

It is not the price you pay for a furnace that makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it afterwards consumes.

A common furnace may cost you $5 or $10 less than a "Sunshine," but if it eats this up the first winter in extra fuel, what do you gain? Nothing, but all the annoyance and extra work that go with a poor furnace.

The "Sunshine" is in use from Halifax to Vancouver, and we have hundreds of testimonials from pleased users.

Sold by enterprising dealers everywhere. Booklet free.

Mr. Carvell Speaks for the Christian Sabbath.

(Extract from Hansard.)

Mr. Carvell. I have voted against the amendment of the hon member for Labelle (Mr. Bourassa) and I think I am bound to vote against the amendment proposed by the hon Minister of Finance (Mr. Fielding). I do this because, in the first place, I want to be logical, and in the second place, in so far as I am concerned, I want to see one Sabbath in Canada and one only. I say in the first place I want to be logical. I cannot see any reason why the Jew should have the right to run his shop—I was almost going to say sweat shop—in the city of Montreal or some other portion of Canada, whereas the Seventh-day Adventist who, I believe, is honest and conscientious and so far ahead of the Jew that he ought not to be mentioned in the same class, is prohibited from working in the field on Sunday. It is not logical to allow one class of people to work on Sunday and to prohibit another class. In so far as I am concerned I say that both should be prohibited. There is only room in this country for one Sabbath. Hon members have said that this is a hardship. I am not going to attempt to go into discussion of this question because it has been discussed so thoroughly that there is nothing left to be said.

We have had practically the same law in New Brunswick for many years and in the province of Ontario there has been a valid law up to two years ago and the Jews and Seventh-day Adventists of these provinces have not suffered any very great hardship. There has been a great amount of common sense displayed in handling these people in the past and there will be a great amount of common sense displayed if these privileges are not given to these people. It has also been pointed out that we are inviting people to come here from all over Europe. While I have nothing to say against the Jew, yet, I think that there are more desirable immigrants than Jews, and I believe that if we refuse to pass this law every Jew who comes to this country will know the law which is in force here and if he does not like that law I would advise him to emigrate to some other portion of the globe. I feel that this amendment should be voted down on principle. I feel that we should have simply one law for every class of people in Canada and if these people do not like it they need not come here. As long as we do not invite people to desecrate the Sabbath day they will get along in the future as they have in the past.

MRS. HUNTER'S STORY

Says she and her Husband Agree Perfectly. Both Quite Well Again.

Mrs. I. Hunter, of 111 Eglinton Road, Kingston, Ont. has written for publication a statement of her case as follows: "I have suffered with kidney and liver trouble and chronic constipation for some time. I was subject to dizziness, bilious headache, nervousness, drowsiness, pains in the back and side, and a Wilson-Kyle Co. Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

"I tried almost every remedy, was treated by doctors and druggists with little or no benefit. Finally, a friend advised me to try Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill, and the results have been truly wonderful. My husband has used Anti-Pill for rheumatism and was benefited greatly. We agree that Anti-Pill is a most wonderful medicine and heartily recommend it." This is a very strong recommendation. Anti-Pill is undoubtedly the greatest of family remedies. All druggists, or the Wilson-Kyle Co. Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Increasing Among Women. But Sufferers Need Not Despair

THE BEST ADVICE IS FREE

Of all the diseases known, with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal, and statistics show that this disease is on the increase among women.

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when once the disease is fastened upon her. We believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for chronic kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent, painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am today a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I tell every suffering woman about my case. Mrs. Emma Sawyer, Conyers, Ga.

IN MEMORY.

In memory of Mrs. Peter Gallagher who died at her home in Newburg May, 27th, 1906 aged twenty six years.

Death has again returned to us, and placed his cold white hands

Upon the brow of a loving friend and broken wedlock banners

That were made one pleasant summer, scarce five short years ago

Up at the holy altar, with voices soft and low

And as their friends gazed on the scene, how pleased were all beside

To see how happy they were that day—the bridegroom with his bride.

But now alas! this fair young wife in her bloom is called away.

She died on Sunday afternoon in the pleasant month of May

Surrounded by her loving friends; father, mother and husband dear

To comfort her last moments as to the goal she drew near.

She has passed beyond this vale of tears, to the bright celestial shore

Where all is joy and happiness, and death can come no more.

