A PICTURESQUE CAREER.

ROMANCE IN THE LIFE OF HENRY W. DENISON, ADVISER TO JAPANESE.

There is much that is picturesque and romantic in the career of Henry W. Denison, who has come to this country from Japan as the special adviser of the Japanese peace commission. For years Mr. Denison has been counselor of the mikado on foreign affairs, and it is said that there is no American who stands so high as he does in the estimation of the Japanese people. He was born fifty-eight years ago in Guildhall, Vt., which is just across the state line from Lancaster, N. H. Residing early and sometimes doing chores for the family was his cousin, the late Charles A. Dana, who afterward rose to fame in the world of politics and journalism. As a rugged but somewhat uncouth schoolboy Denison lived in Lancaster and there fell in love with the village belle, Miss Nellie Cross, a member of the town's leading family. She did not at first encourage his suit.

In the course of time Mr. Dana, who had then risen to be assistant secretary of war, obtained a place for Denison in the treasury department. While working as a clerk he studied law. But the young man's health seemed to be failing and he became so ill that he was taken home to Lancaster to die of consumption, as his friends supposed. The White Mountain breezes so improved his health that he was enabled to return to Washington. Here he became interested in a young lady whose father about that time was appointed United States consul at Yokohama, Japan. He determined to follow the young woman to the Orient and so obtained an appointment as deputy marshal at the consular court.

Although the affair with the consul's daughter did not result in an engagement, it so happened that when the father returned to the United States young Denison succeeded him as consul. He made such a fine record that when his term expired the Japanese persuaded him to remain as counselor to the government of foreign affairs. He made a trip to America in the early seventies, and the first thing he did on reaching this country was to marry his old sweetheart, the Lancaster village belle. He has received many decorations from the mikado, and a banquet was given at Tokyo last spring in honor of his long service and signal achievements. All the dignitaries of Japan were present.

The Loss of Sadie Mac.

The untimely fate of the great trotting mare, Sadie Mac, will be a matter of keen regret to those who take an interest in outdoor sports. When Miss Wilks bought her at auction in New York last winter, she made a record as paying the highest price ever given for a horse to come to Canada—$15,500. That the purchase was a sound business investment was made pretty clear when, after her successful appearance at Detroit meeting, an offer of $30,000 was made for the mare, and the most gratifying aspect of the offer was that it was made by the man who drove her during the previous season, and who should know, better than anybody else, her real value. "If there is a two minute trotter in sight, it is Sadie Mac," was what George Spear said, after his offer was refused. No price, however, would have tempted Miss Wilks. She did not buy Sadie Mac to make a profit out of her, but for the sake of having the best trotter in America, and that is, no doubt, what she had. The mare had won all her races this season, and returned a large part of her cost, but that was not the feature that appealed to her owner. She wanted to see the champion at home at Crickston Farm, after her racing career had closed.

The successor to Sadie Mac would seem to be right in Miss Wilks' stable right now, in the champion three-year-old of the season, Katharine L, by Liberty Chimes—Gismonda by Gregory the Great. She was bought by Trainer Harry Skinson in February of last year for $4,500, and started but once as a two-year-old. That was in the Kentucky Futurity, in which she took second money to Bon Voyage. This year she has not been beaten, and she put in a second heat in 2:12 in winning the Tyro Stakes at Readville last week. Gismonda is now owned by Miss Wilks, and it is said, an offer has been made for the sire, Liberty Chimes, who is owned by Rev T C Stackhouse of Lexington, Ky.

What a Boy Can Do.

This is what a boy can do, because a boy has done it.

He can write a poem. Alexander Pope wrote his famous "Ode to Solitude" when he was only twelve years old.

He can write a great book. Macaulay wrote his first volume, the "Primaalse," which took the literary world by storm, before he was in his teens.

He can write a successful play. John O'Keefe, the famous Irish actor and playwright, wrote a play that is considered good to-day, when he was only fifteen.

He can become famous. Charles Dickens did his "Sketches by Boz" so well that before he was twenty-two his name was known to all the world.

He can "make his mark" so well that it will open his career. Palmerston, England's greatest statesman, was admired in school for his brilliant work, and wrote letters home in English, French, and Italian that are models of composition to-day.

He can enter a great university before he is thirteen. William Pitt did it.

