

DOCTOR BRIGHAM SAYS

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womanhood is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructive ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are far enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female illness, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties."

"My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for female trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength."

"I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, bloating (or flatulence), weakness of organs, displacements, inflammation or ulceration can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If advice is needed, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. No other living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

AT ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE.

By M. O. Hammond.

Electric cars, electric lights, and a great display of wealth in church fittings have modernized Ste Anne de Beupre, but they have not robbed it of its charm. It is still halcyon ground to thousands of pilgrims who pray for relief from the ills of life, and it is a rare diversion of the many tourists who frequent the ancient and most interesting city of Quebec.

Since 1662 there has been a shrine at Ste Anne de Beupre, following the repentance and generosity of the Breton mariners who, threatened with shipwreck in the gulf, executed, on their safe landing, their vow to erect a memorial to the good saint who preserved them. Tradition says the first to be cured was Louis Guimont, a Petit Cap farmer, afflicted with rheumatism, who went, through devotion, to lay some stones in the foundation of the new church, and found himself suddenly cured.

What a record of history has been written since that ground was first consecrated to the healing of suffering humanity! There were then only three churches in all Canada. The work of the Jesuit Fathers, which was continued with such sacrifice during the succeeding century of French rule, was in its infancy. As early as 1665 Marie de l'Incarnation recorded the miracles at Ste Anne, where "Our Lord vouchsafes to work great prodigies at the intercession of the mother of the Blessed Virgin." Bishop Laval established the feast of St Anne as a holiday by a pastoral letter in 1667, and many times afterwards the shrine was the recipient of favors from distinguished figures in Church and State.

Next to the relics of Ste Anne herself, the most cherished possession of the Church authorities to-day is probably a vestment worked by her own hands given by the Queen of France, the mother of Louis XIV, in honor of whose birth she made a general distribution of gifts in 1666 to the churches dedicated to Ste Anne throughout France. Here is a statue of Ste Anne dating from 1662, to say nothing of two relics of Ste Anne herself, in the shape of pieces of bone from her body. These traditions says, were found in Apt, France, where the body of the mother of the Virgin Mary was taken in the first century after Christ.

At first a shrine of only local fame, Ste Anne de Beupre has grown in reputation until now it is visited by 200,000 pilgrims yearly. Two small churches had become a matter of history by 1676, and the third sufficed for the next two hundred years. The present magnificent basilica, commenced in 1876, has been enlarged and improved at different times, and to-day stands in this remote French-Canadian parish with few rivals in Canada in any denomination for the luxury of its furnishings. A Belgian statue of Ste Anne set in a nimbus of electric lights and erected on a pedestal of Mexican onyx, a communion rail and pulpit gorgeously ornamented by Scriptural scenes in bas-relief, some exquisite oak carvings and a high altar in marble and gilt, give an effect of richness seldom equalled in church architecture.

To add further majesty to the setting on the occasion of a recent visit of some friendly critics, the venerable Father Caron gave him to a comrade father, and a grand organ pealed forth. The music was of the old masters, the religion was of the misty past, the daylight was the dull grey of a rainy day, but the electric glow, made from the church's own plant, was truly a touch of the American continent. Suddenly the circle of lights about the head of Ste Anne blazed forth, and one read with appreciation the potent words of the sympathetic guide:

"Here broken hearts find the balm of consolation; here tears of sadness and affliction are changed into those of joy and gratitude; here the unfortunate whose lives are poisoned by wicked habits find repentance and pardon, and regain peace and happiness."

Scattered about the church were solitary pilgrims in search of comfort and healing. The pyramid of discarded crutches, reaching almost to the ceiling, and the hundreds of sacrificial gifts, even to the priceless rings of wedlock, tell the joy of humble souls who departed, believing that miracles had been performed at Ste Anne de Beupre.

Paralleling the main body of the basilica are numberless chapels and confessionals, while on the side hill beyond is the Santa Scala, or sacred stairs, which the pilgrims ascend on their knees. These stairs are modelled after those now in Rome, which Christ ascended to appear before Pilate in Jerusalem. Another building of interest is the chapel, erected from the materials of the old church, and containing several art treasures, including a painting by Le Brun. There are monasteries and convents and boarding-houses innumerable. But a few yards beyond the ribbon-farms of the habitants resume, and there they live their uneventful and devoted lives. The land was ravaged by Wolfe in his attack on Quebec in 1759, but to-day the children romp with their dog-carts, the brown-sailed bateaux tack up and down the St Lawrence, and the simple cultivation of the little farms goes on in the place that knows no disturbing from January to December.

Active Liver,
Good Digestion.

AND THERE IS NO MORE PROMPT AND CERTAIN MEANS OF KEEPING THE LIVER RIGHT THAN

KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

In calling your attention to Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills it is only necessary to point to their success in the past, for they are known in nearly every home.

By means of their direct and specific action on the liver—causing a healthful flow of bile—they regulate and enliven the action of the bowels and ensure good digestion in the intestines. At the same time they stimulate the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

This cleansing process set in action by Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills means a thorough cure for biliousness, intestinal indigestion, torpid liver, kidney derangements and constipation.

