At a meeting of Christ Church Corporation on Tuesday evening last the following resolution moved by T C L Ketchum and seconded by J T Allan Diblee was carried by a standing vote:—

Whereas, since the last meeting of this corporation it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst, one of our most valued and useful members, in the person of the late Julius Thompson Carden, we, the Rector, Churchwardens and Vestry here assembled take this, our first opportunity to place on record the sense of our great loss. Since his early manhood Mr Carden took a lively interest in all church affairs, and devoted much of his valuable time and singular business ability to the aid of church work in the parish and diocese. That church matters in this parish are now in a satisfactory condition is due in a great extent to the services he freely and ungrudgingly rendered, particularly while he filled the office of churchwarden, an office from which only their knowledge of his enfeebled health, would induce the parishioners to permit him to retire. As a true and faithful servant of the Church he attended to his own religious duties and watched her interests jealously and the keen loss which we feel as individuals and as a body is softened by the sure and certain hope we have that to him have already been spoken the words by his Eternal Master "Well done."

Temper Preserving Hair Brushes.

A hair brush is a long lived article. Things that last should be bought right. A hair brush is one of the little things that add to or detract from daily comfort. A poor one won't penetrate the hair, and is a perpetual nuisance.

You can't get a poor one here, no matter how little you pay, and for 50 cents and upwards you can get the kinds that last a score of years and are a satisfaction while they last.
