernon Harcourt, commissioner of works and buildings. Perhaps the chief interest centres in the appearance of John Burns and David Lloyd George the well known popular leaders. The new Colonial Secretary, the Earl of Elgin, is a native born Canadian, son of the Governor General who was here in the troublesome period around 1849. Henry Herbert Asquith, the Finance Minister, is a sturdy non-conformist, a great statesman who some day will be premier.

Garfield Smith a former Woodstock boy and now employed as machinist in Boston is visiting relatives here,