It means a restoration of health, strength and comfort where there has been pain, weakness and suffering. It means a removal of the conditions which lead to backache, rheumatism, lumbago, Bright's Disease, appendicitis and diabetes.

Mr Clement Chasson, Lamque N B, writes:—"I wish to say that I have used Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for Dyspepsia and they have proved of very great benefit to me. In fact they are one of the very best family medicines that I have ever come across. We always keep Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house and have recommended them to several of our friends who have also proven them of great value."

Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The supreme court of the Presbyterian Church has just threshed out the preliminaries of a union act with the Methodists and Congregationalists. In the autumn the general conference of the Methodist Church will be engaged in a similar task. We have to wait for the latter result, but the former is already ours.

The general assembly did two things. In the first place, it brought out, by individual and united testimony, that there was a spirit abroad, bringing a closer unity not only of heart but of thought and purpose. It is on record that negotiations, which seemed at first to be a "mere waste of time," turned out rich in promise and result. Separation seemed to be more of fiction than of fact, and difficulties were much smaller than appeared. Even on doctrine, they agreed substantially on such a strong basis of evangelical truth that it was considered sufficient as a working foundation. Over this matter there was no debate, and this remains a fact to be kept in memory.

Then the assembly agreed, by a vote of 179 to 22, to "go forward." That means that the next step is to be taken. It is this: The committees have met in various ways and considered the question on all its bearings; now it is handed down to the people, that they might be fully informed of all the views, findings and propositions of the theologians in the union committee. They may talk it over among themselves, but it is not desired, as the time is not ripe for them to vote on the subject in the sessions and presbyteries.

The reason is that the finding of the joint committee is only provisional, and it would be folly to ask people to do anything final, while it is in that condition. That is the plan as regards the people, but the committees are to keep on, and who knows but they may strike a snag in the near future?

This is really what the assembly did, but other things appeared. There are two great parties, who are standing on two different bases. There are still the old names and tendencies of conservatism and reform. The majority in the union committee appear to belong to the latter, but the delegates and very much mixed, and if all is true that one hears the people are strong for the former.

The reform element argue as follows: We have had unions before. Every charge that it is a lowering of the old flag has been used for generations. We were told that this and that denomination were "not sound," but we united with them and such union has only resulted in blessing; and so we may expect opposition to the end of time. Positively they claim that in a more spiritual interpretation of the Bible and in the light of modern thought, old doctrines have not their sharp edge, but are capable of being held in a higher and broader way. Thus it is the work of God for the strength of His church in Canada and the world.

The conservative takes the opposite ground. He asks where are we going? Have we to give up what we hold as dear as life itself to become something that we cannot honestly confess? Have we any guarantee that Methodism and Congregationalism are other than they used to be? Does anyone pretend that everything is so easy and so much alike that it will make no difference?

Thus, they ask for facts, and demand something definite. They are disposed to be critical and go slowly. They warn the church of a disunion, which will do more harm and be as great as the reverse. Then they are dissatisfied because the scope does not include Anglicans, Baptists and others, with whom many would sooner join than with Methodists and Congregationalists. They even argue that our Lord did not mean "corporate union," but that a healthy church must have a certain amount of diversity. They say, let us go on as a Presbyterian Church in the world; there is work for us that we can do better than others; let us aim at being the great missionary and evangelical church in Canada, and one of the best in the world.

There are these features, also: The young men in Ontario seem to be against union; in fact Ontario at present is strongly against it. Winnipeg, at least, seems to take the opposite view; but the far west, according to speeches solemnly made on the platform, was against it, and did not want it. Montreal is badly mixed up, as Halifax and the east have shown. For unless the eldership get their eyes open some way or other (for we noted the vote of very many prominent men from every province), they will be strong against union.

What will it come to. It is too soon to ask the question, and no one would be thanked for an answer. We risk this much, however. If corporate union be not yet at hand with Methodists, it is much more distant with Anglicans and Baptists. If we are to give up aiming at corporate union because every church will not enter, it is unhistoric, unchristian and unwise. Let corporate union be the ideal, but let no time limit be proposed, for it is the work of God, and a thousand years are with Him as one day.

BIGGER THAN MANITOBA.

Saskatchewan is Going Ahead With Marcellous Strides.

Winnipeg, June 16.—J H Haslam, one of the largest investors in Western farm lands, says the approaching census in Saskatchewan will show a larger population than Manitoba. The population in ten years will exceed two millions. There is as much land being broken in Saskatchewan as there is already under crop, leaving out of consideration old settled districts such as Indian Head. Saskatchewan this year will produce between forty and fifty million bushels of wheat. The development of Saskatchewan, adds Mr Haslam, is simply wonderful. There is no let-up to the influx of immigrants.

PILLS AND PILLS

A prolific cause of Piles is the use of cathartics and pills of a drastic, violent nature, which is always followed by a reaction on account of the resinous drying properties they contain.