Suppose you do like the tea you are using. How do you know it is the best tea you can get for the money?

MANY were satisfied with the tea they were using before they tried Red Rose Tea.

When they tried Red Rose Tea they found it had that "rich fruity flavor," found it was strong—that it requires less to make a cup of good tea than the brand of Ceylon alone they had been using.

Now, why not be sure you are getting the best tea to be had.

You cannot be sure till you try Red Rose Tea.

What Russia Has Lost.

Russia has lost its position as a ranking naval power. Its fleet in the Pacific is out to pieces and its great Baltic fleet has been destroyed. Russia has been routed from the Liaotung Peninsula, from Dalny, the Blonde and Elliott Islands and from Port Arthur the great harbor fortress, whose strength and position gave the Czar a position of dominance in eastern affairs.

The southern half of Saghalin Island is lost to Russia, an island over which a few weeks ago she had full sway and ownership.

Russia has been compelled by force of Japanese arms to concede that nations shall have full trade facilities in Manchuria, a privilege which she formerly jealously withheld.

The Czar's government refused before the war to recognize any right of Japan to seek influence and trade in Korea. As a result of the war Japan is given a preponderant influence in the hermit kingdom, with full power to advise the Emperor on all matters pertaining to commerce and to war.

Russia has recognized Chinese ownership in the eastern railroad connecting Port Arthur with Harbin. This involves a retrocession to China by Russia of property rights, and gives to Japan an opportunity to recoup her finances.

The Czar loses all influence in Manchuria, a province which his government was absorbing.

Birds Migrate at Night.

The question is often asked, why do birds migrate to a warmer climate at the approach of winter and return to their former haunts when the cold weather is over? A writer on this subject says that this migration is performed at night and mostly on clear nights. Only comparatively few species, such as ducks, cranes, certain large hawks, swallows, swifts and night hawks, migrate during the day time, and these, it will be observed, are rapacious birds, or mainly those that enjoy such power of rapid flight as to be relatively safe from injury or capture. All the vast hordes warblers, sparrows, finches, fly catchers, thrushes, and woodpeckers, as well as many waders and swimmers migrate at night. On clear, still nights during the migrations birds may often be heard calling to each other over his head, and may actually be seen with powerful telescopes. Woods and hedgerows that were untenanted one day may become alive with birds the next morning, showing that they have arrived during the night. They remain to feed and rest during the day, and if the weather be favorable may nearly all disappear the next night.

Our genial friend C M King has returned to his work in Centreville after a very pleasantly spent vacation, judging from all appearances.

The Bloomfield B B Club should feel proud over the fact that they have one in their team or can engage an individual with intellectual powers so brilliant and a mind so full of thought as to be able to compose an article so ridiculous as that of the description of the ball game at Williamstown. While the boys of this village admit their defeat yet their position is not so humiliating as that of the Bloomfield scribe.

We would call their attention to an article in the Montreal Daily Herald, Sept 13th, with the heading "Base Ball as She is Writ," followed by some of the "lucid paragraphs," as published in the Carleton SENTINEL of Sept 8th. We wish the Bloomfield team well, but hope if ever they have another glorious victory they will not write up the game in such an absurd manner that the press of our larger cities will use it to fill up their jocular columns.

The SMALL & FISHER

Thresher, Separator and Cleaner.

These are Indisputable Facts.

We claim our Thresher and Power to be the most durable machine on the market. We do not ask intending purchasers to accept this statement without proof, so, to get at the average cost of repairs on our machines, we selected recently the accounts of twelve men who purchased machines from us twelve years ago. These parties live so far away that they could not get repairs without ordering by letter or telegram, and having the account for repairs charged on account, the total sum of these twelve accounts amounted to $168.94. Fearing some parts might have been obtained through agents, we added to the above sum all repairs purchased by them (some of which no doubt were for other machines than the twelve), amounting to $53.95, making a total of $222.89 for seven years, being $33.55 per year for repairs, including teeth for twelve machines, and only the small sum of $2.78 per year for each machine. We do not doubt but what some repairs have been made by carpenters and blacksmiths near where the machines have been working, but if so it is not an advantage for a man to own a machine that does not require him to send perhaps 100 miles or more to the factory for repairs, at great expense of time and money.
