THE DEMONSTRATION.

Over three hundred electors, the majority of them from outside the town, attended the meeting in Graham's Opera last Friday evening in honor of F B Carvell M.P. In addition there was a fair attendance of ladies. W W Hay presided, and after a brief introductory speech, read the following complimentary address:—

To Frank Broadstreet Carvell, Esq.
Member of the House of Commons for Carleton, N. B.

ESTEEMED SIR,—A large number of your friends and supporters in the Constituency have thought fit to meet here this evening to do you honor, as your efforts on behalf of the County are so much appreciated by all those who stood by you in the gallant fight in which you came out victorious in the effort to redeem the constituency from its period of Conservative representation,—and who are satisfied that the pledges you gave in that campaign were not merely idle words.

We realize that your strongest efforts have been put forth for the benefit of the people on every occasion, and they have been crowned with a degree of success which must be gratifying, not only to you, Sir, but to the entire electorate of this enlightened constituency.

We realize that while much has been done by you in the short period you have been our representative, still greater things may confidently be expected in the future.

Those of us who are interested in Agriculture were extremely pleased that one of your earliest speeches in the House was an effort to secure better seed for the farmers; this we feel was an act that commended itself to the whole body of Electors.

You, Sir, took a large part in assisting the several provinces in the effort to secure better terms from the Dominion Government, and the recent successful termination is in no small degree due to the persistent and forceful manner in which you assisted in presenting the claims of the local authorities.

Your constituents are unanimously delighted by reason of the assistance you gave in the effort to place upon the Statutes of Canada a measure that in a fitting manner protects the sanctity of the Christian Sabbath.

We are not unmindful that it is altogether owing to your representations to the department that we have in our Town the magnificent new Armoury, a building that reflects credit upon all concerned and fills a long felt want. This and other public works which have come to us during your term of office conclusively show that your representations carry great weight with the authorities at Ottawa, and it is a source of satisfaction and pride that we have as our member one who is willing to devote his time and energy on behalf of the people he represents.

Largely owing to your support, the various Rifle Clubs throughout the County have been provided with Government rangessomething which is appreciated in no small degree, and you as a Militiaman of long standing must feel a sense of deep satisfaction in being in a position to assist our citizen soldiers in their efforts to attain greater proficiency in the use of the weapons for the national defence.

While as yet, it is too early to speak with any degree of certainty as to the success of your vigorous and persistent work in upholding the claims of the Saint John River Valley with reference to the route to be followed by the National Transcontinental Railway, we are satisfied that you have left no stone unturned in order to make the best possible showing from our standpoint. While the many details of the work which you have done on behalf of the Valley must necessarily be somewhat unfamiliar to the general public, all are aware of the magnificent fight you have put up in the face of heavy odds; and we are hopeful that your efforts will ultimately be crowned with the success they so richly deserve and that before many years the whistle of the G T P will be heard in our County, and the Town of Woodstock be furnished with the Railway competition so essential to its future growth and prosperity.

Your course in Parliament has met with our undivided approval, and it is a source of the greatest satisfaction that we have in you a representative who is competent and not afraid to rise in his place and speak a word for the County whenever the opportunity offers.

We recognize that in the debates and proceedings of the House, you fill a large place, and it is our hope and expectation that in the not too distant future, you will attain still greater prominence.

In conclusion let us assure you of our best wishes for your continued health, and a magnificent degree of success along your chosen line of duty in the government of this young, great and rising Nation.

On behalf of your friends and supporters,

W W HAY
Chairman.

Mr Carvell, on coming forward to respond, was given a most flattering reception. He said it gave him extreme pleasure to see such a representative gathering of his friends and supporters. At the present when there is no election excitement it seemed quite extraordinary for nearly two hundred workers from all over the county to assemble. Plunging at once into his course in parliament, Mr Carvell said in his first year he had been somewhat diffident, as the House almost invariably views with displeasure any evidence of haste on the part of new members. Last year, however, he did speak more frequently, and in the committee work took a larger part, having acted as counsel for the Government in one or two investigations. When he first took his seat he was a little surprised at the extent to which party feeling is carried. Even over the Pure Seed Bill, a section of the Ontario Opposition fought strenuously against the measure, largely because, although a good act, it was introduced by the Minister of Agriculture. In his opinion the seed law is an excellent one, and he hoped it would do good.

As to better terms for the provinces he felt grateful that a large increase is to be given. In this connection he said the utmost credit is due Premier Tweedie and Attorney General Pugsley, who more zealously than the representatives of the other provinces, pressed for the increased subsidy. It almost seemed as if the honor were nearly wholly theirs. As to the public works within the county he felt pleased with the Armoury. Carleton County has more militia in proportion to population than any other rural constituency in the Dominion, and therefore deserved the Armoury. Speaking on the Railway question Mr Carvell said he had worked and is yet working as diligently as he could. While a few of the employees in the past seemed to have a prejudice against the Valley, Mr Carvell is satisfied that justice will yet be done. It is true that early in 1905 Engineer Lumsden and the Commission reported in favor of the Back Route, in which document the central route is laid down as of less mileage, and of equal freight capacity. The delegates who went from York and Carleton in July last year got the ear of the Premier. Within a few days after that memorable interview all previous reports were counteracted by the Government, and new surveys ordered, and as there was some question as to the prejudice of the old surveyors, the member for Carleton was given a say in the appointment of the officials to make the New Surveys. Finally he secured the appointment of two absolutely reliable men, Engineers Balloch and Balcom, to make up the results from these latest surveys. While as yet they had not officially given out the statistics, he felt he was divulging no confidence in saying their report will prove conclusively that a road may be constructed down the Valley at a saving of at least $1,500,000. This is true despite the fact that distance is slightly greater against us than we had previously supposed. An additional handicap of twelve miles seems to be the result,—yet the enormously superior gradients and the immense saving in the cost of construction gives the Valley a decided preference. From this it seemed to the speaker absolutely clear that we have the better route. He had fought the matter from the start and had a few more cards up his sleeve, and would play them. (Applause.) In this connection he felt it his duty to say that the present commissioners are men of sterling integrity. While we ordinarily look upon most Nova Scotians as biased in favor of the Back Route, it must be admitted that Commissioner McIsaac is absolutely fair and impartial. Sir Wilfrid Laurier wishes to do absolute justice; he will favor the better route. It must be kept in mind that the road is not a mere local enterprise. It is a great National Highway, and the only thing that can be done is adopt the best route. Mr Carvell said he is convinced that our chances are very bright.

To him it seemed particularly noteworthy that the opposition have shifted ground. Last session even Mr Crockett of York pooh-poohed
