Girlhood and Scott's Emulsion are linked together.

The girl who takes Scott's Emulsion has plenty of rich, red blood; she is plump, active and energetic.

The reason is that at a period when a girl's digestion is weak, Scott's Emulsion provides her with powerful nourishment in easily digested form.

It is a food that builds and keeps up a girl's strength.

Witty Sayings.

The Suburban has an article on smart sayings of prominent men among them the late Sir John D. Thompson. Among the best of these is this: Sir John was dining at the not always indicate the most religion. government house in Ottawa, and the mosquitoes bothered him. The Governor General's lady, noticing the annoyance the Premier was subject to, remarked: "The mosquitoes are annoying you, I will have the windows closed."

'Pray, Lady Aberdeen," he replied "don't take the trouble, I think they are all in." This reminds us of an Eastern fable A traveller over a desert unable to rise and covered with flies which he set to work to brush off. The ass raised its head and begged the man to desist adding,-'These that are on me are now filled, if you drive them away a new and hungry swarm will settle down in their places and suck all the blood that is left in my body. Those now on have done their worst and are a protection against the hordes that hitherto have found no room." (E.C.)

More About the Scott Act.

The Supreme Court has handed down another decision which the temperance folk will hail with joy Magistrate Kay of Moncton fined a liquor dealer $200 on a first offense. The usual amount is $50 the minimum laid down in the Act. The dealer appealed, alleging that he had been too harshly fined, but the Chief Justice in giving judgment, said the penalty would stand. It seems as if this poor, despised Scott Act, is a pretty stiff weapon in the hands of men who know how, and are not afraid to use it.

Possibly a moralist might distinguish a lesson in the defeat of Hearst in the race for governor of New York. In it we see the simple result of a concentrated fire of a powerful combination of politicians, insurance and railroad corporations, marshaled by Roosevelt, generaled by his cabinet and aided by almost the entire army of Republican and Democratic leaders of the State. No other proof is required to confirm the truth of this than the success of the other nominees on the league ballot. The infelicities of married life for those rich American girls who seek titled husbands abroad have had two notable illustrations—one in the divorce proceedings of the Countess de Castellane, formerly Anna Gould, and the other in the separation of the duchess of Marlborough from the duke. Counsel for the countess told the court how the husband teased and abused her almost from the moment of their marriage, even striking her in the presence of servants. She now wishes to return to her home in America, and the courts have granted her the applied for divorce, she to retain custody of her c hilbren.
