WAR ITEMS.

St Petersburg, May 12th.
The Japs have taken Peruna. Casualties not stated.

Tokio, May 11th.
The Emperor of Japan has composed another poem on the situation. Freely translated it runs as follows:—
"I am the prince of the Rising Sun,
When the fighting is over the war will be done."

Moscow, May 11th, 2.45 p. m.
Czar Nicholas slept soundly last night save for an interruption on the part of Kuropatkin per long distance telephone at 11.32. Here is the conversation:—"Dear Czar, I am excusing me for waking up yousky. The Japsky are on our rearsky. We are out of Whisky. Our situation is badsky. What will we dosky?"
Nick scratched his head a bit and responded in this manner:—
"Sprint fastersky old boysky, you are doing wellesky. The Japsky will never catch yousky." Then he hung up the receiver and fell into a dosesky.

OBITUARY.

At Clear View, N B, May 1st, 1905, after a short illness, Laura, beloved wife of Douglas Wolverson, aged 26 years. She leaves a husband and three small children, also a number of relatives and friends to mourn their sad loss.

Has your pathway been darkened my brother
Has the sun gone down at noon?
Do you grieve that the light of your household
Is blown out so sudden—so soon?
Look upwards though dark clouds may deepen
Though your eyes with tears may be dim
Twas our father in heaven who called her
She is resting now sweetly with him.

Her fellowship's now fully with Jesus
She feared more to live than to die
Her Saviour was ever beside her
Gently whispering "behind me is life!"
She is folded more close to his bosom
Safe in his arms she finds rest,
Oh! who would awaken the sleeper
In Heaven's warm circles caressed?

From the grave she gently speaketh
To the careless indifferent one,
In a moment thy life may be called for;
In a moment thy race may be run
Though the billows are raging about you
My brother, be thou not dismayed
To you, as to her, He is saying,
It is I be thou not afraid.

A FRIEND.

In New York city the number of marriages in a year is 40,000 and the distribution by months is so even that the lead of June is very small. Last year June led with 3,723 marriages, but there were 3,709 in December, a favourite month for marriages, and 3,604 in November.

ALFONDLY, (3) 2.12.

The attention of our farmers and horse-breeder is called to the advertisement of Alfondly, (3) 2.12, in another column of this paper. This great horse will be at Blanchard's stable, Mars Hill, every Tuesday during the season, starting on May 9. When anyone can show a larger, kinder and faster horse of equal breeding in this part of the country than is Alfondly (3) 2.12, we will agree to give up mentioning anything about Alfondly and talk only of the other and better horse. Alfondly is too well known in this town and vicinity, where he was owned by G. L. Foss for some time, to need any description or praise here. He carries a big percentage of the blood of old George Wilkes and Blue Bull, both among the most famous of horses for breeding on qualities, and his colts are now coming on finely. Gallagher Brothers of Woodstock have a two-year old from Alfondly that they claim can show better than a forty gait now. They are going to race him this fall and see what he can do. Such breeding, beauty, disposition, great speed and foal getting qualities as are found united in that remarkable horse Alfondly (3) 2.12, are not seen often in northern Maine or New Brunswick, and it really seems as if the man using him makes no mistake.—Fort Fairfield Review.

"YOUR COLLEGE"

Was the making of my boy," said one of St John's leading business men to us this week. "He was taking no interest in his studies. I placed him in your college, and before a week had passed he was sitting up till midnight at his work. He is now Treasurer of a company with a capital of $50,000, and has a salary of $200 per month. This is what we like to hear. This is what we endeavor to fit our students for.
