It is not a question of whether you will need a treatment for coughs, colds and croup in your home, but the question is, will you select the most effective medicine, or simply be satisfied to take whatever your druggist happens to hand out to you?

Time and experience have proven that you can depend on Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at

It is only necessary to remember this when the critical time comes, and to insist on getting what you ask for.

Should you have children who are subject to croup, you had better keep a bottle of Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, for when the choking spasm comes on there is little time to send for doctor or medicine. It seems scarcely necessary to dwell on the merits of Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, etc. Most of us have known it from childhood up. It is almost as familiar as Dr Chase's

The inquiries of your committee bave but strengthened and confirmed their belief that there is only one possible method of dealing with the liquor traffic-that enshrined in the Good Templar platform-absolute prohibition. No system which permits the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors shows any temperance results. High license, low license, South Carolina dispensory, Sweedish "bolag" and Norwegian "Samlag," Russian state monopoly, measure. Prohibition of the traffic is the only measure which is effective in doing away with drunkenness and its attendant train of poverty, crime and debauchery. If experience has demonstrated anything it ed its right to exist. It has not a power. Let us, therefore, disrobe draw to it the support of any patriot without n mber have been tried to make it a respectable and useful institution but all have miserably failed. Time has but established more clearly and irresistibly the fact recent issue of his paper. It seems that the traffic cannot be controlled that the Chatham Methodist elergy. and regulated. The one method of man, Rev James Strothard, is a dealing with the traffic which has strong beliver in "the book, the never failed is prohibition. Corrupt whole book and nothing but the officials may have failed to do their book." The logical but somewhat duty and enforce the law but prohicontentious commodore seldom bition has failed never. The Good Templar's duty is plain. He must never be turned aside by will o' the wisp schemes for making the traffic more respectable and inviting. Compromise must be rejected. The Good Templar ever loses by compromise. When he yields to it he weakens his position and sacrifices his most effective weapon to the enemy. Whenever the solid rock of principle is given up for the shifting sands of compromise and expediency, the birthright is sold for a miserable mess of pottage; and it is impossible to predict what depths it may be necessary to descend, what struggles will have to be passed through, and what mischief done ere duty's path is regained-for regained it must be ere the things : "Both on 'em willin, to carry triumph of our principles is complete. The demand must be rung out by Good Templars in every land, loud, emphatic and unmistakable, for the prohibition of the manufacture, sale and importation of intoxicating liquors. Whoever else may fail and falter the Good Templar must push the battle to the goal and rest not until the order's colors float over the last citadel of the drink