Death does indeed bring changes; life's prospects bend down low

They fade away like the dew at morn; the step feels weak and slow

Life's fair hopes then are shattered, and grief it has full sway

The mourning friends are gathered round to solace and to pray

To offer consolation to the grieved and aching hearts

That were made by Death's parting,—by Death's cruel piercing darts.

We mourn, we cannot help it; as our mother when He died

Mourned for our Saviour on the cross—Our Jesus crucified.

And all these things are God's own works; we must be reconciled

To go on living, working in this world that is defiled,

Until our time shall come when we'll be called away

To join our friends who have gone before and never from them stray

To be near God's own throne on heavenly islands blest;

Where sweetest music will be heard and everything is best.

Farewell then dearest Agnes we lay thee down to rest

In our quiet village churchyard near the home that you loved best.

And on quiet summer evenings as we stroll along the shade

We'll visit your grave, then growing green that Death so early made

And offer up a prayer for you to God that's up above

To be kind to our friend Agnes in His mercy and His love,

For God is merciful we know; in psalms His praise is sung;

He has called Agnes home to rest, the good die young.

TOO BIG TO PARADE.

Barnum & Bailey Continue Successful Experiment of Eliminating Street Pageants.

A circus that is "too big to give a street parade" is a novelty even in these days of colossal enterprises and mammoth amusement institutions. But that is the announcement of the Barnum & Bailey circus, which exhibits in Woodstock on Saturday, 29th inst.

In speaking of the reasons for this striking innovation, a representative of the big show, said recently: "The Barnum & Bailey circus has become so large that a parade is no longer possible or even desirable. If we could be absolutely sure of getting into town by daybreak, the parade would still be feasible, but with our five long trains of cars, this is too much to expect of the railroad companies. In many instances it is 8 or 9 o'clock before the last section arrives, and 10 o'clock before it is unloaded and the paraphernalia transferred to the show grounds. This leaves just sufficient time to erect the big tents and prepare for the afternoon performance. To take several hundred men away from the show grounds at the most critical time in the morning, in order to give a parade, would mean delay in opening, and consequent discomfort to the public. To compel thousands of people to stand out in front of the entrance in the hot sun or rain, because the giving of the parade has delayed the opening for an hour or more, is positively cruel; but there is frequently no help for it when parades are given. By eliminating the parade the public is also saved a long and often uncomfortable wait on the streets pending the always more or less delayed procession, which at best has nothing new to offer, to say nothing of the interference with public traffic and the business of the city's merchants. Many municipal governments have recognized the later facts by either refusing to give licenses for parades, or by making the tax so high as to be prohibitive. Street parades were all right when circuses were small, and were necessary from an advertising standpoint. The Barnum & Bailey show is too well-known to need advertising of this character, and instead of wasting time and energy on a conventional street display, every effort is concentrated upon the performance."

The experiment of cutting out the parade was tried in this country for the first time last season, and the circus man was asked what effect the innovation had upon the business of the big show.

"If anything, it helped the patronage," was the reply. "The necessity for eliminating the parade because of the magnitude of the show was generally recognized and the public was anxious to see a show that was actually too big to give a procession. Before the advent of the show in some of the Western cities there were some unfavorable comments regarding the 'no parade' feature, even in the press; but after the public and the newspaper men saw the performance, noticed the increased vim and ginger that was installed into it because the performers and animal were not overworked, and the greater enjoyment of the people because they had not been worn out by a long period of tiresome waiting, there was but one verdict, and that was that the elimination of the parade was a success from every standpoint."

The Barnum & Bailey circus is the only one that has had the courage to cut out the parade. Another well-known showman when asked if his show would follow suit, replied: "I would like to, but I can't. The Barnum & Bailey circus is the only one that is big enough to do it."

And it is evident that it has introduced this innovation in the circus world because the show gives popular satisfaction without the aid of what is at best a conventional display of so-called pageantry.

The absence of the parade is more than compensated for by this year's big arena acts and "thrillers." There are a number of big sensations and the structural steel used in these startling acts alone utilizes the carrying capacity of several railroad cars. Incidentally, it is announced that a splendid free show will be given on the exhibition grounds daily at 11 and 5 o'clock, by Prince Youturkey, a remarkable performer on an elevated wire-cable.
