Allen Woodrow, the goodlooking and gentlemanly teller in the Bank of Nova Scotia for the past year, left here Wednesday for St John, to which branch he has been transferred.

The burnt district along Main St is rapidly becoming an attraction rather than an eyesore. The new buildings are going up fast, and before another month all will be tenanted.

The Broadway Annex is coming along nicely. In less than three weeks the schools will be running smoothly in their permanent quarters, with the Sloyd work once more a feature.

The nuptials of a well-known Woodstock young man in the service of the C P R, and a charming young lady living at Canterbury, are to be celebrated about the middle of next month.

The Methodist people had a splendid time in the Armoury on Friday evening. The crowds that kept coming and going enjoyed the occasion immensely. About $260 was the net result.

The local football fiends threaten to get a team together this season. It has been a long time since Woodstock put a fifteen on the grassy plain, and it would seem like an opportune occasion.

The Henderson Furniture Company seem to be trying to work up interest in the local exhibition. They are planning to have a fine exhibit, and have offered a number of special prizes, particulars of which may be seen in our advertising columns.

Dr G B Manzer returned Monday from Boston, where he had taken his wife for medical treatment. The specialists in the Massachusetts General Hospital diagnosed her trouble as appendicitis, and a successful operation was performed.

The indications are that the bowling season will be formally opened on Monday evening by a match between the Champion Golfers and their old antagonists. In the event of either team being unable to get a line-up for the occasion a picked nine stand ready to take the field.

Warren Hale of Grafton who had been reading the accounts in some of the papers about big colts concluded he would see if a couple on his place were not in the same class. He found by applying the tape that a youngster not quite two and a half months old had a girth of 4ft. 5in. and another a month older went 4in. better. Evidently Mr Hale has the goods.

Early in October the Diocesan Synod will assemble in special session at Fredericton for the election of a Coadjutor Bishop. The names most talked of as likely are those of Archdeacon Neales and Canon Richardson. The former is admittedly the choice of the clergy. Woodstock people of all creeds are pleased to know that the Archdeacon is physically stronger than he has been for years, and while wishing him all the honors his church can confer, would be sorry to have him leave town.

The High Sheriff was in Bath on Tuesday.

J W Bohan of Bath was in town this week on business.

The people at McKenzie Corner and the offices nearby are agitating for a daily mail. In these days of rapid communication it seems as if their request has considerable to commend it.

Mr Rockwell, the new storekeeper at Avondale has started a guessing contest, in which he offers some fine prizes. Read this paper for particulars.

By an error in the last paper the voting contest was incorrectly reported. Miss Gallagher was given 3000 votes too many. The mistake arose through a figure 6 getting on its head and thereby looking like a nine.

John Page, principal of the Fredericton Model School and a former resident of Tracy's Mills, is getting to be a crack rifle shot. Last Saturday he won a spoon, heading his class on the range near Fredericton.

CH Rockwell, the enterprising and highly popular young storekeeper of Wilnot, has taken a lease of the Barter shop in Avondale, and transferred his headquarters to that village. Mr Rockwell is known as the destroyer of high prices, and should do well in the new and larger quarters.

The local golfers, about a dozen strong, went to St John last Friday night and on Saturday played against the Winter Port team. The visitors put up a hard fight and nearly won. They were well used by the officials and members of the St John club. One or two instances of a refusal to play the gentlemanly and social game somewhat marred the day's enjoyment. President McAvity, Secretary Harri, Mr J D Hazen, Mr Norman and the other gentlemen on the entertaining committee were most assiduous in lavishing hospitality upon the visitors.
